FRENCH HEDGE ON GIVING U.S. PACIFIC BASES

Will Insist on Their Rights, Frisco Told

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 2—There was a flurry of excitement today in the purlieus of the international conference to abolish war over the American delegation's plan to place conquered enemy territories under peace league trusteeships and establish international bases for use in the enforcement of peace.

On the eve of the consideration of the plan by the chief delegates of the Big Five powers tomorrow, French Foreign Minister Bidault, who will represent France in the Big Five meeting, called a press conference and, speaking in French, was understood to say that France never would surrender sovereignty over Dakar, Noumea, and New Caledonia for the establishment of international bases.

Clarifies Nation's Stand

Asked tonight to clarify his statement and to say whether France would permit the United States to establish bases in any of these French possessions, with France retaining sovereignty, M. Bidault said: "France is ready to participate in world security as much on the question of bases as on anything else involved, but considers it necessary to know the conditions under which French sovereign territory would be used."

"France is not against the principle of bases, but wants to know exactly the conditions. France will go as far as any of the other powers in permitting use of territories for bases, but first wants to know what the other nations will do."

He said at his press conference that he looked favorably on the American proposal of trusteeship for subject peoples but was sure French Indo-China would not be one of them because it is neither conquered enemy territory nor a country governed under a mandate of the old league of nations. Bidault said Indo-China is "completely outside such discussions and will remain so."

Dispute on Voting

Other knotty problems confronting the conference as it got down to business today were:

1. The proposal, supported by the American and Russian delegations, that a two-thirds vote in the commissions, committees, and the conference itself be required for the adoption of amendments to the peace league plan drafted at Dumbarton Oaks. The plan is vigorously opposed as placing small nations at a disadvantage.

2. The voting arrangement agreed to by the Big Three at Yalta, later approved by China and France, whereby any one of the Big Five powers in the security council could veto the employment of force or economic sanctions against itself or another nation accused of aggression or other breach of peace.

3. The companion provision that a big power of the security council

Truman Asks 7 Billion Cut in War Budget

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 2—Congress was cheered today by the first economy program received from the White House in 12 years of Democratic rule.

Swinging the economy ax, President Truman called for a 7 billion dollar cut in shipbuilding funds, a combined reduction of more than 80 million dollars in the budget estimates of eight agencies, and announced termination of the office of civilian defense by June 30 in withdrawing its budget estimate of $369,000.

The reductions would be applied to the 1946 budget, the last one submitted by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Would Repeal Appropriation

In slashing funds of the maritime commission, the President recommended repeal of an appropriation of $3,100,000,000 and of contract authorizations of $4,265,000,000. The repeal would leave the commission with $2,242,500,000 for completing the present ship construction program and $600,000,000 for future ship construction, reconversion of vessels, and restoration of shipbuilding facilities.

Cuts OWI Budget

Mr. Truman's recommended budget changes were as follows:

OWI—A cut of $12,100,000 in the proposed $54,100,000 budget because of expected conclusion of psychological warfare and a curtailment of activities at home and in neutral and allied countries. Activities in the far east will be intensified by the $42,000,000 balance.

WPB—A cut of $8,894,000 in the proposed budget of $48,042,000 thru removal of various control orders over materials which will follow victory in Europe.

Censors Funds Reduced

Office of censorship — A cut of $4,800,000 in the budget of $19,150,000 on impending discontinuance of censorship in some areas upon victory in Europe.

ODT—A cut of $3,300,000 in the budget of $11,000,000 because of anticipated improvement in transportation by Dec. 31.

FSA—Elimination of the education and training program for defense workers, cutting $43,710,400 from the $44,845,300 allotted for this purpose.

Seeks to Help Aged

An increase of $15,000,000 was recommended in the FSA's proposed 1946 budget of $416,000,000, largely to provide aid to older people and mothers with dependent children who are temporarily employed in war jobs but who are expected to cease work when the war ends.

WMC—A cut of $1,598,000 in the budget estimate of $15,598,000.

Office of scientific research and development—A cut of $13,200,000 from the $90,700,000 budget estimate because of favorable progress of the war.

PAW—A minor cut of $345,000 in the proposed petroleum administration far war budget of $4,345,000 due to domestic adjustments.

RATION BONUSES FOR FRISCO FETES

Society Hostesses Get OPA Aid

Yanks' Food Cut 10%

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 2—It was officially announced today that food rations of American troops engaged in light duties in the European theater will be reduced 10 per cent.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 2—In the utmost secrecy, OPA experts in this host city of the world security conference today tackled a task fraught with peril to international amity.

With many a look over their shoulders, rationing technicians compiled a table of red point values which will serve as a guide for the award of extra meat stamps to hostesses entertaining conference delegates.

The office of price administration maintained a frightened silence about this hush-hush document, but details were obtained from several of the 2,000 or 3,000 highly official but unquotable authorities.

British, Reds Top List

The British and Russians, it was learned, have been placed at the top of the red point list.

The Britishers' beef eating reputation gave them top billing, it was explained, and the Russians were rated equally because their capacity for enormous meals already has astonished—and appalled—many a hostess. A tentative rating of 12 red points per guest per meal was said to have been established for these two nationalities.

Uneasily aware this new form of protocol may produce jealousies, the experts rated the Chinese, Turks, and Dutch next in order, also on the basis of a national reputation for the consumption of large and luxurious repasts.

Americans Last

France and the Latin American republics came next on the list. Americans, accustomed to tripe, sweetbreads, vegetable plates, and an absence of butter and cheese, were placed near the list's bottom.

The OPA previously had refused to consider the plight of would-be hostesses of foreign emissaries, mindful of a state department edict there should be no formal receptions or dinners for delegates, especially during the mourning period for President Roosevelt ending May 13. The ban on small parties was lifted last week.

'Senseless for Germany to Continue War'—Rundstedt

WITH U. S. 7TH ARMY IN SOUTHERN BAVARIA, May 2 (AP)—Field Marshal Gen. von Rundstedt, Germany's top military strategist taken prisoner by American troops south of Munich, told his captors today it was senseless for the reich to fight any longer.

Advised of the reported death of Adolf Hitler, the Prussian aristocrat commented without elaboration: "Adm. Doenitz has been in charge for some time."

Von Rundstedt said that he went to Berlin on March 10 to bid Hitler farewell and that the fuehrer seemed to be in good health then but was "shaking like he had the palsy."

He said Field Marshal Kesselring was somewhere in Bavaria and Field Marshal Walter von Model was either dead or captured.

Captured by Lieutenant

The man who directed the German armies at the peak of their success and again just before they sank to the depths of defeat, was captured by a young American lieutenant. The field marshal was surprised at his home in the little spa of Bad Toelz, about five miles from Munich, with his family last night.

The capture was made by Lt. Joseph Burke of Jacksonville, Fla., and a detachment from the 36th infantry division. A 7th army announcement said it was Burke's first combat assignment since he received a battlefield command three weeks ago. Taken prisoner with the field marshal was his son and aide, Lt. Hans Gerd.

He was brought to the command post of Maj. Gen. John Dahlquist, 36th division commander, at 3 a. m. He made his comments about Hitler and Doenitz there before being driven away in a blinding snow storm to Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army headquarters.

Lost Command on March 1

At Gen. Patch's headquarters Von Rundstedt said he was relieved of his command on March 1 because of failing health. This was shortly after his Ardennes break-thru failed. The field marshal appeared tired and nervous from the long trip from Bad Toelz and declined to answer questions of newsmen. However, he readily accepted an offer of Maj. Gen. Frank W. Milburn, Lafayette, Ind., commander of the 21st army corps, to sit and chat.

For more than an hour the former German commander in chief in the west talked—sometimes bitter, sometimes melancholy, and sometimes whimsical.

"Painful for an Old Soldier"

"This is a painful experience for an old soldier," he said in a low voice. "Forty-three years. . . . A very painful experience."

Von Rundstedt accepted coffee and cognac and, a bit embarrassed, asked for a cigaret.

Col. Rinaldo Von Brunt, San Antonio, Tex., pulled a package of a popular American brand from his pocket, but Von Rundstedt's physician, who had accompanied him, protested: "His heart!"

"I'd rather smoke than eat," Von Rundstedt said, "and I like your brand best. There are few things left now—and the doctors try to keep me from enjoying them."

Respects U. S. Air Power

Von Rundstedt expressed great respect for American air power and said that the chaotic condition of the heavily bombed French roads and rail lines around D-day—particularly in the Paris area—prevented him from bringing up troops to counterattack.

"It was amusing when I had my headquarters in Paris, at Versailles. The French said they did not fear air raids because Gen. Eisenhower and I had agreed not to bomb each other's command posts," he said, grinning broadly.

While Von Rundstedt was being taken, other 7th army troops were uncovering other surprises. The 10th armored division and 44th infantry liberated a group of 90 French and Belgian generals and ministers at Plan See prison. They included Emile Ricard, former French assistant chief of staff; Paul Ricard, former Belgian minister of prisons; and Jules Frederic, Belgian banker.

Near the border of Austria, Prince Albert and Princess Marie of Bavaria were found at a hunting lodge in Amer forest and with their retinue were put in protective custody.

More Yanks Freed

John Thompson, Chicago Tribune correspondent with the United States 1st army in Germany, cabled last night that he was gathering the names of 2,200 liberated American prisoners. He will begin cabling these names early today. The names of midwesterners will be printed in the Final edition of The Tribune Friday morning. The names of the others will be distributed by The Chicago Tribune Press Service to newspapers in all parts of the United States.

GOEBBELS ALSO DIES, CHIEF AID SAYS; NAZI CAPITAL WON IN 12 DAY BATTLE

Adm. Doenitz Ousts Foreign Minister Ribbentrop

Three Versions

The Germans and the allies appeared agreed today that Hitler was dead, but they disagreed on how he met his end. There were at least three versions:

RUSSIAN—He committed suicide [Moscow war bulletin].

GERMAN—He met a hero's death in the battle of Berlin [Hamburg radio].

AMERICAN—He died or was dying of cerebral hemorrhage [Supreme headquarters statement attributing the report to Heinrich Himmler].

In Washington President Truman said he had it on the best authority that Hitler was dead, but did not know how the death occurred.

Field Marshal Von Rundstedt, captured in Bavaria, said "Adm. Doenitz has been in charge for some time."

LONDON, May 3 [Thursday]—(AP)—The soviet official bulletin today quoted a high Nazi official in conquered Berlin as stating that Adolph Hitler, Propaganda Minister Goebbels, and the new German general staff chief, Gen. Krebs, committed suicide before the capital fell.

Count Schwerin Von Krosigk

No details whatever were given as the bulletin, delayed well past midnight, said:

"Taken prisoner were Hans Fritsche, first deputy of Goebbels in propaganda and the press; Press Chief Flick, and government counselor Heinrich Dorsch. During interrogation Dr. Fritsche stated that Hitler, Goebbels and the newly appointed chief of the general staff, Infantry Gen. Krebs, had committed suicide."

Fritsche's report indicated that

HOW FOE GAVE UP IN ITALY TOLD BY EYEWITNESS

BY HERBERT G. KING
[Representing the Combined American Press]

ROYAL PALACE AT CASERTA, NEAR NAPLES, May 2 (AP)—Nearly 1,000,000 German soldiers were surrendered to the allies in a 12 minute ceremony here Sunday.

Col. Gen. Heinrich von Vietinghoff-Scheel

The surrender, which was negotiated by two German officers representing their commanders, Col. Gen. Heinrich von Vietinghoff-Scheel and Gen. Karl Wolff, affects the two German armies in the whole of northern Italy and western Austria. Vietinghoff, 58, had taken over from Field Marshal Albert Kesselring when the latter was transferred to the western front in March.

On the allied side the negotiations were carried out by British Lt. Gen. W. D. Morgan, chief of staff at allied headquarters who represented Field Marshal Alexander, allied commander in chief in the Mediterranean.

"Practically in Berchtesgaden"

Morgan said afterward that Von Vietinghoff commanded the whole of Italy as far east as the Isonzo river, making the point that the agreement did not affect the Trieste area under command of Austrian Gen. Lehr. He said, however, that Gen. Wolff had authority over all of Tyrol, Vorarlberg, and Salzburg provinces in Austria and parts of Carinthia and Styria provinces.

"This puts us practically in Berchtesgaden" [Hitler's Bavarian hideout], he added. The allies are now free to march within 10 miles of Berchtesgaden.

Representing the American press, I witnessed the surrender which took place after several days of secret negotiations.

The Germans had intimated their willingness to come to some sort of agreement more than a month ago, but the conditions were not acceptable to the allies, who went

Rostock Captured; Junction with British Near

LONDON, May 2 (AP) — Berlin, greatest city of the European continent and capital of Adolf Hitler's blood drenched empire, fell to the Russians at 3 p. m. today [8 a. m. Chicago time] after 12 days of history's deadliest street fighting.

Seventy thousand German troops were captured in the final cleanup as the remnants of the shocked and riven garrison laid down its arms, Premier Stalin announced in an order of the day broadcast from Moscow tonight.

Stalin's order made no mention of Hitler, who the Nazis said had died in his shattered reichschancellery yesterday.

Nor did it mention Propaganda Minister Goebbels, Berlin gauleiter and Nazi propaganda minister who had been credited by the German radio with standing at Hitler's side in the defense of the city.

The order listed as commander of Berlin an artillery general named Webling and said he was among those captured.

Rostock Captured

Stalin's order was his third of the day. He had built up to the climactic fall of Berlin with orders announcing the death or capture of 120,000 Germans since April 24 with complete destruction of the German 9th army southeast of Berlin, and the capture of Germany's last important Baltic port, Rostock, in a 44 mile drive by the 2d White Russian army.

For the conquest of Berlin his proclamation called for the top Moscow victory salute of 24 salvos from 324 cannon in tribute to the armies that took Berlin: the 1st White Russian and 1st Ukrainian.

Those armies, commanded by Marshals G. K. Zhukov and Ivan S. Konev, had jumped across the Oder 16 days previously, and on April 21 fought into Berlin. They encircled the sprawling city, which already had been wrecked by American and British bombers, and tore the remains to bits in some of the bitterest big scale street fighting of all time.

Round Up 70,000 in 6 Hours

The garrison surrendered at 3 p. m., European time, according to Stalin's announcement, and by 9 p. m. 70,000 men had been numbered as prisoners.

Whatever feebly flickering hopes the ragged, hollow eyed survivors of Berlin may have had of miraculous last minute salvation were snuffed out when Stalin announced the destruction of the German 9th army, which had been encircled for a week southeast of Berlin and had tried in vain to break back into the capital.

Then came the strategically important but less dramatic advance of the 2d White Russians along the Baltic coast, taking Rostock and seven other towns.

This placed the Russians but 29 miles from the British who took the Baltic ports of Luebeck and Wismar.

Remaining to the Germans north of the ashes of Berlin was only a twisting, virtually indefensible strip on the Mecklenburg plain about 30 miles wide and steadily narrowing.

[Berlin largest city ever conquered. See story on page 6.]

Hamburg Gives Up to British

LONDON, May 3 [Thursday]—(AP)—Hamburg has been declared an open city, the Hamburg radio announced today, and British forces under Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey will enter the port at noon today.

The broadcast was made in the German language in the name of Secretary of State Ahrendt. It decreed a curfew for the entire population and declared that restrictions on civilian movements depended upon "the behavior of the population."

Hamburg, since the siege of Berlin by the Russians began, was the greatest German city still wholly in German hands. With the Berlin radio silent, it had been the source of most German radio reports. Hamburg, at the mouth of the Elbe river, is Germany's second largest city with a pre-war population of 1,682,220.

North Germany in 3 Pockets

PARIS, May 2 (AP)—Northern Germany was split into three pockets today by British capture of Luebeck—where Himmler sued unsuccessfully for peace—and a second American 9th army junction with the Russians on the Elbe river at Baelow, 60 miles northwest of Berlin.

The United States 3d and 7th armies raced 20 to 30 miles thru cracking enemy lines in the south and virtually completed the subjugation of Bavaria. The 3d army was 16 miles from Linz and possibly 40 miles from a junction with the Russian southern army.

Tank columns of the 7th army's 12th armored division deep in the Alps entered Seefeld, only eight miles northwest of Innsbruck, control point for all east-west lines thru the nazi redoubt area, and in a 30 mile sweep south of Munich reached the Inn river 45 miles west of Berchtesgaden.

The 7th army captured Field Marshal Hugo Sperrle, former commander of the German air forces on the western front and accused of directing the London blitz, and Field Marshal Maxmilian von Weichs, commander of German armies in the Balkans.

Close Up to Inn River

The 3d army to the east closed up to the Inn river on a 40 mile front and was on the river opposite Hitler's birthplace of Braunau, Austria. Braunau was erroneously reported captured on Tuesday. At that point the 3d army was 45 miles north of Berchtesgaden and 33 miles from Salzburg.

The British 2d army and American air borne units assigned to it cut loose from the Elbe bridgehead in gains of as much as 50 miles that quickly overwhelmed the Baltic port of Luebeck. Its fall cut off Denmark.

Thirty miles to the east the British 6th air borne division seized Wismar, 29 miles from the Russians.

On the right flank the United States 82d air borne division marched unopposed southeast to Domitz, giving the allies control of both sides of the Elbe for a distance of 50 miles east of Hamburg.

Another pocket was formed when the 333d regiment of the 84th division on the east bank of the Elbe joined with the Russians six miles southeast of Wittenberg.

MILLIONS TAKEN INTO EUROPE BY U.S. HEIRESSES

Dowries Second Only to Lend-Lease Billions

American heiresses have poured money into Europe's coffers thru the "marriage for title" route in quantities that beggar anything short of lend-lease, a survey showed yesterday.

The last time anybody bothered to make a concise survey, which was about 30 years ago, there were 454 American women, representing the cream of American wealth, who had married titled foreigners. The number today, of course, is far greater — some sources say it has tripled.

The fortunes of these 500 to 1,500 extremely wealthy families, all of which have been tapped by impoverished European noblemen who married the heiresses, amount to billions of dollars. One writer several years ago claimed that 60 of the wealthiest American families held fortunes totaling 15½ billion dollars.

36½ Billions for Lend-lease

Lend-lease, on the other hand, has cost American taxpayers about 9 billion dollars a year, or a total of 36½ billions for the last four years, a recent report by Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, disclosed.

There is hardly a top ranking American fortune which does not have a pipe line to Europe thru a titled alliance. Two descendants of England's most illustrious man, John Churchill, first duke of Marlborough, conqueror of Bavaria and hero of the "glorious victory" of Blenheim in the War of the Spanish Succession, married three American heiresses.

In 1888 the eighth duke of Marlborough married the widow of Louis Hammersley of New York, who complained that no matter how much money she gave him "he always borrows more." The ninth duke married Consuelo Vanderbilt, daughter of William K. Vanderbilt, who gave the titled bridegroom a $2,500,000 marriage settlement, buttressed by another $5,000,000 from Mrs. Vanderbilt. After Marlborough and Consuelo were divorced in 1920, the duke married Gladys Deacon, daughter of Edward Parker Deacon of Boston. She had inherited great wealth from her mother.

Used to Restore Castle

Vanderbilt money restored the ancient castle of Blenheim, one of the most historic in England, and endowed the duke's estate with $100,000 a year, along with an annulment settlement of $3,000,000. All of it came out of America.

When Vanderbilt died he left $100,000,000 to his family. He never had time to enjoy the money.

Identified in prestige right along with the Vanderbilt clan of that day were the Goulds, another railroad empire family, two of whose heiresses also married titles. Anna Gould married Count Boni de Castellane in 1895, paid $1,700,000 of his gambling and racing debts, settled $3,000,000 on him, built him a $2,000,000 marble palace in the Bois de Boulogne, and bought him a chateau near Paris and a $200,000 yacht. Later, she divorced him and married the Duke of Talleyrand. Vivien Gould married Baron Decies.

Gould the Promoter

Where Commodore Vanderbilt was a builder, Jay Gould, the founder of his family, was a promoter who had to make restitution for the sale of $5,000,000 in fraudulent stock in the Erie railroad which he controled, and whose purchase of gold in a speculation intended to promote freight thru a rise in the price of wheat led to the "Black Friday" panic of 1869.

The Astor family fortune, founded in the fur trade and American real estate of John Jacob Astor I., was dedicated even more completely to the British empire. William Waldorf Astor, the heir, renounced the United States for England, where his American properties bought him the title of lord. His son, William Waldorf Viscount Astor, owns Hever castle and has four sons and a daughter. Rachel Spender-Clay, granddaughter of the first Lord Astor, married David Bowes-Lyon, son of the earl of Strathmore and a brother of the present Queen Elizabeth. Ava Alice Muriel Astor, sister of Vincent, married Prince Serge Obolensky, a Russian.

London Home of 120

There are dozens upon dozens of others, all American names identified with great wealth, who are linked to the titled houses of Europe thru marriage. The survey of 30 years ago, which named 454 titled American women, disclosed that British nobility had a far more profitable trade in "selling" titles than the nobility of any other nation. London was the home of 120 of them, while 26, some of whom must have had British titles, lived in the United States. France had 118 and Rome 56, some of them doubtless with central European titles.

Barbara Hutton of the Woolworth fortune married Prince Mdivani and later Count Haugwitz-Reventlow. Millicent Rogers of the Standard Oil fortune married Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraaten, Austrian tennis player. The railroad fortune of Collis P. Huntington went to Europe thru an adopted daughter, Clara, who married Prince Hatzfeldt-Wildenburg. Estelle Manville of the asbestos family married Count Folke Bernadotte, a nephew of the king of Sweden.

Margaret Strong, granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, who inherited $25,000,000 in his will, married Marquis George de Cuevas of Spain. Almeric Hugh Paget, Lord Queensborough, married the late Pauline Whitney, a cousin of Jock and Sonny Whitney of the Standard Oil family, and daughter of William C. Whitney, once secretary of the navy. Another Paget, Sir Arthur Henry Fitzroy, married Miss Minnie Stevens, daughter of Paran Stevens of New York.

All of Wealthy Families

Viscount Guy Maidstone married Margaretta Drexel of the extremely wealthy Philadelphia family. Baron Zedlitze-Lippe married an heiress of the Ehret brewing fortune of New York. Prince Antoine Albert Radziwill married Miss Dorothy Parker Deacon of the wealthy Boston family, whose sister was the second wife of the ninth duke of Marlborough.

The duke of Roxburghe, who had a 60,500 acre Scottish estate, married Mae Goelet, a cousin of Consuelo Vanderbilt, who inherited $20,000,000 from her father, Ogden Goelet, and $3,000,000 more from her mother.

Clara Longworth of Cincinnati, a sister of the late Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house of representatives and husband of Alice Roosevelt, daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt, married Vicomte de Chambrun of Paris. Cornelia Roosevelt, a cousin of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, married Baron Clemons von Zedlitz. Margaret Thaw Carnegie, widow of George L. Carnegie, who was a nephew of Andrew Carnegie, married Count Roger de Perigny, bought him a 15,000 acre estate in Kenya colony and left a $2,000,000 estate to pay him a life income.

Heiress Wed to Prince

Anita Stewart, heiress of the pioneer New York department store fortune and a sister of William Rhinelander Stewart, married Prince Miguel de Braganza, pretender to the throne of Portugal.

Jean Reid, daughter of Whitelaw Reid, former ambassador to the Court of St. James, who married a daughter of Darius Ogden Mills, part owner of the Comstock lode, became the wife of Lord John Ward of Chilton, Hungerford, England, and, with her mother, a leader in British high society. A cousin, the wealthy Beatrice Mills, married the earl of Granard.

Whitelaw Reid became editor of the New York Tribune with the help of Jay Gould and the Mills fortune went into the development of the paper, which has become the most ardent Anglophile organ in America. Ogden Reid, the ambassador's son, married Helen Rogers, his mother's social secretary, and at her suggestion he purchased the old New York Herald in 1924, merging the two papers into the Herald-Tribune. It has lost none of its Anglophile enthusiasms under Mrs. Ogden Reid's guidance.

The house of Rospigliosi in Rome boasted four ardent titled suitors who wooed and won American fortunes. Prince Gianbattista married Ethel Julia Bronson of New York. Prince Francesco married Laura MacDonald Stall [Standard Oil] of Cincinnati. Prince Giuseppe married Marie Reid Parkhurst of New Orleans and Prince Ludovico married Mildred Hazeltine of New York.

Among the more sensational marriages were Peggy Hopkins Joyce's wedding to Count Karl Gustave Morner of the Swedish nobility on money obtained in a divorce settlement from J. Stanley Joyce, wealthy Chicago lumberman, and the wedding of Wallis Warfield Simpson to Edward VIII., no cash involved. Edward was forced to renounce the throne and Wallis became duchess of Windsor instead of queen of the empire and empress of India. British royal society has not encouraged any advances from her.

Field Fortune Involved

Of all the millions of dollars taken out of Chicago thru marriage for title, no family ever supported more royalty, nobility, and titled gentry than that of Marshall Field, the pioneer Chicago store keeper who started out with nothing but American ingenuity and a new idea in merchandising.

Ethel Field, who was the merchant prince's only daughter, divorced Arthur Tree, son of Judge Lambert Tree of Chicago, to marry Capt. David Beatty of the British royal navy. Beatty, the son of an Irish cavalry captain and gentleman horse dealer, did equally well, professionally and financially. He became England's "boy admiral," and for his part in the battle of Jutland was rewarded with the titles of earl of the North sea and of Brooksby and first lord of the British admiralty.

Professional navy men did not rate his ability highly. He was charged by Adm. Sir Reginald Bacon with missing a complete victory over the German fleet at Dogger Bank when he permitted himself to be scared off by the wash of an enemy submarine periscope. At Jutland, he divided his battle cruiser force and lost another victory, altho he had more and bigger ships than his opponent. He even had battleships before the action was over, but his losses were much the heavier.

Makes Botch of Retreat

When he retreated to the battleship fleet under Adm. Jellicoe, his navigation was at fault. He could not advise Jellicoe as to the position of the German fleet when the admiral signaled an inquiry. Not only had he failed to order air reconnaissance himself, but he was derelict in failing to inform Jellicoe of an intercepted German message asking air reconnaissance the next morning.

His wife inherited $5,000,000 from her father. When she died, she left $1,000,000 each to her husband and three sons, along with a castle, a London home, two country estates, and the "seat," Brooksby. Brooksby wasn't actually a ducal seat, but Lady Beatty ran it that way, entertaining King George V. and King Alfonso of Spain, who was in exile, at regal fox hunts.

Her sons stayed British and kept the American money in the United Kingdom. They are Ronald Tree, who is a member of parliament and former secretary of the British ministry of information; David Field Beatty, Viscount Borodale, who succeeded to the title of earl, and Peter Randolph Louis Beatty. All are first cousins of Marshall Field III., who came up from a different and equally Anglophile branch of the family.

Buys Home in England

Marshall Field Jr., brother of Ethel, married Albertine Huck, wealthy daughter of a Chicago brewer. They had three children, Henry, who died in 1917, Gwendolyn, and Marshall III. Marshall Field Jr. purchased a country home in Leamington, England, near Ethel's estate and Albertine took her three children there when he was killed. She was presented at Buckingham palace and moved in high British society.

Eventually, Albertine married Capt. Maldwin Drummond, who came from a titled but far from wealthy British family. It was reported that King Edward VII. frowned on the match. He hoped that she would bestow her hand on Prince Francis of Teck, brother of Queen Mary, who was required to marry money. Two of Albertine's sisters already had married titles, Freda being the wife of Baron Kunowski, a Saxon, and Daisy the wife of Marchese Spinola of Italy. Minna Field, niece of the original Marshall Field, married the late Maj. Algernon Burnaby, master of Quoruhounds and close friend of Edward Windsor, after her divorce from Preston Gibson, society playwright and playboy.

Contrary to the provisions of their grandfather's will, the three Field children, Marshall III., Henry, and Gwendolyn, were educated in England, the boys at Eton and Cambridge. Gwendolyn married Charles Edmonstone, elder son of Sir Archibald Edmonstone, groom-in-waiting to Edward VII., and made American history by being the first woman to renounce her United States citizenship.

Marshall Field III., to whom the bulk of the Chicago mercantile fortune passed thru a series of iron-clad tax free trusts, lived the life of an English country gentleman in both the United States and England. He built a replica of his English estate on Long Island, replete with 28 buildings which included kennels, stables, and a mansion of some 200 rooms. He returned to America when English taxes became high. The Field fortune still is administered wholly toward furthering the interests of the British empire.

Other Avenues of Revenue

The merchandising genius of Marshall Field provided other avenues of revenue for impoverished European nobility. Levi Z. Leiter was one of the original Field partners of the '80s. His socially ambitious wife frequently declared she would marry her three daughters to British titles and she did exceptionally well.

Daisy Leiter married the Earl of Suffolk and Mary Leiter became the bride of George M. Curzon, who, because of her money, later rose to be a British lord and viceroy of India. As British foreign minister after 1919, Curzon refused to transfer the British West Indies to this country in repayment of the war debts. Lady Cynthia, daughter of Curzon and Mary Leiter, married Sir Oswald Moseley, M. P., leading British fascist, who spent most of the war in prison and was denied the so-called right of English free men to charge and trial under the war time security acts. The third daughter, Nancy, married a British major, Colin P. Campbell.

Almost Becomes Queen

Chicago mercantile fortunes were far from the only ones to which European nobility gained entrance and control.

Hazel Singer of Chicago married Prince Jean Ghika, a Romanian, and almost became the queen of Albania. She settled a fine dowry upon the prince, but society writers reported that he was dissatisfied, claiming his bride was not so rich as he had imagined and that he needed $75,000 a year for his personal expenses alone. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Singer. Her mother was the former Miss Florence Palmer, cousin of the first Potter Palmer, and her father was a sewing machine magnate.

Winaretta Eugenie Singer, daughter of Isaac Singer, inventor of the sewing machine, married Prince Edmond de Polignac, the family whose name is synonymous with champagne and American heiresses. She has since died. Another De Polignac, Prince Guy, married Gladys Dupuy, daughter of Mme. Paul Dupuy, who before her marriage was Helen Browne of New York and Chicago. Still another De Polignac, Marquis Melchior, married Mrs. James B. Eustis, formerly Miss Nina Crosby, daughter of Walter Floyd Crosby.

Weds Future Admiral

Mildred Washington Bromwell, of the Lake Forest and Washington, D. C., society family and daughter of Mrs. Charles S. Bromwell, married Capt. Sidney R. Bailey, son of Sir Ralph and Lady Bailey of Lofts Hall, Essex, who was later knighted and before his death became an admiral of the British fleet.

Mrs. Florence Crane Robinson, plumbing fortune heiress and daughter of the late R. T. Crane Jr., married Prince Belosselsky of the Russian nobility. Miss Belle Dunham, heiress and landowner of Wayne, married Count Morelli, Italian nobleman, bringing him a dowry of $350,000 worth of Illinois land.

Italia Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair of Chicago, married Count Ricardo de Soriano, Spanish nobleman.

Miss Edith Fairbanks, wealthy daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Fairbanks of Chicago and Indianapolis and granddaughter of Charles W. Fairbanks, who was vice president of the United States in the Taft administration, married Count Ruggero Visconti di Modrone, son of Count Giovanni Visconti di Modrone of Milan, Italy.

Penitent Heiress Returns

Miss Ruth Lamson, daughter of S. Warren Lamson, who was president of the Chicago Board of Trade and left an $800,000 estate, married Count Giovanni Cardelli of Italy, whose grandmother's brother was Pope Leo XIII. The count died and she returned to Chicago, one of the many penitent American heiresses who petitioned to regain United States citizenship thru naturalization.

Evelyn Florence Pardridge, daughter of Charles W. Pardridge, wealthy Chicago grain operator and merchant, married Prince Nikolas Engalitcheff, former Russian consul in Chicago. They were divorced and she also renounced her claim to title before her death. Edith Storey of Chicago became the Marchese Didoffo Peruzzi di Medici, marrying a member of the famous Italian family.

The Paris wedding of Miss Ethel Spenser-Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spenser-Brown of Chicago, to Comte Edouard de Gramedo of France was a social event, altho Chicago society writers of the day said she was virtually unknown here, having lived most of her life abroad.

The family of William C. Goudy, Chicago attorney and leader in national Democratic politics, also made foreign marriage alliances. His daughter, Helen, married a British subject, Capt. Gerard Leigh, and became known as one of the most beautiful women in English society.

Leaves $435,000 Estate

A sister of his wife, Carolyn Walker Goudy, who as Marguerite Walker was a belle of Chicago society in the 90's, married Oliver Henry Wallop, son of the earl of Portsmouth, to whom the title descended.

Count Giangiullo Rucellai, son of Count and Countess Cosimo Rucellai of Florence, took as his bride Miss Teresa Higginson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson Jr. of New York, Chicago, and The Lodge, Lennox, Mass. Alice Silverthorne, a niece of Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, married Count Frederick de Janze and then Raymond Vincent de Trafford, son of Sir Humphrey de Trafford.

Irma, only daughter of the late Martin H. Kilgallen, steel millionaire and builder of Chicago Heights, married Count Jean Jacques von Mouriok de Beaufort of Belgium. Society writers of that day said that Kilgallen, who had started life as an iron puddler, took the count by the seat of his trousers and threw him down the steps of the Kilgallen home.

Marries Second Heiress

De Beaufort, undiscouraged by his first marital reception in America, married Miss Helen Reiman, daughter of a wealthy Terre Haute, Ind., merchant.

Virginia Tietgens became another Chicago princess. After a divorce from Thomas Leonard Deuell, a Chicago stock broker, she married Prince Odescalki of Budapest and lived for a time in Hamburg, Germany.

Another heiress of the Armour family, Miss Marianna Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Clement Dunn, whose mother was Mary Armour, sister of A. Watson Armour, married Count Guy de Balliet Latour of Brussels, Belgium, one-time president of the international Olympic committee.

May Yohe Wed to Nobleman

Gloria Swanson, the movie star who always said Chicago was her home, married the Marquis Henri de la Falaise de la Courdray of Paris, who, after a divorce from her, married another movie actress, Constance Bennett, also divorced from him.

May Yohe, prominent Chicago actress of the 90s, who also reached outstanding popularity on the New York and London stage, married Lord Francis Hope, heir to the dukedom of Newcastle and possessor of the Hope diamond, a stone which had a sinister reputation of bringing misfortune to its wearer.

Madcap Merry Fahrney, the Chicago patent medicine heiress, six times wed, had noblemen for husbands No. 3 and 4. No. 3 was Baron Arturo Berlingieri of Italy, and No. 4 was Count Oleg Cassini, who maintained the American entente by marrying Gene Tierney of the films.

Rosemary Baur of Chicago, socially prominent daughter of Mrs. Jacob Baur, married Baftie Bull, conservative member of the British parliment and son of W. Perkins Bull, K. C., of London and Toronto.

Eleanor Patterson, daughter of the late R. W. Patterson of Chicago and present publisher of the Washington Times-Herald, married Count Josef Gizycka, a Russian nobleman, in 1904, and divorced him in 1917, dropping her title. In her testimony at the divorce hearing she described him as a cruel, eccentric, and dissolute nobleman whose sole object in matrimony was money, and who "had a contempt for everything American."

UNITED CHICAGO DAY WILL BE CELEBRATED IN STADIUM MAY 27

United Chicago day will be observed at a mass meeting in Chicago Stadium at 7:30 p. m. May 27, Mayor Kelly said yesterday. He announced that he has named himself chairman of a committee of 100 representative citizens whom the council April 23 authorized him to select to have charge of the observance. The meeting, the mayor said, will pledge support to President Truman. The program will include music, and the appearance of stage, screen, and radio stars.

SPAIN INTERNS LAVAL, VICHY CHIEF OF STATE

Ordered Held When He Refuses to Leave

MADRID, Spain, May 2 (AP)—Former French Premier Pierre Laval, under death sentence in France as a Nazi collaborationist, fled to Spain today and was interned for disposition by the allies.

Mrs. Pierre Laval

The chief of the Vichy government during the days of Hitler supremacy and his minister of education, Abel Bonnard, with him on the plane, were ordered placed in a fortress near Barcelona by Generalissimo Francisco Franco when they refused to leave Spain immediately after landing from Germany in a JU-88.

Supreme headquarters in Paris announced immediately that France would demand custody of Laval, Bonnard and five persons who accompanied them on the flight. Representations to the Spanish government already are under way, it was reported.

Held for Allies

The Spanish foreign office announced that the Frenchmen were being held for disposition by the allies and Laval told the Spaniards that he would surrender only to an allied commission.

Also with Laval and Bonnard were Mrs. Laval, Bonnard's son, Eugene; two Frenchmen named Neraud and Gabolde, and two German pilots. Mrs. Laval was offered her freedom here, but elected to stay with her husband.

The decision to intern the group followed a two hour debate between Laval and the Spanish authorities at Barcelona. Franco's original order was that the Frenchmen be allowed to refuel their plane and be escorted by Spanish fighter planes to the nearest [French] frontier. The former Vichy chief of government, it was reported, was offered the alternative of leaving Spain immediately or being held for the allies. He was said to have pleaded for the right of asylum, but agreed to internment.

Laval, sentenced to death in absentia by the French at Marseille Oct. 20, 1944, objected to being forced to go to France, asserting he would not "get a fair trial."

In Military Prison

The group was placed in the nearby Montjuich military prison. None had a passport or any other documentation and they identified themselves.

United States Ambassador Norman Armour, when news of their arrival reached Madrid, hurried to the Spanish foreign office to lodge an official protest. Franco was informed at once and when Armour returned to the American embassy he announced that "all contingencies had been covered."

ODOR OF DEATH STILL PERVADES DACHAU CAMP

DACHAU PRISONER OF WAR CAMP, GERMANY, May 2 (AP)—The stench of corpses, filth, and pollution, the peril of typhus and the horrible spectacle of the "living dead" still pervaded the Nazis' Dachau prison camp today. But American troops and military government officials have moved in and started to cleanse it of the filth. There is food for the hungry, and those who can smoke receive cigarets.

The Americans learned that many more of the notables Germany had seized were spirited from the camp to a stronghold in the Tyrol, Austria, just before the advancing Americans liberated Dachau. Among these was Nicholas Kallay, former Hungarian premier who had been believed dead.

A niece of Russian Foreign Minister Molotov, listed as Aleksei Hokorin; a son of Italian Marshal Pietro Badoglio; a German General von Falkenhausen, and at least one member of the Krupp industrial family were among those also reported removed from Dachau.

FOOD CONVOYS ROLL THRU FOE'S LINES TO DUTCH

INSIDE FORTRESS HOLLAND, May 2 (AP)—Canadian army convoys rolled across enemy lines in western Holland today with 1,000 tons of food for 3,500,000 starving Dutch civilians.

Biscuits, cooking fat, milk, stew, pea soup, sardines, flour, sausages, beans, and coal were driven thru the enemy lines to sustain the health of civilians in such an acute stage of starvation that the Germans became alarmed and allowed the allies to supply them with food.

Set Up Food Corridor

WITH CANADIAN 1ST ARMY, Holland, May 2 (AP)—Canadian and German commanders have agreed upon a 10 mile corridor thru the Grebbe line southeast of Utrecht, thru which to move food to Dutch civilians. It extends from the Waal Rhine north across the Lek to the Utrecht-Arnhem railroad.

DRESDEN RAID KILLED 300,000, SAY EX-CAPTIVES

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS NEAR DRESDEN, May 2 (AP)—British prisoners of war returning thru the American lines today said Dresden police told them that 300,000 persons were killed in the historic 14 hour allied air raid which wiped out Dresden Feb. 13 and 14.

In the group of allied prisoners freed by order of the German commandant were 241 British and Hollanders and 350 French.

Nine of the British were working in a Dresden factory at the time the three raids struck in a 14 hour period, and they said the destruction, horror, and devastation were beyond human comprehension.

No Records of Evacuees

"The first raid started shortly after 10 p. m. Feb. 13," said a private of an East Yorkshire regiment. "We went into a cellar when the warning of the raid reached us.

"We later heard reports from Dresden police that 300,000 died as a result of the bombing. That didn't include deaths among a million German evacuees from the Breslau area who were trying to escape from the Russians. There were no records on them.

"But after seeing the results, I believe their figures were correct. They had to pitchfork shriveled bodies on to lorries and wagons and cart them to shallow graves on the outskirts of the city.

Flamethrowers Used

"But after two weeks of work, the job became too much to cope with and they burned bodies in a great heap in the square in the middle of the city.

"The most effective way was to take flamethrowers and burn the dead as they lay in the ruins for sanitary reasons. They would just turn flamethrowers into houses, burn the dead, and then close off the entire area.

"The whole city is flattened."

The Germans themselves in a propaganda newspaper published for the prisoners spoke of the "death of Dresden," said the outlines of the city were extinguished, and that tens of thousands had been "buried in mass graves."

BELIEVE DOENITZ KEPT IN DARK ON MOVES IN ITALY

LONDON, May 2 [Reuters]—The first unconditional surrender of this war—of northern Italy and Austria—was signed by the German commander and also significantly by Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler's collaborator and ex-chief of staff, SS. Gen. Karl Wolf, last month—that is, before Hitler's reported death.

Thus, Himmler's associate acted on his chief's precept before Adm. Doenitz gave the order to continue the fight. Himmler evidently knew what was going on, but it seemed as if Doenitz was kept in the dark as to the full extent of the Italian and Austrian surrender.

The surrender evidently was Himmler's reply to Doenitz's attempt to take charge of negotiations with the allies. It is reported now that on his second trip to Germany Count Folke Bernadotte was met not by Himmler but by Doenitz and Field Marshal Von Busch, the German commander of the northwestern front, giving evidence of a great struggle waging inside Germany between the supporters of different policies.

Churchill's Nephew, Freed by 7th Army, Going Home

WITH U. S. 7TH ARMY IN BAVARIA, May 2 (AP)—Giles Romilly, young nephew of Prime Minister Churchill and a correspondent for the London Daily Express, is en route to England after being liberated from a prison camp near Munich by the American 7th army. Romilly, son of Mrs. Churchill's sister, was taken by the Germans in Narvik, Norway, in 1940.

GERMANS QUIT WAR IN ITALY IN 12 MINUTES

2 Officers Say 'Ja' and Million Surrender

ahead and launched their offensive to beat the Nazis to their knees.

The negotiations had been long because of the difficulty of transporting the two German representatives back and forth between Caserta and their northern Italian headquarters by special plane.

In British Map Room

The Germans publicly admitted defeat in a room on the second floor of this 18th century Italian renaissance palace. On the plain walls, white in the glare of a battery of eight movie lights, hung two staff maps of northern Italy.

The room, which had been used by Marshal Alexander as his map room for many months, was furnished only with one long table and two chairs. Two worn carpets were on the pink and white marble floor. Alexander was in the building but not present at the surrender.

A door opened at the south end of the room and the British, American, and Russian officers who were to witness the signatures filed in quickly, followed by Morgan, who was to sign for Alexander.

At 9:08 [Chicago time] the door at the north end of the room opened and in strode the athletic-looking six-foot typical Junker representing Von Vietinghoff and his short, stocky, companion. Both were in civilian clothes — sports jackets, flannel trousers and brown shoes.

One of them attempted with an impatient gesture to motion the cameramen away as they advanced to get close-ups; but the gesture died halfway as he remembered his role no longer was to command.

Wait On General Morgan.

With eyes red from lack of sleep and his jaw muscles twitching, the pale, tall Prussian stood with his calmer comrade waiting for Gen. Morgan, a white-haired, red-faced Welshman, to open the proceedings. In a calm, clipped voice Morgan said:

"I understand you are prepared and empowered to sign the terms of a surrender agreement. Is that correct?"

The tall German said, "Ja" [yes]. His companion waited for the translator to tell him what Morgan had said and then answered, "Jawohl" [yes indeed]. Morgan then said:

"I have been empowered to sign this agreement on behalf of the supreme commander, the terms to take effect by 12 noon, May 2, Greenwich mean time [7 a. m. Chicago time]. I now ask you to sign, and I shall sign after you."

At this point the Prussian, possibly in a move to "cover" himself, interjected in German:

"May I repeat before signing the point I made during the negotiations, namely, that I personally am going somewhat beyond my powers, but I assume that my commander in chief, Von Vietinghoff, will accept—but I cannot be entirely responsible."

Again—"Jawohl"

Morgan replied: "It is understood, is it not, that these terms, if accepted, enter into force at 12 noon, May 2? Is this correct?"

Both Germans nodded and said, "Jawohl."

Morgan said: "I now ask you to sign these documents," and the translator repeated his words in German to the two pasty faced negotiators in a loud voice to be heard above the whir of the movie camera.

Von Vietinghoff's man sat down and signed five sets of the document, and his companion did the same. Morgan then quickly affixed his signature and, rising, said to the German emissaries:

"I give you three copies, one of which is in German. I am retaining the others for the supreme commander and the allied governments." After a brief pause, he added: "Thank you, gentlemen. I ask you to withdraw now."

The Germans turned and passed out thru the door.

Surrender Terms Told

The following terms were imposed:

1. Unconditional surrender by Gen. Von Vietinghoff's command of all land, sea, and air forces to Field Marshal Alexander.

2. Cessation of all hostilities on land, sea, and in the air by enemy forces at 12 noon May 2.

3. Immediate immobilization and disarmament of enemy forces.

4. Obligation on the part of the German commander in chief to carry out any further orders issued by Field Marshal Alexander.

5. Disobedience of the orders or failure to comply with them will be dealt with in accordance with the accepted laws and usages of war.

"The instrument of surrender stipulates that it is independent of, without prejudice to, and will be superseded by any general instrument of surrender imposed by or on behalf of the united nations and applicable to Germany and the German armed forces as a whole," an allied announcement said.

Von Vietinghoff is expected to come out of the Nazis' "national redoubt," in the Alps tomorrow, to surrender to Alexander or to Gen. Clark, United States commander of the 15th army group in Italy.

Dash Toward Austria

Before the surrender was announced allied armies were reported within less than 30 miles of the Austrian border as dazed remnants of the German army in Italy surrendered piecemeal.

British armored spearheads dashed toward the Austrian border beyond captured Udine, northeast of Venice. New Zealand troops linked up with Yugoslav forces which penetrated into Italy along the Isonzo river 14 miles northwest of Trieste at the head of the Adriatic sea.

The Yugoslavs announced the complete occupation of Trieste, Gorizia, and Monfalcone, sealing off the Istrian peninsula south of Trieste, a valuable port which still is a subject of dispute between Yugoslavia and Italy.

Allied aerial reconnaissance said German troops fleeing into Austria from northeastern Italy were destroying bridges, blasting roads, and wrecking air fields.

Soldiers of the United States 10th mountain division have "been issued winter clothing and pack animals for Alpine operations," it was announced by Lt. Gen. Lucian Truscott, 5th army commander, as these troops pushed on toward the Brenner pass north of Lake Garda.

MOSCOW GOES WILD WITH JOY AT GOOD NEWS

MOSCOW, May 2 (AP)—Moscow went delirious with joy tonight over news of the fall of Berlin. The people laughed and cried and babbled incoherently. They shouted, they bowed in prayer, they hugged and kissed one another. They danced and they sang and they reveled in the news—for to most of them, apparently, the long awaited fall of Berlin meant that the end of this war which has brought them such suffering was in sight.

Their celebration grew by the hour, and no one paid attention to such things as the curfew. The police looked on indulgently, then joined in giving vent to their feelings, and the celebration grew in volume.

BRITISH 1ST, U. S. 2D IN ITALY WAR, CHURCHILL SAYS

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 2—Prime Minister Churchill broke into parliamentary business this evening to give a cheering house of commons what was reported to be the first instalment of big news promised in a few days—unconditional surrender of the German army in Italy.

Both Conservative and Labor benches were well filled when Churchill entered the chamber at 7:22 p. m. and called for a temporary suspension of debate to disclose a secret he had held since Sunday afternoon.

Few in Galleries

The galleries were nearly empty. No ambassadors, other diplomats, or peers were there, contrary to the usual custom when an important announcement is expected. Fewer than 50 persons, including a few American service men, sat in the public gallery.

The first indication that anything unusual was afoot came when members of parliament suddenly began hurrying into the chamber from the dining rooms. Ticker tapes already carried the announcement from allied headquarters in Italy—a fact which Churchill mentioned while issuing his own report.

The members cheered expectantly as Churchill rose from his front bench seat and spread a large typewritten sheet on the dispatch box in front of him. He read the first few factual paragraphs of the statement, then folded up the document, tucked it with his horn rimmed glasses into a pocket, and without consulting any notes began a long dissertation on events leading up to the surrender.

Cheers for Alexander

Members cheered every mention of Field Marshal Alexander and Churchill's tributes to the various components of allied forces in Italy, which he called as "gallant an army as ever marched." Churchill referred also to "that most efficient and daring American soldier," Gen. Clark.

After saying that the British made the largest contribution to the army in Italy with the United States second, Churchill praised the part played by British Indians, New Zealanders, South Africans, Poles, Brazilians, and the Jewish brigade and even the Free Italians. He interlarded the list with mention of the "Negro division of United States troops which also distinguished itself" and the "Japanese of American birth who entered Turin."

U. S. AND BRITAIN QUERY REDS ON AUSTRIAN SETUP

Concerned About New Vienna Regime

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 2—Britain and America are taking up with Moscow the whole question of the formation of an Austrian provisional government by the Russians without consultation with their western allies, Minister of State Richard Law announced in the house of commons today.

The establishment of the new regime, Law said, was disclosed over the soviet radio April 29, three days after the British charge d'affaires in Moscow told the Russians that the matter was of equal concern to all four powers involved in the occupation and control of Austria and that the British government needed time to consider it.

Law declared that the United States and Britain were in complete agreement on the subject.

Zones Already Mapped

The occupation of Austria, he said, was to be carried out by American, British, soviet, and French forces and the zones already had been agreed upon.

He hoped that as a result of discussions now going on in Moscow British newspaper men would be allowed to go to Vienna.

Law revealed that the British were dissatisfied with some aspects of the treatment of British war prisoners by the Russians and that this also was being discussed with soviet authorities.

Plans Official Report

In view of recent "misleading" reports on the subject, Law said that he proposed to issue an official statement. He also promised to ask War Minister James Grigg to allow members of parliament to interview former British prisoners repatriated from Russia.

Answering a series of questions on Russo-Polish affairs, Law said that Foreign Secretary Eden was doing his utmost to obtain information from Foreign Commissar Molotov in San Francisco regarding the 15 Polish leaders, including Vice Premier Jankowski and three cabinet ministers, of whom nothing has been heard since they visited the headquarters of Russian Gen. Ivanoff at his invitation a month ago.

Executions Charged.

The minister also had little information for the house regarding the alleged execution of Poles who had disagreed with the Lublin administration. Comdr. Robert Bower, a Conservative, charged that on April 14, 24 Poles were publicly executed in the market place at Siedlice, Poland, by Lublin special police in the presence of senior officers of the Russian police. The following day five other Poles, two of whom were American citizens of Polish descent, were shot, and on April 16 six Polish farmers were publicly hanged without trial, said Bower.

Law said that the British government received one report which appeared to bear on the incidents, but was unable to confirm it since the British did not recognize the Lublin administration, had no official representative in Poland, and the Russians barred British observers from the Red army's lines of communication.

GREW REVEALS PEACE DEALINGS WITH HIMMLER

Told Offer Must Include Soviet Union

Washington, D. C., May 2 (AP)—Heinrich Himmler's effort of last week to surrender Germany conditionally—that is, to the western powers only—was officially detailed today by Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew.

Grew released the following chronological account of Himmler's offer:

1. April 24, 11 p. m. Swedish time [4 p. m. Chicago time]. The American minister to Sweden, Herschel V. Johnson, and the British minister, Victor Mallett, were summoned by Swedish Foreign Minister Gunther and advised of Himmler's surrender offer.

2. April 25, 3 a. m. Swedish time. Johnson filed his cable to the department.

At Himmler's Request

Summary of the message:

[1] Count Bernadotte [of Sweden] met Himmler at Luebeck at 1 a. m. April 24 at Himmler's request.

[2] Himmler said Hitler was so ill he might already be dead and could not live more than two days [Gen. Schillenburg, Himmler's confidential staff officer, said Hitler was suffering from brain hemorrhage] and that he, Himmler, was therefore in a position of full authority.

[3] Himmler asked the Swedish government to arrange for him to meet Gen. Eisenhower in order to arrange to capitulate on the whole western front [including Holland]. Bernadotte asked if Norway and Denmark were included in the capitulation. Himmler agreed to order his troops in Norway and Denmark to surrender to American, British, or Swedish troops.

[4] Himmler said he hoped to be able to continue to fight on the eastern front and stipulated that his offer was for the western allies only.

President at Meeting

3. April 25. Meeting at Pentagon building in Washington, D. C. A meeting was held early in the afternoon, attended by President Truman, the joint chiefs of staff, and the acting secretary of state. The President communicated with Prime Minister Churchill and they agreed upon messages to Premier Stalin. The President sent his message to Stalin summarizing the Himmler offer and stating that British and American governments proposed to reject it and to inform Himmler that unconditional surrender to the governments of the United States, Great Britain, and the soviet union is the only acceptable offer.

4. April 26, noon. Soviet Charge d' Affaires A. I. Novikov, called upon Mr. Grew and presented Marshal Stalin's reply thanking the President for the information and agreeing to the proposed message to Stockholm.

Message to Stockholm

5. April 26, 1 p. m. Telegram was sent to the American legation in Stockholm from the President advising the minister that the only acceptable terms were unconditional surrender to the three allied governments on all fronts; that if accepted the German forces should surrender to local commanders in the fields; and that where resistance continues, the allied armies would continue to press the attack.

6. April 27, 6 p. m. Swedish time. The American minister reported that the President's message was communicated to the Swedish foreign office and Count Bernadotte on April 26 and that Bernadotte left the morning of April 27 for Flensberg to communicate with Himmler. [Flensberg is in Germany just below the Danish frontier.].

7. May 2, 2 a. m. Swedish time. The American minister reported that Count Bernadotte returned to Stockholm on May 1, and advised him that he delivered the President's message but had received no reply.

ALL NAZIS WILL GIVE UP SOON, TRUMAN SAYS

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 2—In announcing the unconditional surrender of the German armies in Italy, President Truman today predicted early complete capitulation of the defeated Nazi armies everywhere.

The chief executive issued a formal statement on the German capitulation in Italy as he dispatched messages of congratulation to Gen. Clark and British Field Marshal Alexander on the successful conclusion of the Italian campaign. In a reference to the Pacific war, Mr. Truman said:

"Let Japan, as well as Germany, understand the meaning of these events. Unless they are lost in fanaticism or determined upon suicide, they must recognize the meaning of the increasing, swifter moving power now ready for the capitulation or the destruction of the so-recently arrogant enemies of mankind."

Transport Workers Go on Strike in London

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—Street car and trackless trolley workers of London struck today in protest against summer schedules ordered into effect after a week's postponement. They demand that more buses be put into service so they will not have to work longer hours. Thousands of persons rode taxis or hitch-hiked to work.

NAZIS THREATEN TO CONTINUE WAR IN SCANDINAVIA

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—Hopes for a bloodless liberation of Norway and Denmark faded tonight as German military commanders in those Nazi occupied countries called on their troops for a fight to the end under Adm. Doenitz, self-announced successor to Fuehrer Hitler. Both denied Stockholm reports that they were ready to discuss capitulation.

Vidkun Quisling

A showdown between factions led by Doenitz, ruthless German U-boat leader who proclaimed his ascendency to Hitler's job yesterday shortly after the German radio told of the Fuehrer's death, and Gestapo Chief Himmler appeared to be developing.

While Dr. Werner Best, Himmler's man in Denmark, had been reported openly toying with a plan to evacuate the country, Col. Gen. Georg Lindemann, commander of military forces there, bluntly declared: "I have not carried out any negotiations at all, least of all about any capitulation."

Norway Chief Vows Fight

Gen. Lindemann's pledge to fight on came after Gen. Franz Boeme, Nazi military leader in Norway, had thrown in his lot with Doenitz.

A spokesman for the Norwegian embassy in London said that a sharp split had developed among German leaders in Norway—as indicated by the ousting of Adm. Otto Ciliax, who was known to favor capitulation.

The Norwegian high command in an order of the day issued at 6 p. m., urged Norwegian forces in the interior to be calm with the war entering its "final phase."

Report Quisling Quits

During the day Free Norwegian sources in Stockholm reported that the Vidkun Quisling government had resigned, but that Quisling had asked the cabinet to remain "until another Norwegian government is in a position to take over power."

A proclamation to this effect was sent to the Norwegian telegraph bureau, Quisling's news agency, with instructions to broadcast it from the Oslo station. The order was stopped, however, by the German reichscommissar for Norway.

HITLER SUICIDE WITH GOEBBELS, MOSCOW SAYS

Nazi Aid Tells of Party Chieftains' Death

Goebbels had made good on the statement in his last radio address, that he would rather commit suicide than live in Germany "under the bolshevik terror."

Expect Thoro Search

Presumably a thoro search for their bodies was being made by Russian troops in the ruined buildings of Berlin, but the soviet bulletins made no mention of such a search.

Nor did it indicate whether the Fritsche statement was believed in Moscow, altho its inclusion in so formal a document as the bulletin indicated at least that the Russians placed credence in the report. According to Scotland Yard, the Russians should have no trouble establishing the identity of Hitler's body if it is found.

Only Tuesday night the Nazi Hamburg radio had said that Hitler had died "a hero's death" in the reich's chancellery in Berlin, "fighting to the last breath" against the Russians, and that Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz previously had been appointed by Hitler as the new fuehrer.

"Fight On," Doenitz Urges

The Moscow official radio had scorned this report, stating that it was "another fascist trick," designed to let Hitler escape to the underground.

The new report that Hitler was indeed dead, but by his own hand, came as the grim U-boat boss, Doenitz, issued a "fight on" battle cry.

Doenitz had won pledges of support from commanders in Norway, Denmark, and the southern section of the front.

One of the new fuehrer's first acts, the Hamburg radio said, was to dismiss Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and replace the former champagne salesman with Count Ludwig Schwerin von Krosigk. He had served as finance minister thruout the Hitler regime and was a large factor in German preparations for launching and sustaining the war.

In his first public statement, Von Krosigk said over the Hamburg radio tonight that Germany still faced the "heaviest trial of the war." Warning of the dangers of a third world war, he asserted the Germans claim they were fighting to "save Europe from bolshevism" and predicted failure for the San Francisco conference.

Doenitz's Course Uncertain

Beyond Doenitz' belligerent statement upon assuming command, there was no definite indication whether he would swing to immediate peace or to continued resistance. After his first day's reign as Hitler's successor there developed a strong belief in London that Germany's end would come thru disintegration rather than by negotiation.

The mystery of Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler's whereabouts and status, served to dampen hopes that a formal proclamation of V-E day would come soon.

But at the same time, high quarters in London discounted the chance that Doenitz' discipline could long prolong resistance in a Germany already torn to shreds.

Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, top notch German military commentator who voluntarily surrendered to the Americans a week ago, repeated his prediction that the European war would be over in a few days. Dittmar said it was "conceivable" that Doenitz had done away with Himmler before announcing himself as Hitler's successor.

TRUMAN CONVINCED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 2—President Truman today confirmed the report of Hitler's death, saying he had the information on the best possible authority at this time. He said that he did not know how Hitler died. He declined to give the source of his information.

When asked if he had any comment on the deaths of Mussolini and Hitler, he said that it was pleasing to know that the two principal war criminals would not have to come to trial.

Ike Punctures Myth

PARIS, May 2 (AP)—Supreme headquarters hurled the lie today at the story of Adolf Hitler's purported heroic death by disclosing a secret meeting eight days ago at which Heinrich Himmler, the Nazi Gestapo chief, declared Germany beaten and the dictator dead or dying of a brain hemorrhage.

The disclosure was made in a "statement authorized by the supreme commander," Gen. Eisenhower, which did not cast doubt on Hitler's death but stripped from the last chapter of his life the Wagnerian setting which might make him a German hero for generations to come.

Suffered Brain Hemorrhage

The statement said that at a meeting at Luebeck, Germany, on April 24, Himmler told Count Folke Bernadotte, head of the Swedish Red Cross and reputed peace negotiations go-between, that "Hitler is so ill he might already be dead."

At any rate, Himmler continued, Hitler was not expected to live more than two days longer. A German general, Schillenburg, who also was present, said that Hitler was stricken by a brain hemorrhage.

That statement was made more than a week before the Hamburg radio announced that Hitler had died at his post in the reichs chancellery, directing the defense of Berlin, and Adm. Karl Doenitz sought to rally the reich by claiming Hitler had made him his political heir the day before his death.

"Adm. Doenitz's statement, therefore, that Hitler met a hero's death at his post is in contradiction with the facts given by Himmler and Gen. Schillenburg," SHAEF's statement asserted.

Can't Divide Allies.

The statement also asserted that Doenitz's attempt to drive a wedge between the western allies and Russia would have no effect. Doenitz hinted the reich might yield to Britain and the United States if Russia were out of the deal.

"In conclusion," the statement said, "it must be stressed that the attempt by Adm. Doenitz both in his statement to the German people and in his order of the day to the Wehrmacht to drive a wedge between the British and Americans on one side and the Russians on the other will be completely ineffective.

"Constant contact is being maintained not only between the three governments but between this headquarters and headquarters of the soviet army, and nothing which either Adm. Doenitz or Himmler may say or do can change in any way the agreed operations of the allied armies."

Supreme headquarters said it was making the statement because of Doenitz's assertions that Hitler met a hero's death and that the allegiance of the German army and people had been transferred to him.

The form in which the announcement was distributed suggested that SHAEF had more information on the "hero's death" than it was disclosing for the moment. It led off with a point No. 1, and then no other point was listed.

BERLIN LARGEST CITY CONQUERED IN ALL HISTORY

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Berlin is the largest city ever conquered in thousands of years of human struggle. Its 12-day siege was among the most savage and bloody in man's history.

The city which was to have ruled the world for 1,000 years sprawled over 341 square miles of Germany's Brandenburg plains. Today this vast area—a wasteland of crumbled stone and ashes—stood as a monument to the death of Nazi Germany and the might of allied arms.

This was the greatest city of continental Europe—the fourth largest city in the world. Only Tokyo, the world's third biggest metropolis remained as a greater potential prize for the allies in their war against aggression.

Like Fall of Ancient Rome.

In pre-war days 4,335,000 persons toiled in Berlin, then one of Europe's mightiest industrial and commercial centers. Today the survivors roamed its desolate streets in search of food and water.

The fall of Berlin was comparable to the collapse of ancient Rome. It marked the end of an epoch—the end of Hitler's "new world order."

Berlin's fate was sealed when the Russians swore to avenge Stalingrad. The might of the soviet union swept the German conquerors back to their capital—1,560 miles from the farthest point of Nazi penetration into the Caucasus.

The Red army burst into Berlin April 21—two years, two months, and 19 days after the German tide turned at Stalingrad.

Fight Yard by Yard

Yard by yard the Russians battered thru the wrecked streets, struggled in the depths of Berlin's 50 mile subway system, battled in the city's sewers, fought from rooftops, and were shot in the back by Nazi troops masquerading as civilians.

Three years, 10 months, and seven days after Hitler's legions invaded the soviet union, the victorious Russians raised their Red flag over the gutted shell of the reichstag.

Before 1871 Berlin had been taken and plundered briefly by the Austrians in 1757. The capital, under threat of razing, was forced to pay ransom. Within 12 hours the Austrians wheeled and were gone.

Three years later, in 1760, the Russians took Berlin from Frederick the Great after a stiff battle. They held the city then for only three days. Napoleon followed, sweeping in from the west. Berlin gave in peacefully. The French occupied the city two years and Napoleon exacted levies to fill his empire war chest.

AUTOPSY DISCLOSES MUSSOLINI'S 'POOR HEALTH' WAS MYTH

MILAN, Italy, May 2 (AP)—Benito Mussolini has been buried in a potter's field after an autopsy that showed he was not suffering from ulcers, cancer, or any of the other ailments he was reported to have had in recent years. The former dictator was executed by Italian Partisans after he was captured on Saturday near Lake Como.

The autopsy also showed that only two-thirds of Mussolini's brain remained after the beating his body took from civilians. The beatings took place while the body was hanging by the heels with the bodies of Claretta Petacci, his mistress, and several Fascist associates.

Mussolini was buried with Alessandro Pavolini, secretary of state in the puppet Fascist regime, in simple wooden coffins in a ceremony kept secret by Partisan leaders to prevent crowds from gathering.

Streicher, Anti-Semite, Listed as War Criminal

LONDON, May 2 [Reuters]—Julius Streicher, most violent of the Nazi anti-Semites and editor of Der Stuermer, has been declared a war criminal, Richard Law, minister of state, stated in the house of commons today. He added that he had received no report of Streicher's capture.

BRITISH BAG 1,207 NAZI VEHICLES IN LUEBECK AREA

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—British flyers made day-long attacks today on the chaotic jumble of German military traffic fleeing toward Denmark, destroying or damaging at least 1,207 vehicles and 31 planes in the area of Luebeck. Pilots said the Bay of Luebeck was filled with vessels.

Fighters and fighter-bombers raked the German columns with bombs, rockets, and bullets in a massacre which pilots described as "bigger than Falaise."

Murky weather held most other tactical air units on the ground and the United States 8th air force also remained nonoperational.

30 Nazi Ships Give Up as Two Planes Attack

ALLIED HDQ., Italy, May 2 [Reuters]—A fleet of 30 vessels, including the hospital ship Freyberg, barges, landing craft, and high speed launches, surrendered to two Balkan air force pilots off Trieste today. As soon as the vessels saw the two planes diving to attack, white flags were hoisted at the mastheads.

PSYCHOLOGICAL UNIT WILL GUIDE NAZIS' THOUGHTS

Map Control of All German Information Sources

BY LARRY RUE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, May 2—The psychological warfare division [PWD] will take over control of all German information services and media—radio, press, publications—as well as theaters, films, music, and recordings in the first phase of the occupation of that country after the final defeat of Germany, Brig. Gen. Robert A. McClure, chief of the PWD, revealed this today. The control, designed as a start toward the reëducation of the German people, however, may be limited to the allied zone of occupation as, so far, no agreement has been reached with Russia regarding the plan or to what extent emphasis will be made on teaching democratic principles or procedure.

Express Commander's Wishes

McClure described PWD activities and altho he refused to make precise claims as to the number of prisoners of war psychological warfare brought in to the allied cages he said interrogation showed that between 70 and 85 per cent of the prisoners had read the PWD leaflets. Most of them admitted they had been influenced to surrender much earlier than they might have because they knew they would be treated in accord with the Geneva convention.

"The PWD's job was to express the wishes of the supreme allied commander as simply and explicitly as possible," said McClure, "and as the overwhelming allied military might became obvious, even to the most fanatical SS [elite guard] trooper, it was sharpened to persuade the various groups of people involved in the total war, to accede to the wishes—the will of the supreme commander—before they were compelled to do so by the actual force of arms."

Drop 3 Billion Leaflets

McClure explained that while psychological warfare did not supplant military operations, it accelerated their results. He mentioned how, by sheer authority of the supreme commander, which the PWD had been building up, German forces surrendered en masse, foreign workers took to the woods in front of our advancing armies as ordered, and even civilians obeyed the commands.

The PWD, McClure said, has become the world's largest publishing company, having already dropped over three billion leaflets on Germany and the occupied countries.

"Every broadcast leaflet was designed to do exactly three things," he said. "To tell the people what to do, how to do it, what would happen to them if they obeyed instructions and why they should obey them."

FRENCH WIN 1ST ROUND IN FIGHT FOR REICH SLICE

Stuttgart Compromise Victory for Paris

PARIS, May 2 (AP)—The Franco-American affair over Stuttgart indicated today France has decided to jump the gun on post-war occupational decisions and use her U. S.-equipped 1st army at least to underscore her hopes for a slice of Germany from across the Rhine.

At Stuttgart, capital of Wurttemberg, France has taken the first round. Supreme headquarters granted continuance of French occupation rather than stir up a political issue.

The French 1st army has been a problem child for Gen. Eisenhower ever since the bickerings in North Africa over its control and employment.

Alone of the allied military lineup in the west, Gen. de Lattre de Tassigny's command has two masters, supreme headquarters and the French war ministry.

Called a Compromise

The Stuttgart affair was settled by what some French sources politely described as a compromise.

The city was captured in an envelopment by two armies, the French 1st and the U. S. 7th. The French moved in quickly and shifted their army headquarters into the city.

Supreme headquarters asked them to move out. They refused. Headquarters issued a bluntly worded statement that looked momentarily like a showdown.

It said that Stuttgart was in the American 7th army zone, not that of the French; it described the city as an important rail communication and supply center "which was selected to serve the military requirements of the 7th army in order that the operations of that army in the defeat of the common enemy would be facilitated."

French Stand Pat

And it added that if Stuttgart were not made available "a less desirable and less efficient" communications and supply center would have to be found for the American 7th army.

The French stood pat, backed by their council of ministers. Presumably the American 7th army is now looking for that alternate communications and supply center.

Gen. Eisenhower was disclosed to have agreed after some discussion that the French could stay. About the only alternative would have been to turn the 7th army around and "recapture" the city.

FIGURES TELL SPEED OF NAZI ARMY COLLAPSE

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Figures announced yesterday show the rapidity with which the German army has crumbled in the final stages of the war.

Nearly 1,000,000 Germans and Italians in northern Italy and southern Austria were surrendering unconditionally to the allies.

Premier Stalin said 70,000 prisoners were taken in the final collapse of Berlin and that 120,000 others had been killed or captured by the Russians since April 24 southeast of the German capital.

Supreme allied headquarters stated more than 1,500,000 enemy troops were captured by the western allies during the month of April.

U. S. FLEET AIDS BORNEO LANDING, SAYS M'ARTHUR

MANILA, May 3 [Thursday]—(AP)—A new chapter in the Pacific war—a drive to erase the Japanese from the Dutch East Indies—opened Tuesday when an Australian force, bolstered by a few Dutch units, invaded Tarakan Island, just off northeastern Borneo, against negligible opposition.

This operation, previously reported by the Japanese and the Australians, was confirmed today by Gen. MacArthur, who said it "virtually severed the enemy's holdings in the south."

United States 7th fleet and Australian cruisers and destroyers and aircraft flown by Americans, Aussies, and Dutchmen supported the invaders, who went ashore on two beachheads near Lingkas. One unit drove north toward the Tarakan air field, two miles away. The other moved on Lingkas town.

Drive to Davao Outskirts

During the first day neither met more than sporadic small arms fire.

Meantime, in the Philippines, the 24th infantry division on Mindanao reached the outskirts of Davao city, still finding no serious opposition.

Fall of the big port, one of the last major cities of the archipelago still in enemy hands, appeared imminent—and without the fierce fight that had been expected.

To the west, the 31st division continued its swift drive northward up the center of Mindanao. It reached a point 24 miles north of the Kabacan road junction.

The Tarakan operation "virtually severs enemy holdings in the south," Gen. MacArthur said. "His forces in the eastern portions of the Netherlands East Indies are effectively isolated. Establishment of this base will complete our chain of air fields and enable us to strike enemy forces anywhere in the southwest Pacific."

Produced Best Oil

Tarakan, before the war, was a production center of exceptionally pure oil, but Dutch engineers destroyed petroleum installations while the garrison held off a Japanese invasion force early in January, 1942.

The Dutch garrison surrendered the island to an overwhelming Nipponese force Jan. 13, 1942, and only a small number of the defenders escaped to Borneo.

2 CHICAGO AREA MEN LIBERATED IN NAZI CAMPS

Tech. Sgt. George Harlow, 21, whose home is on Green Bay rd., northwest of Waukegan, has been liberated from a German prison camp, he cabled his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Harlow, yesterday. He was listed missing over Germany March 14, 1944, and was reported a prisoner the following April.

A graduate of Waukegan Township High school, he has been in the army since November, 1942.

Pvt. William J. Brankin, 22, of 2810 Armitage av., a member of the 422d infantry, has been liberated from a German prison camp, his mother, Mrs. Violet Brankin, learned yesterday thru a letter from him. He had been a prisoner of war since Dec. 16, 1944. He has four sisters, Lillian, Dorothy, Patricia, and Margaret.

YANKS RIP THRU SOUTH OKINAWA LINE AT NIGHT

Marine Forces Join in New Drive

GUAM, May 3 [Thursday] (AP)—Attacking in darkness with tanks and flame throwers, United States 10th army troops opened an intensified drive on southern Okinawa early yesterday. Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's veteran 7th division on the east coast drove a salient 1,400 yards into tough Japanese positions.

Thus developed the first apparent breakthru since the enemy garrison made its initial stand along a front so bitterly defended it has become known as the "little Siegfried line."

First Major Night Attack

Seventh division Yanks have pushed more than 2,400 yards thru that line since the first coördinated assault began April 19. The division's attack yesterday was the first major night ground assault attempted by American forces in the Pacific theater.

The salient reached within one mile of Yonabaru town and extended beyond the southern end of the Yonabaru air field.

The 7th infantry division under Maj. Gen. Andrew D. Bruce, bolstered by the 1st marine division under Maj. Gen. Pedro A. del Valle, pushed ahead in the center and on the right flank.

Warships Smash Jap Strongpoints

This was the first time marines had joined the doughboys in the tough fight on the southern end of Okinawa Leathernecks have cleared the entire northern end of the island.

The 7th division, making the deepest penetration, reached Gaja hill, one mile north of the town of Yonabaru, site of an air field, with strong support from naval guns and aircraft.

Adm. Nimitz' war bulletin reported that ships' batteries destroyed a number of Japanese gun emplacements, strongpoints, and boat pens. Carrier and land based aircraft bombed Japanese defenses.

Carrier planes also swept targets on Kume Island, west of Okinawa, and the Sakishima group of the southern Ryukyus yesterday.

BRITISH INVADE BURMA 20 MILES BELOW RANGOON

CALCUTTA, India, May 2 (AP)—British sea borne troops poured ashore from warships at the mouth of the Rangoon river 20 miles south of Rangoon early today, cutting off from the sea and virtually dooming an estimated 30,000 Japanese troops in the Burma capital, allied headquarters announced.

Parachute forces made an initial landing in the area between Rangoon and the Bay of Bengal yesterday, clearing the way for the main body of allied forces which landed in strength on both banks of the river.

Jap Garrison Trapped

The Japanese garrison in Rangoon was trapped between the sea borne forces on the south and British and Indian armored divisions driving on the capital from less than 36 miles to the north.

Preceding today's landing, the British East Indies fleet, which includes the French battleship Richelieu and several aircraft carriers, heavily bombarded Japanese air fields on Car Nicobar Island in the Bay of Bengal for two days.

Sink 10 Jap Ships

Heavy and medium bombers of the eastern air command joined in the softening-up process, blasting Japanese installations and defensive positions thruout the Rangoon area. Carrier planes struck Port Blair. Only one allied plane was reported missing from the extensive operations.

Three destroyers sank 10 small Japanese ships trying to cross the Gulf of Martaban from Rangoon to Moulmein.

Blair Bombarded: Japs

San Francisco, Cal., May 2 (AP)—Radio Tokyo, in an unconfirmed broadcast, reported that "an enemy task force, including two converted carriers and two battleships as its mainstay, bombarded Port Blair in the Andaman Islands, Indian ocean, early today."

could veto use of arbitration or other peaceful measures to settle an international dispute in which it is not involved, but in which it is befriending an accused nation.

4. The proposed amendment empowering the security council to recommend revision of treaties or other international agreements deemed provocative of war, such as, for example, the partition of Poland by the Big Three.

No further attempt is to be made to settle the Polish controversy here. It was learned that American Ambassador Harriman and British Ambassador Kerr will return to Moscow when Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov leaves in the next few days. The negotiations then will be continued in Moscow for the fulfillment of the Yalta agreement to reorganize and broaden the Lublin Polish government set up by the soviets.

Voluntary Trusteeship, Too

The American trusteeship plan would apply to territories taken from the enemy in this war, territories placed under mandate of the old league after the first World war, and dependent peoples that might voluntarily acquire trusteeship status. It takes into consideration Pacific and other bases for American security, international bases for maintaining world peace and world access to natural resources.

Altho only the creation of the trusteeship machinery will be considered by the conference, the disposition of specific territories being reserved for the peace conference, the plan is being considered in the light of the desire of the United States to have unfettered possession of the Pacific islands or parts of islands needed for naval and other military bases for American defense.

"It is obvious that America must retain control of strategic Pacific island bases," said Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, the American delegation member who is in charge of the United States trusteeship amendment.

Stick to Charter's Letter

By control, however, Stassen does not mean outright American ownership. The Americans propose to abide strictly in this matter by the letter of the Atlantic Charter renouncing territorial aggrandizement. They reject the contention that the acquisition for naval bases of scattered pin points in the pacific of no economic value could be regarded as territorial aggrandizement.

They admit that Russia's annexation of eastern Poland and the Baltic republics is territorial aggrandizement in defiance of the Atlantic Charter but plead that this was done by the Big Three at Yalta and nothing can be done about it at present.

So the American delegation has devised a plan whereby the United States could be the trustee of the Japanese islands it has wrested from Japan—the Volcano group, the Ryukyus, and the Marshall, Carolina and Marianas archipelagoes that Japan held under mandate from the old league.

Would Lease Some Areas

While being responsible to the league as trustee for the administration of these islands and subject to removal, the United States could obtain, however, a leasehold of such areas as might be necessary for the establishment of American naval bases. In the leased areas the United States would not be answerable to the league.

This scheme partakes partly of the system of American bases in Bermuda, Newfoundland, and the West Indies leased from Great Britain for 99 years and partly of the principle of American occupation of the Panama Canal Zone under treaty with Panama calling for a payment of $250,000 a year.

Small Nations Seen Handicapped

The question of the two-thirds rule for the adoption of amendments came up in the meeting of the steering committee, where it was vigorously opposed by Deputy Prime Minister Evatt of Australia. He contended that under this rule small nations would be at a disadvantage in proposing amendments because of the difficulty of mustering the necessary 33 votes, compared with the 25 votes constituting a simple majority of the conference.

The Americans favored the two-thirds rule in the belief that the greater the degree of unanimity achieved the greater would be the prospects of the success of the conference.

Any provision that makes amendment more difficult is favored by the Russians, who have no major amendments to propose to Dumbarton Oaks and are opposed to amendments whittling down their veto power or an amendment under which the partition of Poland or other manifestations of Russian hegemony in eastern Europe might be challenged.

British Support Australia

British Foreign Secretary Eden quickly added his support to Australia in raising objection to the two-thirds rule, and the upshot was that the whole question was referred back to the executive committee for further consideration.

For several days the controversy over the amendment proposed by Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] of the American delegation on the revision of treaties has been smoldering in the background and is expected to break into flame when the question gets before the conference.

Discussion of this amendment revolves around Poland, for it squints in the direction of Poland and almost everybody who thinks that Poland is the victim of injustice favors the amendment. Those who sympathize with Russia, the power dominating Poland, are against it.

Could Only "Recommend"

The proposed amendment merely provides that the security council shall have the power to recommend the revision of treaties or other international agreements which have produced a situation jeopardizing the preservation of peace.

The council would have no power to dictate such revision. It could do no more than recommend to the nations that made the treaties or other international agreements that they should revise them to remove the cause of international friction.

The international agreement on the partition of Poland, involving the annexation of the eastern third of that country by Russia and the transfer of compensating German territory to Poland, was made by British Prime Minister Churchill, the late President Roosevelt, and Russian Premier Stalin at the Yalta conference.

Revision Might Be Asked

If at some future time the discontent of Poles annexed to Russia or Germans annexed to Poland or both should threaten the preservation of peace, the security council could recommend that Britain, Russia, and the United States revise this agreement to remove the danger of war.

The three powers would not be obliged to act in accord with the recommendation. One or more of them could flout it and the council could do nothing much about it except to invoke the world's moral suasion. The most it could do would be to invoke conciliation or arbitration of the dispute. It would not be able to employ armed force, for Russia alone could veto such action under the voting arrangement agreed to at Yalta.

Nevertheless the Russians don't want the league council to be thus armed with the power to interfere, even by recommendation and moral suasion, with the arrangements whereby they are extending their hegemony in eastern Europe.

Linguistic Cicero

Herberto M. Sein in oratorical translation at San Francisco conference. [Associated Press Wirephoto]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, May 2—There are hundreds and hundreds of interpreters at the allied nations security conference here, but the star of them all is Herberto M. Sein, 46, a tall Mexican with a football lineman's build, who calls himself "the red headed Aztec."

Sein is the fellow who translates the delegates' speeches at the formal plenary sessions from Spanish and French into English. He has a deep, booming voice and he puts so much of the original feeling and verve into his delivery he is regarded as one of the best orators of the conference. He does spot translations, verbatim, from notations of only the key words, memorizing the rest. He doesn't know any shorthand.

Sein has bright red curly hair. His mother was English and his father Aztec Mexican. He was brought here by the United States state department and he has served at several international confabs. He studied at the University of Southern California.

PARLEY STARTS GETTING DOWN TO ITS BUSINESS

BY FRANK HUGHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 2—The allied nations conference for the drafting of future peace brought its program of plenary sessions to a close today as the last of the nations presented their formal statements to assembled delegates.

The real work of the conference began today with the meeting of four conference commission chairmen, the approval of their report by the plenary session, and the announcement of a full schedule of joint commission-committee meetings for organization purposes tomorrow.

Molotov Arrives Late

V. M. Molotov, soviet foreign commissar, presided in his regular turn as one of four conference presidents, walking in from the wings of the big opera house stage, before the four gold pillars that represent the four sponsoring powers, at 3:38 p. m. [5:38 p. m. Chicago time] eight minutes late.

Speaking in Russian, he opened the meeting with the suggestion that the secretary general report on the meeting of the four commission chairmen. His words were translated, as usual, by V. Pavlov, the curly haired slender interpreter who learned English in a 13 week "basic English" short course at Harvard university while attached to the Washington embassy a year or so ago.

Alger Hiss, secretary general, reported on the commission and committee plans for tomorrow, and Molotov asked for comment. Hearing none, he intoned with unusual politeness: "Permit me to regard the report as approved."

Many Delegates Absent

The turnout for this wind-up session, which may be the last until the conference has produced enough drafts of a world peace machinery to require formal approval, or unless proceedings hit a snag requiring further public statements of position, was poor.

Whole rows in the orchestra, where the delegates sit, were empty. Lord Halifax and George Tomlinson of the British ministry of labor were present, as were Field Marshal Smuts of South Africa and the tall narrow-shouldered chairman of the Netherlands delegation, Eelco N. Van Kleffens. But Anthony Eden had not come in and Secretary Stettinius arrived late and left early.

Even the Russian delegation, which everybody expected to be out in force since Molotov was presiding, was thinly represented. Ambassador Gromyko sat in Molotov's usual place, one seat off the aisle in the eighth row. Two seats over was Rear Adm. K. K. Rodinov of the Russian navy, who wore a dark blue tunic with oblong gold bars on the shoulders, surmounted by a gold star.

Molotov recognized Ezequiel Padilla, chairman of the Mexican delegation, who spoke in Spanish, asking for a peace enforced "on a basis of justice." When he had finished, Herberto M. Sein, the tall, red headed official interpreter, who is a Mexican Aztec, read his text in flawless English, delivering the speech as though he wrote it himself.

Stettinius Shows Photographs.

Stettinius walked in 35 minutes late, just as Padilla was finishing, and sat down in the American section, next to Dean Gildersleeve of Barnard college. He showed her a bluebound album of photographs.

Molotov shook hands cordially with the next speaker, Trygve Lie, chairman of the Norwegian delegation, a big man who wore a grey business suit and baby four-in-hand tie and spoke in English with a stiff Scandinavian accent.

"To our people," Lie said, "this conference should include among the principles of its organization the aspirations expressed in the united nations declaration: To defend life, liberty, independence, and religious freedom, to preserve human rights."

Not a handclap was heard thruout the big theater as the Norwegian foreign minister paused at this obvious punch line in his address. He got a polite round, however, when he walked off, after the usual congratulatory handshake from Molotov.

Latin Americans Speak

Mariano Arguello, Nicaraguan minister of foreign affairs, whose almost totally bald head gleamed under the bright Hollywood lights, then spoke in Spanish and when Sein started to translate for him there was a big exodus. Stettinius walked out and the Saudi-Arabians, in their abas [black robes] and chafeyahs [flowing white headdress], slid out the side exit which flanks their orchestra chairs. Arguello said that Nicaragua liked the Dumbarton Oaks charter "in essence," but didn't surrender the right to amend it.

Tito's Man Thanks Reds

Faris El-Khour, white haired, white mustached chairman of the Syrian delegation, spoke before an almost empty auditorium, while Ivan Subasic, minister of foreign affairs in the Tito-Partisan government of Yugoslavia, finished the program off with a 25 minute address in strongly accented English.

Subasic praised the "new concept of unity" in Yugoslavia which "has arisen out of the heroic fight of the Partisan forces against the Nazis—the enemy of humanity." In giving thanks for Yugoslavia's debt to the allies, he listed Russia first, then England, and finally the United States.

Molotov gaveled the session to adjournment at 6:20 p. m. [8:20 p. m. Chicago time].

Dissenter Is 70

Justice Roberts at his desk on his birthday yesterday.

Washington, D. C., May 2 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts became eligible to retire today, his 70th birthday anniversary. However, close friends say he has given no thought to leaving the bench.

By law a justice who reaches 70 and has served 10 years may retire at full pay of $20,000 a year.

Roberts was nominated by President Hoover in May, 1930, and took his seat about a month later. He now is the court's No. 1 dissenter. He has not missed a session in more than a decade.

UNCLE SAM TO HAND OUT 44,200,050 EXTRA RED POINTS

The greatest windfall of extra red points ever is going this month, and each month following, to American housewives throughout the country.

44 million extra red points, approximately, will be handed out by meat dealers to customers who turn in used fats in a great Victory drive for this essential of medicines, gunpowder, synthetic rubber, soaps, paints and a hundred necessities on the battlefield and home front. For each pound of fats turned in, every housewife is entitled to 2 red points.

The need for used fats is still urgent. Women are urged to save every drop, every spoonful of grease possible and keep saving until final Victory over both Germany and Japan.

Canadian Aid at Parley Breaks Out with a Rash

San Francisco, Cal., May 2 (AP)—Measles broke out today in the United Nations conference. The measles diagnosis was in the case of Charles Ritchie, an adviser to the Canadian delegation. He's quartered at a hotel where 22 conference delegations are staying. His fellow guests include Russian Commissar Molotov and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada. Health authorities reassured against any danger of quarantine. Here, measles is reportable, but not quarantinable disease, said Health Director J. C. Geiger.

BIG 5 DIVIDED OVER STALIN'S 'VETO' DEMAND

Flood of Changes Asked in Peace Blueprint

Chill for Argentina

San Francisco, Cal., May 2 (AP)—The United States plans to oppose granting of any officer posts in the working organization of the allied conference to Argentina, it was learned today. Since the day Argentina was invited to the conference over strenuous Russian objections allocation of conference officerships has been approved. However, the office of rapporteur for the judicial organization, one of the four commissions, was left vacant. It generally was assumed that Argentina would be given this post. Some South American neighbors still are expected to fight to give Argentina the place over United States opposition, but once the issue is joined, Soviet Commissar Molotov will demand that the post be reserved for Poland.

BY ARTHUR EVANS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 2—A flood of amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks blueprint for an international peace organization has struck the San Francisco security conference. The office of the secretariat already has had submitted to it some 700 pages of proposed changes and arguments for same. The deadline for amendments is Friday.

Some nations which have suggested important modifications, such as Canada, may not submit them because they may be covered already in the wide field of amendments from other countries.

"Veto" Power Big Issue

The Big Five seems divided over the veto power question, a dominant source of controversy among the smaller nations and some of the larger ones. Two of the Big Five powers view it askance. This was one of the Yalta agreements on which Stalin insisted.

Under the Dumbarton Oaks plan the security council—the executive core of the proposed peace league—has five permanent big power seats and six other memberships good for two years each and barred from immediate reelection.

Under the Yalta agreement any one of the Big Five powers—the United States, Britain, Russia, China, France—could veto any vote of the other nations to take economic or military measures against it for any warlike move it might make.

Australia may be a spearhead of the attack on this proposal.

The Big Five appear split over the veto. Dr. T. V. Soong, China's foreign minister and head of the Chinese delegation, declared that China is willing to forego the single nation veto if the other big powers will do the same.

Georges Bidault, French foreign minister and head of his delegation, told the conference yesterday that the veto power of the great powers is "certainly not in keeping with the legal ideal" to be established by common accord among peoples.

Vandenberg Plan Supported

The smaller nations are bombarding the conference with demands for a larger part in the international organization. They want flexibility in the mechanism.

Some of them are demanding that the charter of the proposed league be reviewed and amended at specific intervals, which is in line with the ideas of Sen. Vandenberg of the United States delegation. France is for this proposal.

Regional security groups in some parts of the world, and a statement of principles which will stress justice, are subjects of proposed changes.

Mexico has put in 28 amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks plan which were drawn up last winter. One objective sought by Mexico and Latin America in general is a strong western hemisphere regional organization to operate within the world league. This objective crystallized at the inter-America conference in Mexico, in which the United States was a participant.

Want 12 Member Council

The Mexican amendments call for a change in the set-up of the security council so that it would have 12 instead of 11 members. They would be divided into two groups—semi-permanent, seats good for eight years, and short term members. All members of the council would be elected by the assembly.

The Netherlands, which has submitted eight amendments, proposes to modify the single big power veto. It says: "The proposed voting procedure in the security council gives the permanent members of that council [the Big Five] special rights which tend to weaken the position of the other members of an organization based on the principle of sovereign equality of all peace loving states."

The Netherlands change submits two plans to support the present proposal by which a decision of the security council can be taken by a majority consisting of the Big Five plus two nonpermanent members.

"No power should be a judge in its own cause," said Foreign Minister Eelco N. Van Kleffens, head of the delegation.

Fighting Nations Ask Power

One question expected to involve much wrangling is the position of secondary nations, such as Australia, Canada, the Netherlands, and Brazil, which nave done great fighting in the war. They do not relish any idea of having no more voice than small nations such as Lebanon and Syria, which have little economic or military power.

Canada's proposals that a nation not on the security council should not be impelled to carry out economic or military sanctions voted by the council without a hearing or without agreeing to carry out the council's order, are incorporated in amendments from some other countries. Canada may support these instead of presenting its own.

Visit His Parents

Staff Sgt. Jerry D. Brandon Jr., a veteran of 34 months in the China theater, and his bride, the former Jeanne La Vonne Allen of Beach Grove, Ind., are visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Brandon, at South Shore Country club.

Sgt. Brandon attended St. John's Military academy, where he was senior captain in 1938, and Northwestern university. He entered the army air forces in May, 1941, and since then has served as armorer of a medium bomber crew in the 14th air force under Maj. Gen. Chennault.

The sergeant, who wears the good conduct ribbon, the pre-Pearl Harbor ribbon, and the Asiatic theater ribbon with two stars, described the people of China as "very industrious." He said every one, from a small child to the very old, has a job to do.

U.S. SUBS 'BEST IN WORLD' AND BOAST LUXURIES

BY JOSEPH HEARST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 2—American submarines, which have sunk at least 1,119 Japanese ships, are now equipped with air conditioning, sun lamps and ice cream machines and they are the best submarines in the world, Vice Adm. Charles A. Lockwood Jr., commander of the Pacific submarine fleet, said today at a press conference here.

He said he didn't want any one to get the idea the sub crews are "soft" because of the installations for their comfort and explained that working in an old type submarine in the South Pacific for 30 or 40 days was like spending that much time in a Turkish bath.

Operations Secret.

Air conditioning makes life bearable, the sun lamps take the place of sunshine and the ice cream is good food, especially if it keeps the men from eating too much heavy food, he said.

The operations of the submarine fleet are the most secret of the navy's activities, and even the best bag a submarine has ever made is restricted information but Lockwood said bags of 8 and 10 enemy vessels are not unusual, while the boats average three or four Jap ships each trip.

400,000 Tons Sunk

The latest navy figures on Jap shipping destroyed credit the subs with sinking 400,000 tons of combat ships, including 4 aircraft carriers, 17 cruisers and 53 destroyers, and 4 million tons of merchant shipping, spread thru 993 categories. This is said to be approximately half of all of Japan's merchant tonnage.

Lockwood said that from the opening of the Pacific war until the fall of 1943, when the Gilbert islands campaign was launched, the submarines carried on a sort of a "private war" against the Japs, but that since then they have coöperated with the 3d, 5th and 7th fleets and have "had the pleasure" of concentrating on Jap supply routes to each new place marked for American attack and invasion.

SENATORS LEAVE FOR FRISCO TALK WITH U. S. AIDS

Washington, D. C., May 2 (AP)—Four senators left today for San Francisco to consult with the United States delegation at the allied conference.

Senators Byrd [D., Va.], Eastland [D., Miss.] and Tobey [R., N. H.] are members of a naval affairs subcommittee which will discuss postwar naval and air bases in the Pacific. The fourth senator is Homer Capehart [R., Ind.] who is expected to offer his proposal that all nations attending the conference declare war on Japan to speed the end of the fighting.

TRUMAN ERASES SENTENCES OF 3 CAROL AGENTS

Detroit, Mich., May 2 (AP)—On order of President Truman, two Romanian Orthodox priests and a Romanian publisher linked by the government with efforts to bring King Carol into the United States were freed today from prison sentences.

The releases were granted in federal court after L. Meyron Marko attorney, who said he represented the Romanian Orthodox church of America, had paid fines totaling $5,500 for the three.

Convicted on a charge of failing to register as agents of King Carol, the three were sentenced last Jan. 8. The Rev. Glighaeri Moraru of SS. Peter and Paul Romanian Orthodox church was sentenced to five years and fined $3,000; the Rev. Stephan Opreanu, dean of St. George Romanian Orthodox cathedral, four years and $2,000, and George Zamfir, publisher of the Voice of Romania, a Romanian language paper, two years and $500.

President Truman commuted their sentences to "time served" plus the fines.

Been able to get some extra overtime money—so what do you say, let's go dancing tonight. You can step on my Ice-Mint feet all you want.

DELEGATES GET BRITAIN'S VIEW IN FREE PAPER

Daily Mail Flown to U. S. from London

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 2—Hundreds of free copies of a "San Francisco Special Edition" of the London Daily Mail are being distributed each week to delegates and newspaper men attending the international conference here.

The 12 page newspaper, cut to one-half the size of the ordinary tabloid, is air mailed from London. The last issue available today is dated April 25. It is brim full of articles containing the British point of view and is distributed without charge, altho it ordinarily sells for 5 cents a copy.

A number of pages in the latest edition are devoted to discussion of the "calamitous shock" to the British people of President Roosevelt's death. Good wishes are uttered for President Truman, but there was thinly veiled criticism of the American system of succession to the Presidency in one article which expressed amazement at "the unfathomable workings of the oldest unchanged Constitution in the world which has brought us face to face with the present perplexing situation with all its implications for international comity."

Criticizes Constitution

"It has always seemed astonishing that a nation which likes to change its opinions and its automobiles at least once a year would be so determined never to introduce any modern conveniences into its political system," the article continued. "The achievements of Franklin Roosevelt loom 10 times as great when one considers how they had to be performed within the precise framework of this constrictive Constitution."

The late President was hailed for "the magnitude of his efforts on behalf of the British people before Pearl Harbor." Roosevelt has gone, but "the Roosevelt light must not be allowed to go out," the paper states.

Glowing praise for "Britain's team" at San Francisco is written in another lengthy article.

Eden Is Praised

"It is doubtful if anywhere in the world there could be found such a concentration of knowledge and experience of foreign affairs as is lodged in the four chief British delegates," the Mail tells the delegates.

Anthony Eden is lauded in Winston Churchill's words as "second to none among the foreign secretaries of the grand alliance." Clement Attlee's "strong suits are modesty and integrity." Viscount Cranborne, "who was—of course—educated at Eton and Oxford—knows foreign affairs upside down." Earl Halifax has "deep spiritual qualities."

Another article reveals that 60,000 British women have married allied soldiers and will depart for new homes overseas after the war.

Give to Refugees Until It Hurts—And It Does

Ionia, Mich., May 2 (AP)—Bundling clothes for shipment to European war refugees, Mrs. Henry Morgan and Mrs. D. O. Mellinger worked diligently. Suddenly they discovered their own coats were missing. Mrs. Mellinger found hers in time—wrapped and addressed overseas at the collection depot. Mrs. Morgan's had gone in an early shipment.

REPORT INDIA SETTLEMENT IS GROWING NEAR

BY WILLIAM MOORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 2—Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India stopped twisting the British lion's tail today amid indications that a settlement of the Indian situation is under way in London.

The Indian delegation to the international security conference promptly came out for her brother, Jawaharlal Nehru, to step into the sandals of Mahatma Gandhi after Mrs. Pandit said today that she saw hope for an acceptable settlement.

Churchill Conference Reported

It was reliably reported that arrangements for settling the Indian question are being rushed in London by Viceroy Archibald Wavell of India and Gen. Claude Auchinlek, British commander of the Indian armies, in conference with Prime Minister Churchill.

Details could not be forecast here, but it was understood the British were hoping to be able to announce a satisfactory plan from London in reply to the demand of Indian leaders that the conference give India the benefits promised by the conference sponsors to the rest of the world.

Many expected a renewal of the Cripps proposals, which international experts say would have the practical effect of giving India dominion status, such as is held by Canada.

Broader Freedom Demanded

The Indians have once rejected these proposals, and Indian leaders say the proposals would have to be broadened to protect the Indian legislature against a British governmental veto of its acts before they would now be acceptable.

Shortly after Mrs. Pandit, who has been protesting the representation of India by a delegation of three Indians who are British knights, said today that she saw hope for an acceptable settlement. Sir Firoz Khan of the Indian delegation, told reporters he favors her brother—now a British political prisoner—as the leader of the Indian people. He also declared that "England would be out of India tomorrow if our leaders could agree among themselves."

The Indian knight did not conceal the British rancor against Gandhi. He called Gandhi's politics "half a century out of date," and said the little brown man should retire in favor of a younger man "not so bigoted and narrow-minded." The Indian delegate suggested Nehru.

Indians Delighted

Indians here received this informal nomination of Mrs. Pandit's brother with delight.

There was conjecture, however, that India's millions might see the present move as one intended to hoodwink them rather than give them self-government.

'PHONE GIRLS GIVE ANSWERS IN 5 LANGUAGES

Special Board Put Up at Frisco

BY EUGENE GRIFFIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 2 — A multi-lingual telephone switchboard on which the girl operators ask "kakoy nomer jetaetei?" [Russian for "number, please?"] and say they are sorry but "la lina esta ocupada" [Spanish for "the line is busy"] has been set up in the basement of one of the allied nations' conference buildings to accommodate foreigners who can't make their connections in English.

The 40 girls on the staff of operators guarantee to handle calls in Chinese, French, Portuguese, Russian, and Spanish, and they make a stab at giving numbers in about 17 other languages represented at the conference.

Twenty-four hour a day service is given on the exchange specially established for the purpose. None of the girls can speak all five languages, but all have been trained to recognize the language spoken by callers.

Just Call for "Help"

Foreign speaking delegates have been instructed to dial the linguistic switchboard — International 3300—and tell the operator the language they speak—Espanol, Francais, Russky, or whatever.

"But most callers don't tell us what language they want," said Miss Olga Oller, a Spanish expert. "They just call in and say, 'Help, help.' We take turns talking to them until we talk their language. We have done pretty swell so far."

The longest call handled thru the board came from Moscow. The girls think it was routed thru London and New York and they are proud that they were able to tell the Moscow operator in her own language: "Go ahead, please."

Some Just Lost

Information operators are the busiest at the board. There are six of them, in charge of Mrs. Vivian Carter, supervisor. Conference visitors usually want more than a telephone number when they ask for information, she said.

"Most of them want to know how to get something," she said, "shoes, cigarets, or almost anything. And a lot of them are lost and just want to know how to get back to their hotel from some place like Geary and Van Ness sts."

DENIES ASKING WAR WORKER TO JOIN COMMUNISTS

Ted Baer, 3324 Potomac av., formerly a CIO union organizer, denied yesterday from the witness stand that he ever asked Harry Morgan, a former union steward in the plant of the Chicago Flexible Shaft company, to join the Communist party.

He appeared as a witness for local 1150, United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers of America [CIO] which is fighting an injunction suit brought by Morgan to enjoin the local from having him fired under the provisions of a union maintenance of membership contract in the plant.

Morgan has testified that he was expelled from the union for protesting against communistic activities among the membership. The hearing will continue today.

CEMETERY BILL GETS APPROVAL OF HOUSE BODY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 2—The house executive committee followed the recommendation of Atty. Gen. Barrett today and gave unanimous approval to bills for the strict regulation of cemeteries accused of financial irregularities. Rep. Cutler [R., Lewistown] introduced the bills. Barrett said that some cemeteries in Cook county had refused to make reports concerning their handing of funds paid them for the pepetual care of graves. Religious and municipal cemeteries and private burial grounds are exempted from the bills.

CIO ASKS FRISCO TO RECOGNIZE 'ITS CONCLAVE'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 2—Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union and chairman of the CIO political action committee, today formally asked State Secretary Stettinius to recognize the CIO-sponsored "world trade union conference" in a consultative capacity at the international security conference.

Hillman, Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and other leaders of the World Trade union have been meeting since April 25 in Oakland, Cal. Their union has been ignored by the American Federation of Labor on the ground that Russian delegates to the CIO meeting do not represent free workers. The AFL has been a member of the International Federation of Labor for years.

Hillman's request for recognition was addressed to Stettinius as chairman of the international conference. It also was signed by Walter Citrine, head of a British union, Louis Saillant, of France, and M. Tarasov, of Russia. They claimed to represent 60 million workers in 35 nations.

BROWDER RIPS U. S. POLICY AT FRISCO PARLEY

New York, May 2 [Special]—Earl Browder, president of the Communist Political association, who has enthusiastically supported the administration on matters in which its policies have coincided with those supported by the Communist party line, today assailed the course taken by the American delegation at the San Francisco conference.

The moral basis upon which the United States has been standing before the world on the Polish question has been completely destroyed by inclusion of "the fascist government of Argentina" in the conference, he said in a statement, expressing fear that "the policy of F. D. R. is being abandoned in favor of the policy of Arthur Vandenberg."

Whether the influence of the United States will be thrown behind the institution in liberated European countries of regimes composed of former collaborators with the Nazis is a question definitely raised by American actions in the first week of the conference, he said. He added that America has suffered "a severe moral set back."

JACKSON NAMED PROSECUTOR OF WAR CRIMINALS

Truman Puts Hannegan in Walker Cabinet Job.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 2—In a rapid fire series of announcements at his news conference today President Truman reported the first shift in his cabinet, organized American machinery for the prosecution of war criminals, and continued present organization of the Tennessee valley authority.

The three announcements came in that order at the outset of Mr. Truman's second meeting with some 200 reporters since he took office three weeks ago. He reported:

1. Postmaster General Walker has resigned effective as of June 30, and the nomination of his successor, Democratic National Committee Chairman Hannegan, will go to the senate tomorrow.

Lilienthal Reappointed

2. Supreme Court Justice Jackson was named in ar executive order as chief counsel for the United States in the prosecution of war criminals.

3. TVA Chairman David E. Lilienthal's nomination for a second nine year term will reach the senate tomorrow.

The Walker resignation, which was accepted "reluctantly and grudgingly," was announced in the reading of an exchange of letters. Walker's resignation, dated April 16 the day Mr. Truman made his address to a joint session of congress, paid high tribute to the memory of President Roosevelt.

'Yours to Command'

"Franklin D. Roosevelt now takes his place with the great men of the ages," Walker wrote. "May his noble spirit guide and inspire you as you take up the fight for the ideals in defense of which he gave all of his strength, his very life.

"It remains for me only to add that I have full confidence in your leadership. Althc I relinquish public office, I am yours to command if ever I can be of service to you in the heavy tasks which lie ahead."

In his reply, Mr. Truman acceded to a request that Walker be given time to complete a report on his stewardship and added that he expected to take advantage of the latter's offer to return to government service when needed.

Helped in '32 Campaign

Walker was a warm personal friend and early political supporter of the former President, having organized the financial campaign which enabled Mr. Roosevelt to win the Democratic nomination in 1932. Walker served as chairman of the National Emergency council in the early days of the New Deal and then returned to private life.

Walker was named postmaster general in the summer of 1940 when James A. Farley, the man who put Mr. Roosevelt in the White House, broke with the former President on the third term issue. Early in 1941 he was named party chairman but relinquished the post to Hannegan when the fourth term campaign got under way.

In announcing organization for the prosecution of those guilty of atrocities and other war crimes, Mr. Truman reported that former Atty. Gen. Jackson will not resign his high court seat to carry on his new duties. The President expressed the hope the prosecuting job may be completed between the close of court May 28 and the opening of the new court term next October, explaining that under the Moscow declaration of Nov. 1, 1943, war criminals found guilty of specific crimes will be returned to the countries in which the crimes were committed.

Represents the U. S.

"There are left, however, the cases of other war criminals—particularly the major war criminals and their principal agents and accessories, whose offenses have no particular geographical localization," he continued in a formal statement.

"I hope and expect that an international military tribunal will soon be organized to try this second category of war criminals. It will be Justice Jackson's responsibility to represent the United States in preparing and presenting the case against these criminals before such military tribunal."

Preparation for the American part in the prosecutions is to begin at once. Jackson's staff of aids from the war, navy, and other departments will begin immediate examination of data compiled by the united nations war crimes commission at London and will arrange for the assembling of other information in the preparation of cases against the war criminals.

Named to Bench in '41

Jackson, who is 53 years old, came to the federal service on being appointed solicitor general in 1938. Two years later he was named attorney general and on July 7, 1941, his nomination to the high court was confirmed by the senate.

Lilienthal's nomination was vigorously opposed by Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.], who succeeded Mr. Truman in presiding over the senate when Mr. Truman went to the White House. It was also opposed by McKellar's colleague, Sen. Stewart [D., Tenn.].

In deciding against his former colleagues, who have been feuding with Lilienthal, Mr. Truman held the TVA chairman had earned a second term on his record.

Navy "brats," the Navy's own, affectionate term for its children, were guests yesterday at a special party in the McCormick Memorial Y. W. C. A. The children, ranging from 3 months to 4 years, attended with their mothers, wives of the staff of the midshipmen's school at Abbott and Tower halls. The mothers have been meeting at the Y. W. C. A. twice monthly for cards and tea. Mrs. B. B. Wygant, wife of the commanding officer of the school, presided at the tea table.

Truman Asks Workmen Age of White House Tree

Washington, D. C., May 2 (AP)—President Truman paused en route to his office today to chat with some workmen in the White House grounds engaged in removing the stump of a 75 year old poplar. The tree was cut down yesterday because of a fungus root disease. It was 8:35 a. m. when the President stopped in the northwest drive, walked over the lawn and asked William L. Green, Seat Pleasant, Md., Negro ax wielder, the age and other details of the fallen shade tree.

Binds 3 in Women's Shop; Steals $194 and 5 Dresses

Mrs. Jule Hasterlick, 807 South blvd., Evanston, and two patrons were bound in Mrs. Hasterlick's dress shop at 1783 Howard st. yesterday by a bandit who obtained $194, a wrist watch and ring, and five dresses, Mrs. Hasterlick told police. The customers were Mrs. Lillian Phelps, 7348 Ridge av., and Mrs. Paul Benz, 1846 Touhy av. All were liberated by a pedestrian who noticed their plight thru the window.

Mothers of Triplets

Mrs. William Machris, 77, showing Mrs. Warren Pearson, 19, how a diaper was fastened when her triplets were babies.

National Baby week brought together in Chicago members of the most "exclusive" club in America yesterday. The Mothers of Triplets Association of America met for luncheon in Carson Pirie Scott's tearoom to discuss their three fold problems.

Recently organized by Mrs. Bern Owano, 864 Newport av., president, the club's purpose is to aid science in the study of genetics. Members yesterday, however, were concerned with the more immediate problems of how to hold three babies in two arms, how to take three babies for a buggy ride, and how to get a triple number of diapers done in record time.

Mrs. William C. Machris 77, of 825 Division st., Oak Park, the oldest member, expertly demonstrated diaper technique to Mrs. Warren Pearson, 5011 Maypole av., 19, the youngest member, whose triplets are 3 months old. Mrs. Hattie Giertz of River Grove, whose three 19 year old sons are serving together in the Southwest Pacific, sat and chatted with Mrs. Henry Heffner, wife of the mayor of East Hazelcrest, who has two of her boys in the army.

F. D. R. JR. BAGS JAP SUB IN CHINA SEA AFTER 2 HOUR HUNT

ABOARD A CRUISER OFF BORNEO, April 29 [Delayed—(AP)—Two United States destroyers made contact with a Japanese submarine in the South China sea, but lost it. A destroyer-escort commanded by Lt. Comdr. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., then was called in.

The destroyer-escort made five runs on the target during a two hour hunt, and a tremendous underwater explosion indicated the sub's destruction. It was listed as probably sunk, because no wreckage was sighted in the darkness.

Superior officers agreed young Roosevelt did a splendid job. Rear Adm. Russell S. Berkey, squadron commander, termed it "one of the most efficiently conducted anti-submarine operations within my knowledge." Adm. Berkey recommended a legion of merit award for Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt probably never knew of the commendation. He died two days after it was issued.

JOHNSON GIVEN NEW TRIAL AS PERJURY VICTIM

Income Tax Conviction Is Overturned

BY JAMES DOHERTY

William R. [Big Bill] Johnson, tall, gray haired, and well over 50, who became Chicago's most notorious gambler, last night was out from under a five year prison sentence that had hung over his head for most of the last four and one-half years. But whether the government's long fight to punish him as an income tax cheater is to continue was not known, because of the absence of United States Atty. Woll.

William R. Johnson

Johnson, who operated several gambling houses in the city and county prior to 1939, was granted a new trial yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals by a 2 to 1 vote. This decision was the 10th in a series of court findings in a case that twice went to the United States Supreme court and back again to District Judge John P. Barnes. The decision applies also to Johnson's co-defendants, Jack Sommers, James A. Hartigan, William P. Kelly, and Stuart S. Brown.

Perjury Laid to Attorney.

In ruling for Johnson the court held that Atty. William Goldstein, principal witness for the government, was a perjurer. Goldstein's reasons for giving perjured testimony against Johnson were cited: Goldstein was under indictment at the time for perjury before the grand jury and faced disbarment.

The Court of Appeals decision, which came after an uphill fight by Johnson, was due to some of Goldstein's recent actions. The court was ruling on a petition that alleged there was newly discovered evidence proving Goldstein lied.

In the original trial, in 1940, Goldstein testified that Johnson was the sole owner of a building at 3422-24 Lawrence av., which formerly housed the Albany Park bank. He said he bought it for Johnson with $50,000 in cash given him by the gambler, that title was taken in the name of Theodore Goldstein, son of the attorney, who later gave Johnson a quit claim deed for the place.

Rent Collected by Goldstein.

In recent years, however, Goldstein became involved in litigation over ownership of the Lawrence av. building he said he bought for Johnson. It was shown he had collected the rent on it—about $3,000 a year—since its purchase in 1937. It was shown he and his son, in affidavits on income tax matters, ascribed ownership of the building to themselves.

The Court of Appeals took cognizance of these admissions and the fact that Goldstein, after the trial, had taken for himself moneys he said were put in escrow by Johnson and were Johnson's moneys.

"It is our conclusion," said the appeals decision, "that the defendants [Johnson and the others] have brought themselves within the rule of the Larrison and kindred cases, and that the prejudicial effect of Goldstein's false testimony can be remedied only by a new trial."

Court Divided 2 to 1

Judge William M. Sparks and Judge J. Earl Major voted that Johnson should have a new trial. Judge Sherman Minton dissented. He said he relied on a recent finding by Judge Barnes to the effect that Goldstein did not commit perjury or recant.

Prosecutor Woll, who must decide whether he will appeal from yesterday's decision, start with a new trial, or dismiss the entire proceedings, also will decide what is to be done about Goldstein, his aids said.

UNEARTH HOARD OF SHOES AND WORK CLOTHING

Find Three Storerooms Filled to Ceilings

Madison, Ill., May 2 [Special]—Discovery of a hoard of several thousand dollars worth of clothing and hundreds of pair of pre-war shoes packed to the ceiling in storerooms of the Venice township relief headquarters here was disclosed today by newly elected Chief Supervisor Elmer Noonan.

Interest in the cache was heightened by the increasing scarcity of leather for civilian shoes, the supply of which recently was slashed 85 per cent, and the absence from store shelves of many of the items of accumulated work clothes in great demand among war workers in this heavy industrial area.

Noonan said the stored stock, which he estimated had been there five or six years, included about 1,000 pairs of overalls, 350 to 400 pairs of men's, women's, and children's shoes, and hundreds of women's dresses.

Bundles of Work Pants

The piles also contained boys' mackinaws, large bundles of men's work pants and shirts, hundreds of suits of underwear for men, women, and children, socks and stockings, and blankets and comforters.

In addition to the clothing, the three crammed storerooms were found to be the dusty reposing place for eight electric fans, four almost new typewriters, an adding machine and a comptometer, all scarce goods in these days of war-shortened production of civilian supplies.

Noonan, former Madison alderman who became township relief administrator by his election April 3 as chief supervisor of the township, last night took members of the town board on a tour of the relief office storage rooms. Members of the board expressed amazement at the amount of clothing so long withheld from consumer use.

"There's more goods there than many merchants have in stock today," observed one member, Al Bakos, dry goods merchant and justice of the peace. "A lot of that stuff is so scarce storekeepers can't buy it."

Noonan said the hoard had been amassed during the administration of his predecessor, Joe Grenzer, local insurance and real estate agent. It was accumulated, he said, during the depths of the depression in the late '30s.

Little Used Recently

"I can't understand," he said, "why so much badly needed clothing was allowed to lie there unused, unless it was pure negligence. Very little from the piles have been used in recent years for, tho the township once had 1,800 persons on relief, we now have only 11.

"There must be at least $2,000 worth of clothing there, exclusive of the shoes. All of the men's clothing is badly needed by war plant workers. Stores are sold out of overalls and can't get them. And lots of people need shoes.

"I've been authorized to conduct an audit of the township books back to 1937, and I'm going to find out who is responsible for this. I'm also going to learn whether the goods were bought with township or state relief money and who is the owner."

GIVE PARENTS TRIBUNE MAN'S MEDAL TODAY

An air medal awarded to Staff Sgt. Robert Freislinger, an employe of THE TRIBUNE'S rotogravure plant who now is on military leave, will be presented today to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Freislinger, 56 E. Chicago av., by representatives of the army 6th command. Sgt. Freislinger is a prisoner of war.

THE QUESTION
What do you expect of life?

WHERE ASKED
La Rabida Jackson Park sanitarium [asked of nurse's aids].

THE ANSWERS

Dorothy Futter, 441 W. 110th st.—Nothing out of the ordinary—a normal, healthy, happy existence, that's all. I hope some day to be married—if the right man comes along. Before I settle down to a quiet life in Chicago I expect to see some of the world. I suppose it will be a rather limited amount of travel.

Mrs. John A. O'Brien, 834 E. 84th st.—I expect the average life of a middle class person. I don't look forward to riches. After the war is over I expect to have a little help with my housework so that I can spend some time here in the sanitarium helping the children and still have a little more time for myself.

Mrs. Edith De Young, 10718 Wentworth av.—What I expect most is a home and a family. In addition to this I want to do a lot of traveling. I suppose I'll spend the rest of my life in a large city, as I don't hope to live in a small town. I don't intend ever to leave the country. I will be content with a moderate income.

Tennessee Petton, Los Angeles, Cal.—The future is really very uncertain when I stop to think about it, but I'll be surprised if my life is anything out of the ordinary. I'm looking forward to having a home of my own and a family. If this comes true I'll have everything I have ever expected and I will be happy.

Pauline Williams, Rockbridge, Greene county—First of all I expect to be married this year when my fiance comes home from overseas. I plan to devote most of my life to social work in a medium sized city. I plan to have many friends and a small family. I haven't any great ambitions in any other fields.

LABOR LAID OFF, BUT WMC SETS NEED AT 58,400

Despite reduction in shipbuilding recommended yesterday by President Truman and in the face of production cutbacks of other war materials and army plans for reducing airplane construction from 7,000 to 5,000 a month, the war manpower commission asserts that there is a shortage of man power in war plants in Chicago and the city will remain classed as a critical labor area.

Figures released yesterday by the WMC, which was requested by President Truman to reduce its operating budget by $11,937,414, indicated that 58,400 workers still are needed for essential war plants in the Chicago area.

WMC officials said the agency is preparing a list of war plants, including the number of workers each needs and the type of war production each does, to be used in a campaign to recruit more labor.

3,200 Workers Missing

At the Buick aircraft engine plant in Melrose Park, where 2,110 employes were discharged in the last two weeks after 4,000 had been ordered laid off because of a production cutback, 800 have been referred to other jobs, but no statistics are available to show whether these workers took new jobs, a WMC official said yesterday.

Sixty-seven per cent of the Buick workers were women. The WMC said no estimate was available on the number of women who had applied for new jobs, altho all the discharged Buick workers must report to a United States employment office to be referred to other war plant jobs, or they will not be allowed to work, officials asserted.

Of the 58,400 workers still wanted, 20,758 are needed in war plants rated at top priority, the WMC contends.

Critical Materials Needed

Critical materials set forth by the WMC as being held up by shortage of labor in the war plants includes crankshafts for tanks, trucks, and planes; 4 ton trucks; castings for 60 mm. trench mortars; prime movers and turbines for ships; firing pins for 105 mm. and 90 mm. shells; containers for 105 mm. shells; heavy truck chassis; landing craft joints, and airplane carburetors for fighter and bomber planes.

Other vital needs are power transmission gears for automotive equipment; gun sights; engines for B-25 planes and other types; castings for aircraft; parts for .50 caliber machine guns; airplane motor gears; 240 mm. howitzers, and parts for M-4 and M-6 tractors.

Also manufactured in plants where labor shortages are said to exist are brake shoes for railroad cars and engines; radio and telephone equipment of all kinds; parts for pontoons and for the new T-26 tank; five inch navy rockets; armored tanks; aluminum landing mats for United States engineers; air borne radar; 250 pound fragmentation bombs; C-54 cargo planes, and jacks for 155 mm. gun carriages.

FIND EX-FACTORY OFFICIAL DEAD; GUN BY HIS SIDE

William E. Timmerman, 76, of 7455 Greenview av., who retired three years ago as secretary of C. F. Pease company, 2601 Irving Park rd., manufacturers of blue printing machinery, was found shot to death yesterday in his room. A .38 caliber revolver lay beside the body.

The body was found by Mrs. Jeanne Ruiz, manager of the apartment hotel in which he lived, after Timmerman failed to answer his doorbell to receive his newspaper.

A sealed letter found in the room, with instructions that it be opened in the event of serious accident, asked police to communicate with Victor Hedberg, an attorney with offices at 38 S. Dearborn st. Timmerman's wife died four years ago.

WAR WORKERS' HOME BUILDING STRIKE ENDED

Work on nearly 1,000 war workers' homes in Chicago, Broadview, Bellwood, and Skokie, which was held up for 15 days because of a jurisdictional dispute among three AFL unions, was resumed yesterday. The men returned to work after a building trades arbitration board ruled that laborers had the right to lay drains into the homes, and not the plumbers' union members, who had claimed the work.

The Western Foundry company, 3700 S. Kedzie av., announced that it had acceded to the demands of local 2942 of the United Steelworkers union [CIO] for maintenance of membership and a check-off of union dues. The company's refusal to grant these demands previously had caused 400 of the plant's 425 workers to go on strike April 17, stopping production of gray iron and steel castings for the army and navy for 16 days. The union and company sent telegrams to the strikers to return to work this morning.

Jack A. Albertsen, president of local 2942 of the United Steelworkers union [CIO], announced yesterday that 128 union members who had been on strike since April 27 in the Bucyrus-Monighan company, 931 N. Kilpatrick av., voted to return to work this morning and to arbitrate the problem of incentive pay which precipitated the strike.

BOYS WILL RULE CITY FOR A DAY; SEE ARMS MADE

As a feature of the city's annual observance of Youth week, 13 boys ranging in age from 12 to 17 years will take over Chicago's municipal offices next Tuesday. They were selected in city-wide competitive examinations conducted by the Junior Association of Commerce under the direction of Frank W. Baker, chairman of the citizenship committee.

The youth to whom Mayor Kelly will yield his chair is Robert E. Farley, 17, of 4238 Van Buren st., who represents the Calvary Presbyterian church youth group. The commissioner of police will be John Morrice, 16, of 319 N. Latrobe av., and the fire commissioner is Ray McLaughlin, 13, of 6401 S. Carpenter st. The 12 year old who will take office is Erwin A. Uecker, 5438 S. Maplewood av., a Boy Scout who will take the post of Chief Bailiff Albert J. Horan of the Municipal court.

After ceremonies in the city hall, the boys and the officials whose places they will take will be guests of the Junior Association of Commerce at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. The guest speaker will be United States Atty. Woll. In the afternoon a trip to one of Chicago's war plants will be scheduled for the youths.

URGES EASIER WAY TO AMEND CONSTITUTION

House Group Approves Gateway Resolution

BY GEORGE TAGGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 2—Virtually without discussion, legislators who yesterday defeated the move toward complete revision of the 1870 constitution, today recommended for adoption the resolution for a gateway amendment to the constitution.

Defeated four times at the polls, the amendment would make the future amending process easier. It provides that three amendments may be submitted to voters at a single election. The constitution now permits only one amendment to be presented at an election.

Sponsored by Rep. David Hunter [R., Rockford] and Rep. W. O. Edwards, [D., Danville], the resolution was approved by a 14 to 1 vote of the house executive committee. Rep. Jenkins [R., Chicago] voted against it on the grounds that if voters will not trouble to understand a single amendment they cannot be expected to master three amendments at an election.

Labor Leaders Present

Spokesmen for the Illinois Agricultural Association and the Illinois State Federation of Labor were on hand to talk for the gateway plan but it was not necessary in view of the committee's attitude. They were instrumental yesterday in routing the forces favoring a constitutional convention to rewrite the state's basic law.

"If the agricultural association will put as much effort behind gateway as it did against the constitutional convention the gateway resolution should be adopted," said Rep. Stransky [R., Savanna].

Mayor Kelly of Chicago is on record as supporting the gateway amendment. Gov. Green, who had advocated a constitutional convention, may come out for gateway as a second best plan.

Will Seek Quick Action

Rep. Edwards said he will move swiftly to have the gateway issue decided on the floor of the house, where it must receive 102 votes to carry. There will be a roll call not later than next week, Edwards said. The resolution requires 34 votes in the senate.

If approved by the legislature, the gateway amendment will be submitted to voters at the 1946 general election. To carry it needs a majority of all of the votes cast at the election, not merely a majority of the votes cast on the proposition. This hurdle has stopped the previous gateway proposals.

Printed on Separate Ballots

An important feature of the Edwards-Hunter proposal is a provision that future amendments would carry if they received approval of two-thirds of those voting on the proposition.

Another feature is the provision that future amendments could be printed on separate ballots, rather than on the ballot with the candidates. This ties in with a movement to require by statute that voters first mark the ballot on a constitutional amendment before receiving a ballot on candidates.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

May 2, 1945.

THE job of seeding the final oat field on the Wheaton farm was completed early this week by a team consisting of three men and three tractors pulling a seeder, disks, and harrows. The work was routine, but the sights and sounds accompanying the task provided a panorama enjoyed by every rural enthusiast.

The giant diesel caterpillar tractor led the field parade by hauling a heavy disk and harrow, thus preparing the ground for the broadcast seeder, which raced in its path, this lighter unit making three round trips of the 30 acre field for each circuit by the caterpillar. Following the seeder came the third tractor, also pulling a disk, covering the seed left by the broadcaster.

Norwester Is Chilly

The white clouded blue sky would have been perfect for a landscape artist painting a spring scene, but the balmy picture overhead was contradicted by the temperature of 45 degrees and the brisk wind, blowing from the northwest, which forced the farmers to wear heavy leather jackets.

Guinea hens from the near-by barnyard came out of their lot to peck away at the oat seed—and perhaps find a few earthworms. Crows flew in from the woodlots to steal some of the grain, too, but they were smart enough to keep a safe distance from the roaring tractors.

Gobbler Goes Jealous

Across the rustic rail fence, the alfalfa field is lush and green, with added color provided by the troublesome wild yellow mustard weed. White Holland turkey hens, making hidden nests in the hay field and in the weedy cover under the fence, move slowly thru the alfalfa. One smart turkey hen has her nest next to the fence under a board that has been leaned against the top rail in tepee fashion. Thus she is protected from rain.

In the barnyard, a mallard duck is hatching the first brood of the season, but when we approach to within a few feet of her she refuses to move off the nest to give us a sight of her new ducklings. An inquisitive turkey gobbler, jealous of the duck's early brood, pecks and worries the mallard from her nest, causing the flockmaster's wife to come with her broom to chase the troublesome turkey out of the yard.

★ The GARDEN ★

ONE of the common subjects of debate among gardeners concerns methods of planting sween corn. Most gardeners plant several kernels to a hill, then pull out excess seedlings. Other experienced gardeners, including the tender of the Wheaton farm plots, prefer to drill single seeds every 10 to 12 inches in the row, avoiding the necessity of thinning.

This procedure is practiced in the farm gardens: Rows are 30 inches apart. After the seedbed is thoroly prepared, the gardener marks the rows with a cord, then uses a dibber to make a seed drill an inch deep each 12 inches along the row. A single kernel is dropped into each drill, then covered.

If all the seeds germinate, no thinning or replanting is necessary. If some of the seeds fail to germinate, the spaces later are replanted, providing a form of succession harvest.

REPUBLICAN HITS TIEUP BETWEEN GREEN, KELLY

BY ROBERT HOWARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 2—Republican factional rows broke out in both houses today. The biggest uproar came in the house, where Rep. Clabaugh [R., Champaign] voiced the downstate belief that Gov. Green has joined too often with Mayor Kelly in bi-partisan legislation for Chicago.

Rep. Clabaugh.

"It is about time for the leadership of the Republican party to get down to business and quit rushing legislation just because it is proposed by the people on the Democratic side of the aisle," Clabaugh shouted.

Disapprove Ruling

He cited as examples the Kelly-Green traction and housing bills, already passed; the constitutional convention measure killed yesterday, and the Chicago terminal authority legislation, introduced in the senate today.

Clabaugh also said the downstate Republicans were "tired" of having Speaker Green [R., Jacksonville] make parliamentary rulings suggested by the minority leader, Rep. Sullivan [D., Springfield].

In the senate, the leadership of Sen. Laughlin [R., Freeport], the president pro tem, was firmly established on a decision to hold up appropriation bills until a special Republican caucus committee reports Monday night.

Uphold Laughlin

"We have been getting quite a bit of word from home about the excessive size of the appropriation bills, and the caucus committee is working long hours to see if we can help the taxpayers," Laughlin said.

The Democrats wanted to go ahead with the bills, and were joined by Sen. Downing [R., Macomb], whose appropriations committee already had approved them. When the showdown came, Laughlin was upheld on a 32 to 14 vote, with Downing voting present.

"Taxpayers of the state should give thanks to the members of the Republican caucus committee who courageously insisted in their right to be given time to study pending appropriation bills," said Thomas E. Fiske, executive secretary of the nonpartisan taxpayers federation of Illinois. He told reporters that reductions totaling $170,000 have been agreed upon. The caucus group headed by Sen. Lantz [R., Congerville], is working at its own expense.

GREEN WOULD DELAY WORK ON PENSION BILLS

Wants Plans Sent to Special Body

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 2—Gov. Green today urged that action on all pending pension bills for public officials and employes be delayed until a thoro study can be made by a special commission.

Bills already are well on the way toward passage to give a pension of up to 50 per cent of their salary to state legislators. A bill to pension Chicago city elected officials also has been introduced in the legislature.

Opposes Adoption Now

In a statement Green said:

"I am opposed to the adoption of any proposals at this time creating additional present or future burdens upon the taxpayers until a further study of the proposals has been made and thoro consideration given to all conditions surrounding these proposals.

"It is my suggestion, therefore, that action on all pending measures relating to the subject of public employe pensions creating additional present or future burdens be deferred at the present session so that these proposals may be submitted to a pension commission which I have recommended be created."

136 Plans in Force

He expressed approval of public employe pensions in principle but held that many of the pending measures are faulty.

In force in Illinois are 136 public retirement systems with obligations for pensions and benefits of over 00 million dollars, Green said. There are 42 pension bills in the egislature now, some of which would create liabilities of untold millions in years to come, he said.

Bills boosting the salaries of many state officials were introduced today by Rep. Bruer [R., Pontiac], chairman of the house appropriations committee. The Illinois commerce commission chairman would be raised from $6,000 to $8,000 a year, as would directors of state departments. Commission members would go from $6,000 to $7,500. Assistant commissioners would go from $4,250 to $4,675, and the secretary from $5,100 to $6,000.

BERT K. NASTER ORDERED SEIZED ON FIRE CHARGES

A warrant for the arrest of Bert K. Naster, president of Superior Electric Industries, 1255-69 S. Campbell av., was issued by Judge Erwin J. Hasten yesterday when Naster failed to appear in License court to answer five charges of violating fire prevention ordinance provisions.

Judge Hasten denied a plea by George B. Grabow, attorney for Naster, that the warrant be dropped and the case continued for three weeks. Grabow appeared in court an hour after Naster's case was called for trial. Naster was fined $100 and costs April 12 by Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli for assault and battery on Lt. Glen Crawford, 22, of 412 Lee st., Evanston.

Fines of $100 and costs were assessed against defendants in four fire prevention cases heard yesterday. Those fined were Carl Cary, 506 S. Wells st.; Mary Ellis, 265 Alexander st.; Joseph Winkler, 671 N. Clark st., and Fred Jernt, 112 W. Kinzie st.

$10,000 Blaze Sweeps Building on West Side

A 4-11 alarm fire of undetermined origin, which started under a rear loading platform, yesterday swept the rear portion of the five story building at 548 Monroe st. The first floor is occupied by the Allied Machinery company. The four other floors are vacant. Bernard Broude, owner of the machinery company, said the fire appeared to start near the loading platform. The loss was estimated at $10,000.

BILL PROPOSES TO FIX SANITARY DISTRICT LEVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 2—Rep. Rategan [D., Chicago] today introduced a bill to put the Chicago sanitary district on a pegged levy of $5,400,000 for 1946 and at $8,000,000 a year thereafter. At present the sanitary district's tax levies are pegged so as to produce $6,400,000 a year.

Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the Civic federation, in approving Rategan's bill said the $8,000,000 would be needed in 1947 and following years because of deferred maintenance and new sewage disposal plants.

Rategan's bill would repeal the optional 15 cent rate under which the sanitary district, by abandoning its pegged levy, could get $8,900,000 a year under present assessed valuations.

FIRE ROUTS STORE EMPLOYES

Twelve employes were forced into the street, three of them using ladders to escape, when fire started yesterday in the Burton Furniture company, 725 North av. Acting Chief Fire Marshal Michael J. Cody estimated damage at $5,000. The company is owned by Joseph Ragoff, 1135 Hyde Park blvd.

Mayor Asks Observance of Schools' Centennial

Mayor Kelly yesterday proclaimed May 7-19 as the Chicago Public School Building centennial and urged city-wide observance of the opening of the Dearborn school, which stood from 1845 to 1871 in Madison st., 80 feet east of Dearborn st.

FEW GO THIRSTY AFTER CURFEW, SURVEY SHOWS

Cheaters Found in Loop, on Near North Side

The thirsty still can buy liquor in Chicago after the curfew has struck at midnight. Many taverns aren't paying strict attention to the curfew. Front doors are locked, but rear and side doors are opened in the manner of the prohibition era.

Curfew breakers were found in the loop and other night life areas. Cheating ranged from a few minutes to two and three hours. A survey showed the most numerous violations along the near north side, but the most flagrant in the Diversey av. area. Generally, the better saloons, having much more at stake, punctiliously observed the curfew.

Just Ask Taxi Driver

In the loop, one only had to ask a taxicab driver where to find a drink. One of the first was located in N. Clark st., near Lake st. A 50 foot walk down an alley led to an unlighted white door. Inside were 20 men and women drinking, served by a singing barkeep. The hour was 2:43 a. m.

A third floor club in the 100 block in W. Randolph st., reached by a freight elevator with an operator who asked no questions, accepted visitors as late as 2 a. m. The customers kept two barkeepers, a 26 girl and a juke box busy.

A basement tavern in the 300 block W. Madison st., proclaimed in a placard that it was closed until 7 a. m., but it wasn't. At 1 a. m. drinks were being pushed across the bar to 25 ready takers.

These were only a few of the more flagrant downtown violators. Most of the others cheated only 10 to 20 minutes by allowing patrons to finish drinks bought in quantity up to 12 o'clock.

Near North Side Places Open

On the near north side, two or three Ohio st. spots cheated at least a few minutes, and several Clark st. bars seemed to sell at almost any predawn hour. As a rule, however, they operated on a hush-hush basis, with front windows blinded. Not so, however, in three or four places around Clark and Division sts., where side or rear doors were open to the public in the pre-curfew style.

Farther north there were brazen cheaters. One bar near the 3100 block N. Clark was open at 1:50 a. m., as could be seen thru an unguarded front door peephole. There, as in other spots in that general area, as well as along Broadway, starting in the 2800 block, patrons could be seen coming and going. Some taverns admitted only regular customers.

SOLDIERS FIND RIDE WITH GIRL AN EXCITING ONE

Three soldiers and a beauty operator were in a car last night and, Waukegan police records allege, these things happened:

The car, driven by the girl, went thru a stop sign in Utica st. at Grand av. and was struck by an automobile driven by Robert King, 914 Muirfield av. The girl's car smashed into one driven by Mrs. Bertha Mutka of 801 George av. No one was hurt.

The light on the woman's auto was doused and it proceeded north in Utica, but came to a dead end a block away at Julian av., ran over the sidewalk, and crashed into the First Christian church, where a mother and daughter dinner was being held. No one was hurt.

The car was abandoned, but a few minutes later Policeman Leonard Duncan and John Vleck rounded up the occupants. They were Mrs. Viola Johnston, 26, of 849 Wadsworth av., who said her soldier husband is missing overseas; Pvts. Charles L. Montgomery and Richard C. Melson, wounded veteran at Downey veterans hospital, and Pvt. W. T. Thompson, of Fort Sheridan. The soldiers were released, but Mrs. Johnston was booked on charges of going thru a stop sign, leaving the scene of an accident, reckless driving and causing property damage.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

5 HINTS TO HELP YOUR RADIO LAST TILL WAR ENDS

Manufacturers Urge Conserved Use

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Mindful of the critical shortage of radio tubes and parts, the Radio Manufacturers association has suggested a five point procedure to help sets still in working order to last for the duration of the war:

1. Evaluate programs carefully and choose those most suited for several members of the family. Post the day's program schedule and use it as a guide to eliminate unnecessary exploration of the dials.

2. Turn off the radio when using appliances or doing household tasks that drown out the sound of the receiver. Turn it off during electrical storms. [This does not apply to frequency modulation sets, which are not affected by lightning.]

Excessive Volume a Strain

3. Keep radio tuned at moderate volume. Excessive volume places unnecessary strain on certain parts.

4. Owners of combination radio-phonographs are cautioned not to forget to turn off the power after they have turned off the turntable.

5. Don't leave the radio turned on when not listening. This needlessly shortens the life of the instrument and wastes power.

The radio industry can give no assurance as to how soon resumption of civilian radio manufacture [discontinued in April, 1942] will be permitted. The RMA has been advised that "army and navy procurement service and the war production board are not now anticipating any drastic cutbacks in [military] radio-radar production before the end of 1945."

Pent-up Demand for Radios

Any cutback, it has been estimated, would not exceed 15 per cent. Industry spokesmen said this would mean little chance for manufacture of home sets before the first quarter of 1946.

When it resumes production of civilian goods, the radio industry expects to run full blast. An estimated pent-up demand is expected to keep it going full tilt for three years or more.

CAA TESTS RADAR FOR PEACE TIME AIR SAFEGUARD

First steps looking to the adoption of radar as a protective device for civil aviation after the war already have been taken by the civil aeronautics administration, it was disclosed yesterday. The CAA has erected an experimental station in Indianapolis, Ind., to test the application of radar to flying in fog, rain, and snow.

Airport control towers equipped with radar, it is said, could direct the movements of planes up to a distance of 100 miles, and radar devices on planes could tell the pilot how far he is from other planes, mountains, or other obstructions. Radar altimeters could give him his distance above the ground.

Locomotives and ships also are expected to be equipped with radar after the war to prevent collisions.

KEEP FULL RULE OF PACIFIC ISLES, LEGION DEMANDS

Unalterable opposition to yielding control of any Pacific island wrested from Japan to any other nation was voted last night by the Cook County council of the American Legion, meeting in the city hall. The council also voted to encourage the organization of "Dad to GI Joe" clubs among the Legion's 55,000 members in Cook county.

A resolution asserting that the United States' claim to newly won Pacific islands is not open to question by any other nation, presented by the Harvey and Fort Dearborn posts, was adopted unanimously, almost by acclaim.

Stepping Stones for Japs

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, after the first World war, the League of Nations permitted many Pacific islands to fall into the hands of the Japanese, and,

"Whereas, these islands, the Marshalls, the Carolinas, and the Marianas, as well as the Bonins and Volcano Islands, were fortified and served as stepping stones for Japan in the present war, permitting her to attack us and our allies and preventing us from sending timely help to the Philippines, and,

"Whereas, these islands, at a cost of many precious American lives, are being gradually wrested from the Japanese, now, therefore,

"Be it resolved, that we are unalterably opposed to ever permitting these islands to pass from the control of the United States, and that these islands be not shared with any other nation, or nations, and that our right to have sole control of these islands is not open to question by any other nation or nations."

Explains Dad-GI Clubs

The council also moved to present the resolution to the Legion's department convention with a recommendation that it likewise be placed before the next national convention of the organization.

The proposal for organization of the "Dad to GI Joe" clubs was placed before the council by Perc Brautigan, former Cook county council commander, now connected with the war loan drive which opens May 14.

He explained that membership in the club is open to fathers of men or women in service who purchase a bond for their son or daughter during the forthcoming 7th war loan drive. The clubs were proposed in a Tribune editorial.

A Round Trip Ticket

"Urge the fathers and mothers of persons in service to purchase round trip tickets for the sons or daughters they have sent to war," Brautigan told the Legionnaires.

He emphasized that it is highly important that everything possible be done to step up the sale of bonds in the forthcoming drive because Cook county's quota has been increased nearly 60 per cent.

"It is an appeal to the fighting fathers of World War I, to give a bond to their fighting sons and daughters of World War II.," he said.

ROCK ISLAND recognizes that in modern railroading the smartest distance is the shortest, with the greatest freedom from grades. That is why it is eliminating curves and grades wherever possible; smoothing and straightening the way for the high-speed passenger and freight trains America demands today. That is better railroading!

A STRAIGHT LINE is the SMARTEST DISTANCE between TWO POINTS

Many track leveling and straightening projects are already completed, others are in progress, and still many more are planned. This continual activity, throughout the 14 states it serves, is part of ROCK ISLAND'S Program of Planned Progress.

Thus, ROCK ISLAND is doing a better war job . . . right now . . . putting traffic over its lines faster and in greater volume. And will be ready for the peacetime era when fine, fast transportation will carry the people and haul the goods to make America's future safe and secure, for . . .

As yesterday — and today — so tomorrow, ROCK ISLAND'S sole purpose is to provide the finest in transportation.

GENTLEMEN, YOU MUST BUILD YOUR LINE TO SERVE OUR TOWN

America's pioneer railroads were built to serve as many early, struggling communities as possible. The railroads were the life-blood of the early nation they helped to build. Constant improvements have enabled ROCK ISLAND LINES to keep ahead of the demand for better, faster service. Shortening, straightening and leveling have made, and are making, our routes more direct, as we continue to serve an impressive number of American communities.

TWO OF GANG GET SIX MONTHS FOR ATTACK ON GIRL

Three Others Will Go on Trial Monday

Judge Jacob M. Braude in Boys' court yesterday sentenced two of five young men, accused of attacking a 16 year old girl, to six months in jail followed by a year on probation. The two are Frank Pistello, 19, of 9718 Avenue L, and Dominic F. Tanzillo, 17, of 10021 Avenue L.

Charges against the two were reduced from rape to contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Both pleaded guilty. The reduction of the charges came after a conference between Judge Braude and Assistant State's Attorneys Charles McNamara and William Gallagher.

Cite Better Justice

"We believed that the interests of justice would be better served under this arrangement," McNamara said. "The court had informed us that the guilty men would be given jail sentences. Had they been held to the grand jury they might not have been indicted or, if indicted and tried, might have been placed on probation."

Judge Braude explained that the charges were reduced because the state felt that an immediate sentence would be acceptable in lieu of a grand jury hearing, in which the jury might vote a no bill or a discharge. Judge Braude said the evidence for the state was weak, and that a charge of statutory rape could not be made because the girl was more than 16.

Defense attorneys, in their cross-examination of the girl, sought to show that she had known one of the men and had accompanied them willingly. She denied this, but answered in the affirmative when asked if she had become frightened when the policeman drove up. The men had been arrested by Detective Thomas Brennan of the East End station, who drove up to investigate the car and saw the girl, clad only in a slip, in the rear seat.

Parents Appear Unmoved

The girl's parents, interviewed in their home after the court hearing, appeared unmoved by their daughter's experience. The girl, who was present, smiled broadly at her mother's observation that "she'll have to learn to take care of herself."

Disorderly conduct charges against Stanley A. Kozanda, 17, of 11257 Green Bay av., who was present but did not attack the girl, were continued to May 9 and he was ordered examined by the court psychiatrist.

Also accused of attacking the girl were Ralph Angotti, 16, of 9606 Avenue H; Paul Linco, 15, of 10451 Avenue O; and Fred Pufahl, 16, of 9640 Avenue L. Their cases will be heard Monday in Juvenile court.

Was Seized, Girl Says

The victim, who works in a box factory after school hours, had testified on direct examination that Pistello, Tanzillo, Angotti, and Linco yanked her into their car at 89th st. and Baltimore av. after she had finished work April 23. They drove to a picnic grove at 115th st. and Avenue B, she said, where they stripped her of her clothing and raped her. She testified that she had screamed and struggled against her assailants.

While they were in the car, the girl continued, Kozanda and Pufahl rode up on bicycles and were invited by the other men to share in the attack. Pufahl accepted, she said, but Kozanda declined.

CITE 4 PAPERS FOR EXCEEDING QUOTA OF WPB

Washington, D. C., May 2 (AP)—The war production board today accused four printing and publishing firms in Ohio and Michigan of exceeding newsprint quotas.

The agency charged the Palladium Publishing company, Benton Harbor, Mich., publisher of the News-Palladium, used 36,243 pounds in excess of quota during the first three quarters of 1943. The paper was directed to cut its permitted quotas by this amount by July 1, 1945.

The Sentinel Printing company, Holland, Mich., publisher of the Holland Evening Sentinel, was accused of using 6,589 pounds in excess of quotas for the second and third quarters of 1944 and was directed to reduce use by this amount before July 1.

George R. and Paul N. Averill, commercial printers and co-partners in publishing the Birmingham, Mich., Eccentric, a weekly newspaper, overused 30,922 pounds of paper during 1944, WPB said. The firm was directed to cut 15,461 pounds of paper for commercial printing from its usual quotas for each of the second and third quarters of this year.

The Rotary Printing company, Norwalk, O., was accused of overusing its quota by 277,522 pounds in the first quarter of 1943.

WARNS 1,800,000 NOT TO EXPECT PHONES QUICKLY

Recent reports about the partial lifting of restrictions on the manufacture of telephones do not mean that the approximately 1,800,000 persons in the United States who are waiting for telephone service can be taken care of quickly, the Illinois Bell Telephone company warned yesterday. Switchboards and other central office equipment, as well as line and cable facilities, necessary to handle the increased number of subscribers, are not immediately available, it was explained, and even if the company had adequate supplies of telephones, which it does not, service still could not be given quickly to all who want it. The communications industry, the announcement pointed out, still will be obligated to provide war equipment even after Germany's defeat.

100,000 Jobs Are Pledged to New Vet Organization

Pledges to give jobs to nearly 100,000 war veterans already have been received from Illinois employers who have joined Industry for Veterans, Inc., which was formed by Capt. James Simpson Jr. early in April, he said yesterday. He added that 55 additional Illinois firms which currently employ 225,000 persons had signed pledges to set aside 25 per cent of their post-war jobs for returning veterans.

UNION SESSION WITH CHRYSLER IS POSTPONED

A meeting of representatives of the Chrysler corporation and of the United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO] scheduled for yesterday at Highland Park, Mich., to attempt to agree on a job seniority plan for veterans was postponed until tomorrow. R. J. Kelter, president of the United Veterans of World War II, and chairman of the veterans' committee of local 274 of the union, asked that he be allowed to present views of veterans employed at the Dodge Chicago plant on the problem at tomorrow's meeting.

Meanwhile, veteran representatives of other UAW locals met corporation officials to renew the union's demand for an amended seniority provision in the union contract.

Company officials stated there was little difference between the new demands and what the union had previously demanded. "The veteran still must get his job before he is given job seniority equal to time spent in military service under the union's plan," a company official said. "The company's proposition, which the union turned down again today, gives veterans seniority standing before being hired."

DICTATORS, DEAD AND ALIVE

Stalin is taking a ruin called Berlin as the sweetest garland in his revenge on his double-crossing, one time brother in arms, Adolf Hitler, now presumably dead. Fortunately some factor of Russian pride, American common sense, or military advisability kept American soldiers out of the streets of the toppling Nazi capital.

The death of the craziest of the dictators, Herr Hitler, has been proclaimed by Adm. Doenitz over the remaining radio voice of Germany, if by this time it still remains, in Hamburg. Thru this medium the little strut with the big nation who tried to imitate the personality of Mussolini, the big strut with the small nation, had his obituary framed in his favorite music of the Gotterdammerung while Berlin was falling in death struggles seemingly inspired by the Nibelungenlied. Nazi Germany is making a wild pagan finish with Wagner at the organ and Nietzsche writing the funeral oration.

Is Hitler dead? The Russians say it is a fantastic Nazi trick to cover the fuehrer's escape. The British think he is dead, but do not know how or when he died, whether by a stroke while he was raving in the ruins of his capital, by his own hand, by a Russian bullet, or even by a German pistol. Goering probably is dead, Goebbels is off the radio, Himmler is apparently trying to arrange for his own safe conduct, and some of the others of the intimate Nazi circle may be too drunk to know where they are. Hess, at least, is fully accounted for. He is a British prisoner.

The body of the dictator whose term of ascendancy was about as long as Stalin's was hanging by its heels a few days ago in Milan, mangled, fouled, and treated as carrion by his executioners who defiled their justice. Mussolini's corpse, until strung up by the heels, was in a heap with his dead mistress and his fascist companions. Neither the dead man nor his killers did anything serviceable for the illusion of self-government in Europe.

The oldest dictator in point of years and the briefest in span of authority is a prisoner in the fortress of Montrouge near Paris. The venerable Petain, the paternal defeatist who thought that France, after the humiliation of June, 1940, needed a rebirth in simple faith and wholesome work, is a captive and on trial for his life. His first attempt to save France was a soldier's effort at Verdun and made him a hero. His second was the mistake of a failing old man and made him, in the eyes of the people who will condemn him, a traitor.

The Chinese dictator, Chiang Kai-shek, began his career by being kidnaped by an opponent, the young Chang, to learn patriotism by meditation in a monastery. Now without an army, without a navy, without an air force, without resources except lend-lease, and with little of his country, he is represented as one of the four great powers at San Francisco, while his conquerors, the Japanese dictators, are reduced to seeing their forces, outside the domain of Chiang, expended in suicidal frustrations.

In the abuse of government and the cultivation of intolerable relations our era has distinguished itself beyond the most malevolent ill wishes of the most malignant hater of the human race. Out of such a world we assemble at San Francisco a congregation where for the first time most of our guests see a free sky and there undertake to create a free world of which they have little knowledge and for which many of them have little desire. Our incongruities are not amusing. Our travesties are not laughable. It is not by a playwright's keen wit that they are staged on our west coast where, incidentally, it is a popular doctrine that freedom does not extend to Japanese-Americans who have fought the battles of the America where they were born.

Our moral assumptions are perversions. Our moralists speak of democracy where nothing of the sort ever existed. They speak of peace loving nations with reference to nations which never hesitated to go to war to gain any advantage or were ever restrained from pouncing on anything they could get by force. They speak of freedom to nations which no sooner get out of the clutches of others than they are squabbling about their colonies. We forget Stalin's political assassinations and Russia's rape of nations and allow Molotov, a key man in the homicidal dictatorship, to bully his way thru the deliberations of what is called a conference to restore the faith and security of mankind.

Our phrase makers have created a moral confusion greater than the physical confusion of the devastated countries. It may have worse consequences.

MEET G I JOE

The suggestion that the viewpoint of the American soldier be represented at the San Francisco world conference is being fulfilled in a very strange way. One of the representatives of our enlisted men is supposed to be Charles G. Bolte of New York City, who joined the British army six months before Pearl Harbor and did not trouble to transfer into the American army after we got into the war. He was in British uniform for 11 months after America became a belligerent, until he was incapacitated at El Alamein.

Bolte, however, expresses confidence that he is qualified to represent the doughboy's viewpoint, altho he never served beside any Americans.

Stranger even than he as spokesman for GI Joe are two young men brought to the conference by Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, the New Deal's hand-picked Republican. One is Lt. Cord Meyer Jr. of New York, whose father is the very wealthy head of a Long Island land development corporation and a friend of the duke of Windsor. Meyer's grandfather left a fortune of 7 million dollars and he himself has married the daughter of the late Amos Pinchot, wealthy eastern publicist.

Stassen's other adviser on the thoughts of the boys in the foxholes is Sgt. John Thomson of Minneapolis, whose father is the president of Northwest Bancorporation, which at the end of last year listed assets of 1 billion 193 million dollars.

It is to the credit of all three of these young men that they were wounded in honorable service. One, however, can hardly have an American outlook on the basis of British service. The other two are rather more wealthy and accustomed to a more elevated social sphere than the average doughboy. It is to be wondered if, in the circumstances, the views of G I Joe will receive characteristic utterance at San Francisco or whether they are supposed to.

THE END OF CON-CON

The proposal for a constitutional convention in Illinois, which had the indorsement of both Mayor Kelly and Gov. Green, failed in the house. The measure fell 21 votes short of the two-thirds majority required.

The drive for the convention owed its strength and persistence chiefly to two influences. One of them was the League of Women Voters, led by a handful of fussy, would-be political bosses. The other was the CIO, an organization run by men who are avid for power and if they got it, would use it to set up concentration camps like those established in Russia and Germany for political opponents.

There are lessons in this defeat which the mayor and the governor can profitably take to heart. Mayor Kelly should realize that he has overreached himself in trying to boss the legislature. He should return to his constitutional functions as mayor of Chicago, itself a job big enough for any man, and no harm would be done to him or the community if the city council were to take back some of the power in local government that rightly belongs to it and not to him.

As for Gov. Green, he has fallen into bad company. We hope he will separate himself from it. Mr. Green ought to know that the best way to gain political support thruout the state is to give it an economical and competent administration. That is what he was elected to do and it is on that task that he should concentrate his attention.

OBJECT LESSON

Those radio station operators who are moving heaven and earth to kill the radio libel bill in the Illinois legislature would profit, both morally and financially, if they dropped into their favorite barroom and meditated on their surroundings.

The proprietor ot their hangout may very well be a respectable citizen. Nevertheless, he runs the most elaborately licensed and closely regulated business that can be found. He may make every effort to comply with all of the regulations imposed on him, but even so, he is in danger of prosecution or blackmail by any one of half a dozen agencies if he slips inadvertently. The decent saloonkeeper finds himself in this predicament because the public has found by long and unhappy experience that a great many people engaged in the liquor traffic are so greedy, shortsighted, and generally untrustworthy that they must be kept under the strictest surveillance.

The pending libel bill won't drive any radio stations out of business. The proof of this is that newspapers in this country have been working under equally strict penalties for libel since they were first published, and the libel laws have never destroyed any reputable newspaper.

The opponents of the libel bill are making an economic mistake. They are making it because they can make money libeling people on the air, and that being a valuable privilege, they will have to pay for it, eventually, more than they now calculate. They can be sure that if this bill is not passed a more stringent one will come at the next session of the legislature. This process will be progressive, until there will finally be passed a really damaging bill. This is what happens to all dishonest businesses, and it will happen to the radio stations if they continue their efforts to profit by the dishonest peddling of their facilities to libelers.

COMMUNIST SPECIALTY

A dispatch from Moscow reports that in the new Austrian government a Communist, Franz Khonner, is minister of the interior. Another Communist is minister of the interior in the Fierlinger government in Czechoslovakia. Anton Yugoff, another Communist, is minister of the interior in Bulgaria.

The ministry of the interior in a European government is not what it is in this country. Here the department is concerned with Indians, Alaska, irrigation, and other matters having to do for the most part with the wide open spaces. In Europe the interior department of a government bosses the police, including the secret police. It is the interior department that is charged with maintaining what is called the security of the state; that is, it is the department that arrests the political prisoners and provides and operates whatever prisons and concentration camps are employed to discourage opposition.

It is no accident that the Communists in central Europe are reaching for the ministries of the interior. By this means they can suppress anybody they think will organize a political opposition to communism. With his Red army in occupation or conveniently near-by, and the police of the so-called liberated lands at his service, Stalin can leave such ministries as the navy and education to representatives of other parties and still feel assured that if he wants them he can have them, too, without much trouble.

QUESTION MARK

Early in Hitler's career, when he was on trial in Munich as a political disturber who could easily be deported as an alien, a professor of anthropology studied his appearance and behavior and submitted a report to the court. This document summarized the observations with the phrase: "Of very bad race." In view of Hitler's obsession with theories of racial purity, this seldom told story has remained in our memory as a small gem of irony.

* * *

The skepticism with which the German announcement of his death was received recalls that under such circumstances legends of survival are likely to haunt the future. Germany already has such a legend about Frederick Barbarossa, an emperor of the early middle ages. His burial place is unknown, for he died by drowning in Asia Minor, and his body was swept away in a river. He is alleged to dwell in a cavern in the Kyffhäuser mountain in Thuringia, with his long red beard curled around his sword, waiting until his country calls him in time of dire need.

* * *

Barbarossa was a warmaker who led five expeditions into Italy, but he has been well spoken of by historians. Thomas Carlyle, for example, called him "a terror to evildoers and a praise to well-doers." If Hitler's poltergeist takes up lodgings with this ancient smiter of upstarts, we believe that there will be a mighty rumpus in mumbo-jumbo land. The Holy Roman emperor bears a cross upon his shield, for he died as a crusader, marching toward Jerusalem. He will abolish the reviver of Teutonic paganism with one swipe of his cross-hilted cleaver.

DEBT TO GALLANTRY

I cannot meet my debt to gallantry,
But some small part thru song I would repay,
For I have known brave hearts who face each day
With steady eyes and with serenity,
And I owe homage to strong faith that glows
Undimmed by bitter grief, or pain, or hate;
For all who keep their souls inviolate
My thanks are due, for from them courage flows.

I stand in grave salute to valiant men
Who daily fence with death, nor count the cost,
Nor care for odds, nor think the battle lost
While they have strength to stand and fight again.
My debt to courage is too great for song;
My life must learn to pass this light along.

An Old Alsatian Custom

The great drink in Alsace is schnapps, a liquid that looks like water and has an effect like nitroglycerin. It is drunk on any and every occasion, and often when there is no occasion at all. As Mme. Ehrmann once remarked, "If one is feeling sick, one drinks it to get well; if one is well, one drinks it to keep well." That about sums it up.

Usually it is served in very small glasses, holding possibly a thimbleful. One sip spreads a wonderful sensation of warmth and well-being thru one's body. The second sip causes bright blue flames to shoot from one's fingertips, so that one looks like a collection of acetylene torches. The third sip makes one's eyes cross and makes it necessary to pause a bit before attempting the fourth. Beyond the fourth, memory does not carry me clearly, tho I noticed that after that point my French became a good deal more fluent and less understandable. The Ehrmanns usually countered our feeble protests against "one last glass" with the sensible remark that it would make us sleep well. A couple of times we slept so well that we missed breakfast the next morning.

The daily glass or two of schnapps is a pleasant custom, however, tho the Alsatians have discovered that the Americans, being inherent tradition breakers, have broadened it somewhat. Madame told us about the first time American troops entered the town. The populace had been lining Grand-Rue for hours, waiting for them, and had even forgone their Sunday dinner—the enormity of the sacrifice is apparent if one knows how much the Alsatians appreciate good food—and were standing outside with bottles of schnapps and cordial glasses. The first army tanks and trucks to arrive were greeted joyously; glasses were poured and tossed off in one gulp, a procedure which amazed the natives, but the soldiers capped that performance by reaching for the bottle!

"They drank it like water," marveled Madame, even at that late date. "O, la! These Americans!"

MATRONS, BEWARE

A silly little maiden in a silly little bonnet
Is scarcely inspiration for a lyric or a sonnet.
A postage stamp above one eye, precariously tilted,
Across the back a bandage, or a ribbon slightly wilted;
Yet if her face is pretty and her figure is petite,
She can get away with murder, and still be labeled sweet.
But sister, when you wear one, you are something short of nifty,
If your weight's a hundred forty and your age is crowding fifty!

J. E. M. writes: "If a widower 34 years old with three small children has been reclassified from 4-F to 1-A, who makes an appeal to prevent his induction? He is partly deaf in one ear and has impaired vision in one eye."

The registrant should appeal to his local board within 10 days after receipt of his 1-A classification. He may apply for return to the 4-F classification because of his physical condition or for a dependency deferment. Registrants 34 thru 37 may be deferred for occupational reasons if they are regularly engaged in an activity in war production or in support of the national health, safety, or interest.

T. A. C. asks: "Is there any directive requiring a registrant 18 thru 27, twice rejected, to obtain permission from the local board to change from one teaching position to another teaching position?"

State memorandum 838A requires approval of the draft board to change position.

R. P. asks: "Can a registrant 37 years old appeal his own case?"

Yes. Registrants who are 37 are required only to show regular engagement in war production or in support of national health, safety, or interest. Form 42 or 42A should be used. A recent answer in this column gave erroneous information about registrants 37. The answer applied to registrants 27.

VARICOSE VEINS DISTURB THE BLOOD FLOW

MANY of us are not aware of the vast network of veins that courses thru the legs unless one or more become unduly prominent. These blemishes may hold little significance for a man as his clothing covers the lower extremities. Perhaps he considers them a natural occurrence—a sign of strength associated with muscular development. To the members of the fair sex a different problem is presented. Something new has been added to the graceful contours and the cosmetic effect is not attractive.

These vessels return blood from the tissues to the heart. They can be compared to a branched passageway extending from the floor to the chest. With each contraction of the pumping organ, fluid is propelled upward. But what happens between beats, when no force is exerted? Does the blood fall back into the leg? This is exactly what would take place if it were not for small, one-way valves which allow the circulation to go up but not down. The situation is similar to a series of canal locks, each opening in turn to allow a boat to pass thru.

Should the outer wall of one of these structures stretch, the locks no longer meet snugly and leakage occurs. In other words, the blood flows uphill but, between beats, it recedes. In time, these tubes enlarge because they are distended with fluid almost continuously. Only those on the surface are susceptible as the deeper veins are protected by powerful muscles.

Heredity is an important factor. When the disorder is seen in young people, both parents are usually affected. Under ideal conditions this inherited tendency may not manifest itself. When subjected to the undue strain of prolonged, motionless standing the weakened walls give way and the unsightly wormlike defect mars the silhouette. Thus it is that waiters, street car conductors, policemen, and laundresses are potential victims.

Any obstruction of the upward flow may induce stretching. This can be likened to the widening of a river above a dam. Constricting garters, tumors low in the pelvis, and pregnancy are among the causes.

A sluggish circulation accompanies a varicose condition and stagnation invites infection. Furthermore, there is increased pressure when the patient stands erect. This may lead to swelling of the ankles, with a brownish discoloration of the skin and ulcers or eczema may follow injury.

The sufferer may seek medical aid because of the appearance and fear of complications. As a rule, there is no pain unless inflammation arises. Some notice a tired, heavy sensation in the legs; others, cramping of the calves at night or in cold water.

Treatment consists of putting the offending vein out of commission. It is not working properly, so it has no value. Besides there are many more to take its place. Care should be exercised in testing to make sure that the other ducts are open. Once this has been established the process of obliteration should take place. If the vein is large, or extends above the knee, it is tied off and cut by the surgeon. Smaller channels may be injected with a special solution which destroys them. Ulcers traceable to this source also respond to the management described.

Sometimes the disorder appears to return. In the majority of cases this is not true. New varicosities are mistaken for recurrences.

YES AND NO

H. S. writes: Does a very nervous person have a higher metabolic rate than one who is calm?

REPLY

The basal metabolic rate is determined by various factors — height, weight, foods eaten, glandular output, etc. In thyroid overactivity, it is likely to be elevated. But an individual may be nervous and yet not have thyroid disease. With these patients we must consider other causes. The mental state may play a part. In such cases, after 45 minutes of rest, or following the administration of sedatives, the level may drop to normal.

"FALLEN" STOMACH

L. A. K. writes: Is diet of any value in a dropped stomach?

REPLY

If the organ functions, it makes very little difference where it is located. In fact, on standing, it is usually low in the abdomen. The condition is noted more frequently in those who are underweight. A diet high in calories may increase the amount of fat in this area which will have a tendency to elevate the structure.

THE BIG ONE THAT "GOT AWAY"

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

The Pupil and the Master

It was fitting that Mussolini die before Hitler. After all, he had been the teacher in the evil art of tyranny and Hitler merely the too apt pupil who outdistanced the teacher and became the master. The resultant, tender, Mr. Chips' relationship might have made it painful for Hitler in turn to survive dear teacher. Yet is Hitler really dead? Perhaps, as some one suggested, he long ago disguised himself as a simple German soldier, was taken prisoner by the American army, and for months has been over here eating steak and butter and making 80 cents a day weeding tulip beds. But his death makes heartening headlines and creates no pain around here. Ach, the hero! Ugh, the hero!

No body of men in history ever worked as hard to make a fiend look tender and charming as the Nazi cameramen did Hitler. Proof lies in the thousands of pictures of him which repose in the reference library, or morgue, of this newspaper. In numerical strength, the photographic history of his life is exceeded only by that of the late President Roosevelt. Next in order come the duke of Windsor, Mussolini, Mayor Kelly, and Churchill.

Hitler's pictures are subdivided into 36 categories: Heads, full length, speaking, in crowds, in autos, saluting, walking, eating, homes, etc. Probably the most celebrated was one first circulated in 1933 showing him as a baby. The picture showed a chubby face distorted into an unpleasant, wild scowl. A forelock dangled into the close-set eyes, and clenched fists pounded what seemed to be the floor. The picture came to this country by way of Austria and London and was widely circulated. In 1938, however, an American woman saw it in a magazine and furiously identified it as a retouched picture of her own son, then 8 years old. The baby cap he originally wore had been retouched out and what had been a cunning baby squint had been revamped into a fierce grimace.

The others catalog deceit, propaganda's pattern for a dictator: Hitler the blade, being gallant to a lady. Hitler the paternal, patting the flaxen hair of two small girls. Hitler the animal lover, fondling a fawn. Hitler the common soldier, eating potatoes in a field. Hitler the modest young war veteran, with Von Ludendorff. Hitler the humble, bowing before Von Hindenburg. Hitler the moody, Hitler the wistful, Hitler the artist. Hitler the lonely one. Hitler [the richest man in Germany] in a simple trench coat or in plain khaki. Hitler the strategist, sticking pins in a war map. Hitler the pacifist, with Lloyd George in 1936. And . . . Hitler smirking with the Jap ambassador, Hitler with Seyss-Inquart, Hitler with Himmler, with Goebbels, with Goering, with Hess.

Then there are four folders crammed with pictures of Hitler and Mussolini. The two thieves were at all times in magnificent rapport, altho Mussolini, a trifle cagey, usually kept his black gloves on. Here they are in Venice in 1934: Hitler wrapped in his trench coat, Mussolini with a dagger fastened to the satin sash roping in his fat stomach. Here they are in Rome in 1938: Italian troops goosestep for them in the new "Roman step"; the two smile, wave, salute, look at nude statuary, Hitler with his mouth ajar, Mussolini as tho he had seen it before. Here they are in June, 1940: France has just fallen; they are all smiles. Here they are in October, 1940, at the Brenner Pass where their stolen territories converge: They shake hands in glee as they plot the "knockout blow" for the British empire. Here they are late in 1941: They gloat as they look from a plane at the ruins of a Russian village, as they strut from inside a ruined colonnade. Here they are in September, 1943: The pupil has engineered his teacher's escape from the hands of the allies in Italy; their triumph is great. And, finally, here they are in September, 1944: Hitler has just survived the attempt on his life. Mussolini's cap bears no insigne this time, but Hitler is a walking Christmas tree. They are grinning all over the place. The idle observer might have commented then that if they kept that up at that rate they would laugh themselves to death.

COMMUNIST PLEDGES

Chicago, April 26—Referring to your editorial of April 24—"Who Are Aggressors?"—in which you refer to the convention for the definition of aggression signed by Russia and seven neighboring states on July 3, 1933, I wish to state that Lithuania concluded an almost identical convention with the soviet union on July 5, 1933.

The preamble of the Lithuanian-soviet convention has reference to the Lithuanian-soviet nonaggression pact, and the amendment to article 3 contains several qualifications and amplifications, namely:

. . . no act of aggression in the meaning of article 2 of the mentioned convention, among others, can be justified by any of the following circumstances:

Internal situation of a state. For instance, her political, economic, or social structure, faults attributed to her administration. . .

. . . this convention shall never be a justification for violations of international law, which could be implicated under circumstances mentioned in the above given enumeration.

The above referred to article 2 states:

. . . the aggressor in an international conflict . . . will be considered the state which will be the first to commit any of the following acts:

1. Declaration of war against another state;
2. Invasion by armed forces, even without a declaration of war, of the territory of another state;
3. An attack by armed land, naval, or air forces, even without a declaration of war, upon the territory, naval vessels, or aircraft of another state;
4. Naval blockade of the coasts or ports of another state;
5. Aid to armed bands formed on the territory of another state and invading the territory of another state, or refusal, despite demands on the part of the state subjected to attack, to take all possible measures on its own territory to deprive the said bands of any aid and protection.

The soviet commissar of foreign affairs, M. Litvinov, on the occasion of the extension of the Lithuanian-soviet pact of nonaggression, made the following statement:

We first had the idea of proposing the prolongation of the pacts for an indefinite period. At any rate it should be clear to the whole world that our proposal is not of a temporary nature and is not inspired by a casual conjunction of circumstances but is an expression of our constant and permanent policy of peace, an essential element of which is the preservation of the independence of the young states [Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia] you represent. . . .

In connection with this pact Soviet Foreign Commissar V. Molotov, speaking to the supreme soviet of the U. S. S. R. on Oct. 31, 1939, declared.

These pacts are based on mutual respect for the political, social, and economic structure of the contracting parties, and are designed to strengthen the basis for peaceful, neighborly coöperation between our peoples. We stand for the scrupulous and punctilious observance of pacts on a basis of complete reciprocity, and we declare that all nonsense about sovietizing the Baltic countries is only to the interest of our common enemies and of all anti-soviet provocateurs.

THE HAYEK BROADCAST

La Crosse, Wis., April 27—It has been rather disappointing to see so little editorial comment on the conduct of last Sunday's Chicago University's Round Table. Every one with whom I have talked has agreed that the treatment of Dr. Hayek ["Road to Serfdom"] at that time at the hands of the men handling the discussion is difficult to explain and impossible to condone.

When the three men, who are assumed to have some pretensions of scholarship and also to be American citizens, spend the entire period either being supercilious or abusive in their treatment of a foreign guest, the university would seem to have a stake in trying to clear up its good name.

Regardless of how one views Dr. Hayek's book, his treatment at the hands of his hosts on Sunday practically proved his point. These gentlemen were apparently more sympathetic to planning than Dr. Hayek, but by their own conduct they proved his contention that the planners can brook no opposition and instinctively resort to force.

FACTS ABOUT NAZIS

Chicago, April 30—The Tribune published two events which are in contradiction of historical facts.

1. That Gen. von Epp was one of the founders of the Nazi party. This is not so. Up to 1921 he was an officer of the German reichswehr and to my knowledge he did not join the Hitler movement until long after the putsch in 1923. During the last war he was a colonel of the royal Bavarian guard, and his real interest has always been with the Bavarian court and the Roman Catholic church, represented by Cardinal von Faulhaber.

2. Today the caption of a picture of the Loewenbrau Keller reads: "Munich beer hall where Nazi movement started and Hitler planned 1923 putsch. Hitler escaped bomb death there in 1939." Fact is, Hitler started his movement in the winter of 1919-'20 or so, in the so-called "Leiberzimmer" of the Thorbrau, and he started his putsch of 1923 again in another keller, namely, the Buergerbrau keller, where he escaped bomb death in 1939.

BOY, 16, SOUGHT AFTER SLUGGING ENGINEER FRIEND

Flossmoor Man Beaten by Honor Student

William O'Brien, 16, Mount Carmel High school athlete and honor student, and son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. O'Brien of Homewood, was sought last night by Flossmoor police after the youth slugged Horace P. Ramey, 2149 Evans rd., Flossmoor, an engineer for the sanitary district of Chicago. The attack was committed Tuesday night in Ramey's basement.

Ramey told police young O'Brien knocked at the door of his home Tuesday night and asked if some one would drive him home. The Rameys and O'Briens have been friends for more than a year and Mrs. Ramey agreed.

As they walked toward the garage, O'Brien told Mrs. Ramey that he was returning to the house for a moment to show a trick to her husband.

Submits to Blindfold

Back in the house, Ramey said, O'Brien told him that it would be necessary to go to the basement to demonstrate the trick. When they had walked downstairs, O'Brien said it was part of the trick for Ramey to be blindfolded. Ramey held out his hands when directed to do so by O'Brien.

Ramey told Chief of Police Joseph B. Dineen, of Flossmoor, that the next thing he knew, he had been struck three times on the head. As he attempted to ward off the fourth blow, a blunt instrument struck his hands, tore the flesh from his right index finger and cut his left arm.

Ramey said he tore the blindfold from his eyes and asked O'Brien why he had struck him.

"I don't know what I'm doing," O'Brien replied. "I don't want to hurt you."

Can't Explain, Boy Says

Ramsey called to his wife, and she helped him into the car and drove him to a physician. O'Brien, crying that he couldn't explain his actions, rode in the car with them, but when they arrived at the physician's office, he said he wanted to telephone his parents. He hasn't been seen since.

At Ingalls Memorial hospital, Harvey, where Ramey was taken, Dr. Helge Janson took 12 stitches in Ramey's hands. The doctor said it would be necessary to graft skin to Ramey's index finger.

The boy's father, distressed by the incident, said last night he desired to have his son apprehended and examined by a psychiatrist. He said that the youth must have suffered a mental breakdown.

Chief Dineen said he had broadcast a "hold" order for O'Brien, who would be turned over to juvenile authorities when arrested.

WILSON ATTACKS 'PROPAGANDA' OF OPA AS ILLEGAL

Washington, D. C., May 2 (AP)—Sen. Wilson [R., Ia.], contending the OPA is violating the law by seeking to influence congress thru "propaganda" methods, said today he may press for prosecution and that he would ask Chairman Thomas [D., Okla.] of the agriculture committee to conduct an inquiry.

The Iowan based his assertion on a news release he said was distributed by Eldon C. Shoup, Boston regional price administrator, which said witnesses before the senate food investigating committee represented "one of the most vicious pressure group tactics yet undertaken."

Wilson declared the money to distribute this "propaganda to influence votes" was illegally taken from OPA's appropriation.

Wilson said the criminal code of 1919 contains penalties of a year in jail and $500 fine for any government officer using appropriated funds "to pay for any personal service, advertisment, telegram, telephone, letter, printed or written matter, or other device intended or designed to influence in any manner a member of congress."

DOCTOR KILLED, POLICEMAN HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Woman Is Killed in Another Mishap

Dr. Charles D. Crawford, 46, of 2040 Hopkins pl., an optometrist, was killed last night when he was struck in Damen av. between 75th and 74th sts. by an automobile driven by Oscar E. Olson, 39, of 6545 S. Troy st., a bricklayer.

Olson's car also struck Motorcycle Patrolman Lester Beling, 38, of 9556 S. Bishop st., who is in Little Company of Mary hospital with several fractured ribs and fractures of the right arm and leg.

Blames Passing Truck

Beling told Sgt. Ely J. Kordick of the Chicago Lawn police that he had stopped Dr. Crawford with the intention of charging him with speeding and that the doctor had got out of his car to produce credentials when Olson's car emerged from an underpass at that point, struck both, and damaged Beling's motorcycle. Olson told police that a passing truck crowded him to the right in the underpass and caused him to strike Crawford and Olson. Dr. Crawford is survived by his widow, Mrs. Genevieve L. Crawford.

Woman Is Killed

Mrs. Lillian Wendt, 32, of 3751 N. Narragansett av., a war plant worker, was killed early yesterday when she was struck by an automobile at Narragansett av. and Roscoe st. The automobile was driven by Edward Maiориello, 28, of 5157 Wabansia av., a gasoline station owner, who said he swerved his car and hit a light post in attempting to avoid striking her.

Harry O. Verdunk, 58, of 2735 N. Talman av., died in Northwestern hospital, Des Plaines, a short time after the automobile he was driving collided with a car driven by Westley Sehert, 21, of Arlington Heights. The accident occurred at Euclid and Wolf rds., west of Des Plaines.

PAROLE GIRL, 16, WHO OPENED GAS JETS ON MOTHER

Bernice Reynolds, 16, of 629 Fox st., Aurora, who pleaded guilty two weeks ago in Kane county Circuit court at Geneva to an attempt on her mother's life, yesterday was paroled to an unnamed family living outside of Kane county. She had been held in the Kane county jail nearly two months.

She was arrested after she had opened the burners of a gas stove in her home, while her mother, Mrs. Lottie Reynolds, 37, was asleep. A sister, returning home at noon, found the mother unconscious and summoned aid. Bernice pleaded guilty to a technical charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

She told the court she made the attempt on her mother's life because her mother opposed her proposed marriage with Clarence Swope, 18, of Ottumwa, Ia., now in the army. Judge Charles O. O'Connor instructed Mrs. Pearl Raybirn, head of the Kane county court children's division, to find the girl a suitable home.

DAY FOR CURB PICKUP SET IN CLOTHES DRIVE

Mayor Kelly, general chairman of the Chicago United National Clothing Collection campaign, last night designated Saturday, May 12, as curb pickup day for serviceable used garments, footwear, and bed coverings for overseas war relief.

The clothing collection, originally scheduled to be concluded last Monday, was extended two weeks and the curb pickup authorized after it was learned that Chicago had failed to reach its quota of million pounds.

Approximately 1,200 army and municipal trucks will be used to pick up the clothing, which will be taken directly to United States treasury warehouses for sorting and packing. Schools also will participate in a special drive between May 7 and 11, with frequency modulation radios offered to winning schools.

IDENTIFY BODY OF MILLIONAIRE, BELIEVED SLAIN

St. Augustine, Fla., May 2 (AP)—The body of a middle aged man, slain by a bullet thru the head, was tentatively identified today as that of Charles H. Montgomery, millionaire Pennsylvania lumberman, mysteriously missing since April 21.

The body was found Saturday dumped under a bridge on an isolated dirt road near here. It was clad only in a shirt, tie, and a vest; the inside of which bore the inked lettering, "C. H. Montgomery."

The 56 year old lumberman had been the object of a wide search after he checked out of an Atlanta hotel nearly two weeks ago. R. N. Haines of Grove City, Pa., a business associate, said Montgomery was believed to have been en route from Atlanta to his winter home at Fort Lauderdale. He was carrying a large sum of money and was wearing a valuable diamond ring, Haines reported. Coroner John Shugart said it was obvious the victim was murdered.

Identify Woman Found with Fatal Head Injury

The body of a woman who died Tuesday in County hospital after having been found unconscious, her skull fractured, in front of 3816 S. Kedzie av., the preceding day, was identified yesterday in the county morgue as that of Mrs. Mary Kurek, 62, address unknown. The identification was made by her daughter, Mrs. Sophie Lanske, 7030 S. Claremont av., who told Brighton park police she had not see her mother in a year and a half.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam

WAGNER—Tillie Wagner, May 3, 1935.
A tribute to our precious mother.
In the book of life there are memories
Of the happiest moments we have known;
And recorded in love is the blessing
Of a wonderful mother—our own.
You're gone, dear, but the treasure
Is truly a value untold.
God keep her in Your tender care
She suffered for things
That were so unfair.
SON-IN-LAW, CLIFFORD, DAUGHTERS, HELEN, ETHEL, MARY, LILLIAN.

WEBER—Ben C. Weber, May 3, 1944. In loving memory of our dear husband, father, and grandfather, who passed away one year ago today.
As we loved you, so we miss you,
In our memories you are near.
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
YOUR LOVING WIFE, CHILDREN, AND GRANDCHILDREN.

2 ILLINOISANS ASSAIL TREATY VOTING CHANGE

Proposed Amendment Is Hit in House

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C. May 2—The administration sponsored proposal to permit ratification of treaties by a simple majority of both houses of congress was assailed in the house today by two Illinois members.

Representatives Sumner and Reed, Republicans, taking the floor during debate on the measure, warned that scrapping the present constitutional provision would be a "dangerous" abdication of a sound safeguard of minority rights.

The Constitution requires that treaties be ratified by a two-thirds majority of the senate, with no participation by the lower house. Administration proponents of the amendment contend the two-thirds rule hamstrings the executive branch in conducting foreign affairs and predict it may result in United States rejection of a world security organization.

Precious Safeguard

"It is hard to believe," said Miss Sumner "that this house, where members plead daily for states' rights and minority rights would destroy the two-thirds ratification safeguard. It is one of the few precious safeguards in our Constitution which help prevent the majority from doing violence to the constitutional rights of minorities."

Rep. Reed charged the change in treaty machinery is being sought by the administration as a matter of "expediency."

He declared the two-thirds rule was inserted in the Constitution by its framers, after prolonged consideration, to prevent hasty or ill-advised acceptance of treaties by a simple majority.

"Proponents [of the change] complain that the senate has failed to ratify many treaties that have been presented to it," Reed continued. "May we not, perhaps, be thankful for that? By what logic do proponents find fault with that? Are all treaties to be ratified, ipso facto?"

Congress Rejects Bills, Too

Rep. Kefauver [D., Tenn.], a leading advocate of the amendment, argued the two-thirds provision is an "anachronism" that was written into the Constitution by the founding fathers as a "compromise" to obtain approval of the entire document by the 13 states.

Rep. Douglas [D., Ill.] told the house she will support the amendment, because under present law "a minority of the senate can block the will of the world in writing a charter for world security."

The proposed amendment, to become effective, would have to be approved by two-thirds majority of both the house and senate and ratified by three-fourths of the legislatures in the 48 states. A close contest is expected in the house when the proposal comes to a vote, probably tomorrow. If it passes the house, its defeat in the senate is virtually assured, leaders said.

DENY DAMAGES FOR EAR LOST DURING BRAWL

A jury in Circuit court yesterday refused to grant Stanley Castle, 28, of 3137 Madison st. compensation for the loss of an ear, which he testified was bitten off by Mrs. Pauline Saylor, during a quarrel in a tavern at 2057 Madison st.

Under the provisions of the dram shop act, Castle had sued Samuel Waller, owner of the tavern, and the owners of the building, the Trust Company of Chicago, and the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf, alleging that Mrs. Saylor became intoxicated in Waller's tavern.

Previously, Mrs. Saylor had been convicted in Criminal court of biting off Castle's right ear. She was placed on probation.

FOUR ACCUSED OF CONSPIRACY IN HOOPER SLAYING

Battle Creek, Mich., May 2 [Special]—Three former members of Detroit's notorious "Purple" gang and a fourth man were charged in a warrant issued here today with having conspired to murder State Sen. Warren G. Hooper last Jan. 11.

The warrant was obtained from Justice of the Peace William H. Bibbings by Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler of the one man grand jury investigating legislative graft in Michigan, who has expressed belief Hooper was shot to death to silence his testimony in graft cases.

"This is not a solution of the Hooper case, but one of the steps incident to it," Sigler said. "This will perpetuate certain testimony and protect part of what we have obtained up to this time."

State police identified three of the quartet as former "Purple" gangsters. They are Harry Fleisher, 42, reputed gang leader freed in 1940 from Alcatraz penitentiary after serving six years on a prohibition charge; his brother, Sammy Fleisher, and Myron [Mike] Selik, reputedly a gang bodyguard. The fourth man is Pete Apostolopos, alias Mahoney, also of Detroit.

CHICAGOAN HURT IN DERAILMENT OF CRACK TRAIN

Rochester, N. Y., May 2 (AP)—The locomotive and 10 cars of the Wolverine, crack Chicago-New York train, were derailed today, killing the engineer and injuring 38 persons, most of them slightly. The train left the tracks on a downtown overpass. The train, carrying 284 passengers including many service men, was nearing the Rochester station when the accident occurred shortly before 2 a. m.

The hospitalized injured included: Mrs. Marie Ashcroft, Jackson, Mich., and Marie Ashcroft, her daughter; Verdell Jackson, 35, 437 E. 60th st., Chicago; Mrs. Iva Ruth Parker, Flint Mich., and Staff Sgt. William Brown, Indianapolis, Ind.

GETS 20 DAYS FOR SHOOTING

Joe Kordik, 53, was ordered to serve 20 days in jail and was placed on a year's probation yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Felony court for shooting Mrs. Henrietta Ohner, 40, of 1313 Oak av., Evanston, in a tavern at 2828 Lincoln av. last March 31.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Hearsay

A patient telephoned a doctor's office the other day. He wanted an appointment, he told the pretty receptionist, and he was pretty persuasive about it all. His ear was bothering him, he said, and he was "afraid of implications!"

Going Temperamental

An article in the magazine, Advertising & Selling, tells the tale of three girls. One was "Angelina," who got a break in an agency and was doing nicely until she went temperamental—couldn't have her copy changed. Another was "Explosa." She was doing all right, too, and had been promoted, with an assistant added to lighten her work. But—she couldn't stand to see her assistant succeed. The third was "Astounda," who got too big for her white collar, and one day when one of the big bosses asked her to do a small favor [on his way out of the office in a tremendous hurry] she was madder than hops. She wasn't his secretary she told the office force.

The article postcripts a moral: "Thousands of fine gals have jumped into business jobs during this war time emergency and have earned permanent places in fine organizations. But a few have been unable to withstand success. Come peace, dames who go temperamental now will GO!"

It is said that the only woman to make an address in Trinity House, London, the headquarters of the Elder Brethren [to which Churchill belongs] is Swedish Beauty Essy Key Rasmussen, now in the United States connected with the OWI and president of Saturday's Children, a New York business women's club. . . . Mary McClurg is the first woman advertising director of a large metropolitan newspaper. . . . The first woman bank president was Maggie Walker, president of the Saint Luke Penny Savings bank, Richmond, Va., 1903. . . . Willard Tells U. of I. Needs in Bid for Support

Urbana, Ill., May 2 [Special]—An enrollment of 14,500 during the 1946-'47 term is expected at the University of Illinois, President Arthur Cutts Willard said today in a letter to parents of university students.

Dr. Willard said the university will face some of the most serious problems of its history during the next few years.

The letter listed four reasons why the university's budget requests for the next two years, now before the Illinois legislature, are the highest in history. The university seeks $25,627,512 for the two years, an increase of $5,677,346 over the budget for the current biennium.

The reasons were listed as follows:

1. Enrollment increases. The letter said it had been estimated 5,300 students would enroll this year, but that actual enrollment exceeds 8,000. Dr. Willard said the 1945-'46 enrollment is estimated at 11,000 and that for 1946-'47 at 14,500, a record high.

2. Salaries: "The university cannot retain or attract competent persons to its staff without a higher salary level," the letter said, adding that the university must be prepared to restore salaries of staff members in service who return. Dr. Willard said university salaries have not kept pace with increased costs of living and with increases in industry and government.

3. A start toward replacement and modernization of equipment, which the letter said has fallen behind in recent years.

4. The university must be prepared by staff, equipment, and program to respond to increased demands.

Yes, It's Baby Week for War Toughened Vets at Sheridan, Too

A ticklish problem, which has been bringing many a blush to the cheeks of toughened combat veterans at Fort Sheridan, has been solved. No longer do expectant GI papas, many wearing ribbons for valor under fire, have to sidle up to the post librarian, Miss Dorothy Russell, and stammer out this strange request: "Er, do you have anything on babies?"

A corner in the post library now proudly boasts the title "The Baby Brigade." Here a GI who would like to learn how to care for his expected offspring may browse to his heart's content without declaring his intention to interested ears.

"The Baby Brigade" corner is advertised by a poster showing a tough old sergeant with "enough hash marks to open a restaurant" wrinkling his brow as he tries to knit infant apparel. It contains numerous books on baby care, from how to soothe a baby that cries at night to selecting a name for the little bundle of joy.

"I have been planning the exhibition for sometime, but so many soldiers wanted to withdraw books on baby subjects that we just couldn't keep enough of them together to set up the display," Miss Russell said.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 2—Hotel lobbies reflect the temper of conclave sessions before the extras get out. The Argentine situation precipitated the noisiest show. Latin-American delegates, newsmen, and commentators gathered in knots in the Palace hotel lobby, where arguments waxed loud. . . . Tiny Mme. Vargas, wife of Nicaragua's minister of foreign affairs, wears a jewel as big as the headlight of a train. It would make our Hollywood stars green with envy. . . . Ran into Aileen O'Brien of the Honolulu Advertiser. She says it's seven years since she last visited the United States. Her eyes are popping at our shop windows, good food, and general soft way of living. She says the curfew law in Honolulu is so strict you can't even run in to chat with your next door neighbor after 10 p. m. What's more she's shocked that so few citizens know the meaning of campaign ribbons on our soldiers and sailors. Yet San Francisco is a far more knowing city than most where war is concerned.

Really a Mislaid Genius

Remember the story about the famous author who spent three months at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, then returned to New York in disgust? The fellow who moved into his office found a well thumbed pack of playing cards laid out in solitaire, and cobwebs lacing the keys of his typewriter. . . . Tennessee Williams, author of "Glass Menagerie," the Laurette Taylor starring play and hit of today's theater, languished in the Culver City studio for four months begging for something to do. "Menagerie" has been voted the best American play of the year by the New York drama critics' circle. But its young author was tossed adaptations by the studio which he would toss back with sarcastic notes. Finally, in desperation, he sent over an original story. He got this answer: "If you're familiar with 'Gone With the Wind,' you ought to know we're not interested in making another southern belle picture." Synopsis was "Glass Menagerie." Now Metro's bidding for it along with all the other top studios.

More Horses for Bing

My Hollywood friends tell me Der Bingle [Crosby] is slated for another horse picture, this time "Stallion Road." It's about a vagabond who loves horses. But can he possibly do it without Bob Hope's ad libs? . . . And Mrs. Ruth Davis, Bette's mother, relates by postcard she's en route to Boston to huddle with publishers on a story she's written based on Bette's life. It's due for print very soon. . . . Betty Hutton has staged her second walkoff from the set of "The Stork Club" since that picture started. Which reminds me of a line Sam Goldwyn once said when told a star had left his lot "in a tantrum." "I don't care what kind of bicycle she rode," roared Sam, "get her back." . . . You all should know Johnny Mack Brown is out for a month of personal appearances in Alabama, Georgia, and Florida.

Wild West Aplenty

Marjorie Main, who can yip louder than any coyote, will get her chance when she and Wally Beery are teamed in "Bad Bascomb." Company will work at Jackson's Hole, Wyo., right near Wally's ranch. . . . Ed Gardner is readying for a U. S. O. trip that he hopes will take him into the European theater of war. . . . Steve Crane thinks Sheila Ryan's repartee is clever enough to warrant a trip to Palm Springs to visit her. She throws a slick silhouette, too. . . . Jimmy Dunn and his bride had to move in with Jimmy's ma when they couldn't find a house. . . . Dave Rose's divorce will be final any day now. Jane Nigh's still top girl with him. . . . Martha MacVicars and Maj. Vic O'Malley can't see beyond each other's eyes. Ditto for Angela Greene and Lt. Peter Guthrie of the air forces.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 diamond	Double	Pass	1 spade

Pass

It is not surprising that some players should be unable to make an accurate appraisal of hands that contain a wealth of high cards. But it is interesting to observe how many there are who have not yet learned to recognize what is zero.

The North of today's hand is one such person. The opening bid of one diamond was doubled by South, and North dutifully responded with one spade. South then jumped to three hearts and North passed with the comment, "Partner, I couldn't raise you. I knew you had a very good hand but I had nothing."

Even South's indignation when the dummy was spread did not interfere with his routine taking of 11 tricks. For North to say that he had nothing indicates a refusal to look at his cards. That the queen of hearts was a certain trick there could be no doubt, and to see that partner would probably be able to ruff a club in dummy required no clairvoyance. Any hand that will develop two tricks cannot be regarded as hay when partner has doubled and jumped. North should have bid four hearts without feeling like a hero.

The suggestion that South should have bid four hearts himself is unsound because North might be very short in that suit, in which case such a contract would have little chance of success. The double by South is proper procedure, because if partner is short in hearts and long in clubs, a game in the minor suit is very probable.

South's statement that his jump to three hearts was an absolute force is not quite correct. A jump following a takeout double is about 98 per cent forcing, but if partner has nothing he may pass. However, at the slightest provocation North should take action. It is sound policy for partner of the doubler to lean toward the overbidding side.

'I'll Be Seeing You' Is Movie Worth Seeing

"I'LL BE SEEING YOU."

Produced by United Artists, directed by Dore Schary, featuring Ginger Rogers, Joseph Cotten, Shirley Temple, Spring Byington, Tom Tully, Chill Wills, Dare Harris, and Kenny Bowers, and presented at the Roosevelt.

By Mae Tinée.

Despite the fact that some of the basic parts of the plot are a bit hard to swallow, I think you'll like this movie.

It tells of a girl and a soldier, neither of whom is given much space in our social scheme. The man is a psycho-neurotic soldier, released temporarily from a hospital to test his ability to survive when subjected to the pressure of the outside world. Joseph Cotten couldn't be better in his interpretation of this role; he gives his Zachary Morgan a brooding sensitivity that is very appealing. The girl is on a brief parole from prison, facing another three years of confinement for a crime of which she was not guilty. There is little to denote her first long term of imprisonment in Miss Rogers' appearance or conduct as Mary, but, as a sympathetic friend to the soldier she meets on a train, she's both likable and believable.

Mary's days of freedom are spent visiting well meaning relatives, who persist in assuring her that she's just as welcome as any one who had no record to hide, and Shirley Temple, as a pampered only child, is unwittingly detestable in her adolescent curiosity and self-assurance and her determined effort to keep her black sheep relative from using any of her personal possessions.

Spring Byington is excellent in her role as a sweet and thoughtful aunt, who tries to spare Mary in every possible way, and Tom Tully is outstanding as the girl's uncle, a kindly but clumsy man, good hearted but a bit obtuse.

The film highlights a good many things with regard to the treatment of the returning soldier which deserve public attention: The veteran of the last war who wants to tell him his experiences, the politician who wants to glad hand and use him, and the patronizing cliche so many people use—"glad to do anything for a soldier," as tho he were a hunk of the national debt in khaki, rather than an individual human being.

The director has given the story skilful handling, and there are two memorable scenes—one in which the soldier fights off a vicious dog and the other his struggle with the old panic, the remembered fears which return in all their fury and take complete possession of him, accompanied by the frantic thudding of his heart.

The dialog is simple and natural, the casting well night perfect, the result —a poignant and intelligent film which I hope you'll see.

Romantic Fantasy

"THE ENCHANTED COTTAGE."

Produced by RKO-Radio, directed by John Cromwell, featuring Dorothy McGuire, Robert Young, Herbert Marshall, Mildred Natwick, Spring Byington, Hillary Brooke, Richard Gaines, Alec Englander, Mary Worth, and Josephine Whitell, and presented at the Palace.

If you scorn "such stuff as dreams are made of," if you're a rugged realist who doesn't believe in fantasy, "The Enchanted Cottage" definitely is not for you. If, on the other hand, you know the difference between "enchanted" and "haunted," believe that old houses hold many secrets, etc., you'll probably enter into the spirit of this romantic tale taken from the play by Arthur Wing Pinero.

It concerns a girl who always had been an ugly duckling and a handsome young flyer who became grotesque of face after his plane crashed in battle and how both achieved beauty, at least in each other's eyes.

Another man, whose perception has been sharpened by years of blindness, helps the lovers to achieve and cling to their dream, in spite of the hurtful intrusion of others not attuned to such things. A charming cottage which sheltered a series of honeymooning couples also has its part in weaving the magic spell.

The fragile material of the plot called for such delicate treatment as it is accorded. Dorothy McGuire again proves her ability with the sincerity and wistfulness of her portrayal of the lonely little slavey. Mr. Young runs her a close second as the embittered aviator, who hates those whole in body and cringes from his possessive and shallow mother. Herbert Marshall makes his blind pianist a charming, if rather solemn, neighbor and understanding friend. Another interesting bit is provided by Mildred Natwick as Mrs. Minett, the owner of the cottage, a woman who has suffered in her own way and therefore can appreciate the hurts of others.

Fantasy easily can become farce; it never does in this film, due to clever direction, but the subject matter has such intangibility that it often threatens to vanish into thin air.

To me, one flaw was the fact that Miss McGuire never is entirely unattractive. She may be dreary when wearing ill-fitting clothes and no makeup and with her hair hanging lank and lifeless, but her features are clearcut and expressive—and I never could see her as "awful homely," as a candid little boy describes her at the opening of the film.

'Midsummer Nightmare'

By Christopher Hale

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

SYNOPSIS: Olivia Warburton suddenly reverts to a childhood habit of walking in her sleep. She and her secretary, Winnie Leslie, occupy an enchanting little cottage, cared for by Tillie, on the Jennesma estate. The Jennesma furniture factory now makes gliders and is in charge of Dirk Adams, to whom Winnie is engaged. Sybrand Jennesma plans to manufacture his brother Gerrit's latest invention, a motor for a new type of car, and hopes to interest Morgan Riley, chief owner of a car body company. Sen. North is investigating the Jennesmas for Riley. Jason Kimball handles publicity. Winnie leaves an envelope containing money at Hilda Jennesma Paradine's cottage. Hilda claims some of the money is missing. Next morning Hilda is found murdered, a knife in the back of her neck. Olivia is summoned. Sen. North, in love with her, proposes, offering the protection of his position, but she refuses. Lt. Frutch of the state police questions Olivia. Tillie has informed him that Olivia went downstairs during the night and took a knife from the kitchen table—the knife. North knew of this accusation when he proposed. There are no fingerprints on the knife. Hilda was jealous of Winnie. The missing money is found in Winnie's bedroom. Kimball believes it was planted there. He has no knowledge of an unsigned telegram to James Kimball. Eddie Paradine heard nothing during the night, nor is he aware of the terms of Hilda's will. Winnie returns Dirk's ring. Kimball thinks Hilda had a rendezvous with some one she trusted. Olivia is not suspected by the Jennesma brothers.

INSTALMENT X

A TRYST

Sybrand let himself down heavily. "Is your headache any better?" Gerrit asked. "Not yet. But I took a couple of aspirins."

"'You'd better be able to prove it. . . . The police surgeon says she died between 3 and 4'."

Miss Warburton started to rise. "Why not see me, later?"

"No. Please don't go. Did Gerrit tell you we don't think you had anything to do with our sister's death?"

"Yes, it's very kind of you."

The door opened and Mrs. Jennesma glided in.

"I hope I'm not intruding, Sybrand," she said with plaintive irony.

"What is it, Myrtilla?"

She ignored his cold tone. "That officer . . . what's-his-name . . . French . . . was insulting to me a few minutes ago. He kept trying to pry into my personal affairs long after I showed him he was going too far. I don't know anything about this trouble your sister's got herself into."

Sybrand was giving his wife a long burning stare of purest hatred over lips drawn in till they were white.

Mrs. Jennesma whined on, unaware or uncaring of having shocked any one. "I am not going to be dragged into a scandal. My nerves were something terrible last night. I never slept a wink."

"Well then, if you were awake all night maybe you heard my poor sister cry for help."

"No. It was only the first part of the night I couldn't sleep. What I want to know," Mrs. Jennesma continued, "is who's going to get Hilda's money and things? If she didn't leave a will, would that Eddie get it all? I don't think that would be a bit fair. Surely she'd want to leave it to her own kin, you and Gerrit here. Eddie's practically a stranger even if she was married to him. Why she'd only known him eight months altogether."

Sybrand threw his brother a tortured glance and Gerrit said, decisively: "Hilda probably left a will, Myrtilla. She'd told Sybrand and me many times she would leave us just five thousand apiece. It was her money. We don't want it."

Gerrit interested Miss Warburton. He and his brother seemed to have changed places in their relationship. It was Sybrand who leaned and Gerrit who supported and coped with that monster of selfishness, Myrtilla.

"Maybe you don't," Mrs. Jennesma persisted. "You don't seem to know the value of money like Sybrand and me. We got to settle things before that Eddie has a chance to hog everything. Don't you think it would be a good idea for me to sort of take charge of her diamond necklace, just for safekeeping? I've always wanted it and only a few days ago Hilda said she'd leave it to me in her will. Of course, it was all in fun and we never dreamed she'd be cold and gone this morning."

The crocodile tear she squeezed out at this last remark seemed to infuriate her husband more than anything else.

Gerrit started up in great alarm. "He's really very sick, Myrtilla. Let's leave him alone here and . . ."

Mrs. Jennesma didn't stir. "I feel terrible, too. My neuritis is just killing me. Some one might think of me now and then. I've always been high strung and sensitive."

Miss Warburton was astounded at Gerrit's control, his air of authority, as he took his sister-in-law's arm. "Come, Myrtilla, that's a smart idea, to take charge of her things. I'll go with you. But we mustn't lose a minute. If we don't hurry the police may stop us."

Mrs. Jennesma let herself be hoisted to her feet.

"Miss Warburton, there goes the best brother in the world. When I think how I've treated him, at times, I could die, myself. He's always trying to save me from trouble."

"Do go and lie down for a while, Mr. Jennesma. You look really ill."

"I can't. I don't want to lie still and think. I could have been a lot kinder to Hilda. I've made a vow I'll never quarrel with Gerrit again. I've learned my lesson. He's deserved a lot kinder treatment than I've given him. The way he took my selling his reclining-chair invention for a measly two thousand when we couldn't make a go of it was something I'll never forget. And when the other company changed the design a little and made a big thing of it, he took it so well. Miss Warburton, I'm going to make a success of this new motor of his, if it's the last thing I do. We've got to get Riley's interest. I'm counting on you to . . . to, uh, help."

She turned a little pink and murmured something.

She gathered up some papers in a wire basket and was about to leave when some one tapped on the door.

Dirk came in. "Please don't go, Miss Warburton, I'm in the devil of a mess. I need all the advice I can get."

Sybrand Jennesma said wearily, "Well, what's your trouble, Dirk?"

"It's bad. I was out here last night."

"Yes, I know. I talked to you."

"I mean again. Later, I had a date with Hild . . . Mrs. Paradine."

"What time?" Sybrand gasped.

"At 1:30. I stayed just half an hour."

Sybrand let out a gusty breath. "You better be able to prove it. If you do, you're okay. The police surgeon says she died between 3 and 4."

"I was gone long before that," Dirk said somberly. "But I have no way of proving it."

"What did you come out here for anyway?" Sybrand asked irritably, "that time of night."

Dirk turned a deep, slow red.

"Well . . . I . . . how can I say it? You know she was . . . she wouldn't let me alone. She made me come. She said she'll tell Winnie things. They weren't true, but how could I prove they weren't?"

Miss Warburton looked quickly down at her hands.

Sybrand was nodding, unhappily. "O, she was after you, too, hmm? Well, I'm not surprised. Poor Hilda. She couldn't help it. Tell me the truth, Dirk did you kill her?"

"No! She was very much alive when I left."

"What was she wearing when you met her?" Miss Warburton asked.

"Wearing? Mrs. Paradine?" Dirk was astounded. "Why . . . uh . . . that red thing she had on earlier in the evening. And she was still wearing that big diamond sunburst of her mother's. But why does that matter?"

She didn't reply. She wondered if he were telling the truth.

Party to Mark St. Luke's 80 Years of Work

BY JUDITH CASS

WHEN the Rev. Clinton Locke, rector of Grace Episcopal church, and members of his parish organized a free hospital to aid the sick poor in 1864, the hospital included seven beds and provided care for 41 patients in its first year. On May 12, that same hospital, now famed as St. Luke's and which treated about 16,000 patients last year, will celebrate 80 years of growth and service with a reception. Guests will include trustees, medical staff, woman's board, and women's auxiliary members, and personnel.

In the receiving line will be A. Watson Armour, president of the board of trustees; Joseph T. Ryerson, vice president; Dr. George K. Fenn, who heads the medical staff; Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, president of the woman's board, and Mrs. James A. Gough, president of the auxiliary. At 4 p. m. Mr. Armour will award pins to 250 members of the organizations present who have served St. Luke's for 10 years or more. Weather permitting, the woman's board and the auxiliary will serve punch on the lawn between 3 and 5 p. m. Otherwise the party will be given in the main lounge of the Schweppe Memorial building.

Other Hospital Notes

The history of St. Luke's is closely allied to that of the city of Chicago, as many of the city's pioneer families have been identified with its growth. Mrs. John Crerar's father, the late Dr. John E. Owens, was first president of the medical staff, serving until 1911. Since the turn of the century Mrs. John de Koven, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, and Mrs. William E. Casselberry have been active on the woman's board. Mrs. Casselberry's mother, the late Mrs. William Gold Hibbard, was one of the first members of the St. Luke Ladies, an organization which was the forerunner of the woman's board.

The auxiliary of the Frank Cuneo Memorial hospital will give a spring tea today in its newly established headquarters in the Apartment—one of six apartments in a building adjoining the hospital which recently was acquired as the first step in establishing a children's hospital. Since the Apartment was opened the first of the year the auxiliary, which is less than a year old, has met there twice a month to make garments and bandages for the maternity hospital. Decorations for the headquarters were designed and provided by Mrs. John F. Cuneo. Mrs. Maurice W. K. Byrne heads the auxiliary.

Romantic News

In a quiet ceremony at 4:30 p. m. May 12 in the Glencoe home of Mr. and Mrs. Julian R. Norris, Mrs. Norris' sister, Mrs. Donald Harmon Mann, will be married to Col. Burr P. Irwin. Mrs. Mann, widow of a Chicago lawyer, lives in Evanston. Col. Irwin is stationed in St. Louis, Mo., where he is in charge of the army specialized training program at St. Louis and Washington universities.

From Boston, Mass., comes news of the engagement of Miss Jean Lyall, daughter of Mrs. George H. Lyall and the late Mr. Lyall, to Lt. Walter Daspit Jr. of the coast guard reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daspit of Wilmette. The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Lyall attended Edgewood Park Junior college, Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. Lt. Daspit was graduated from Princeton in 1941. He spent eight months in the Atlantic as captain of a submarine chaser and recently returned following 18 months' duty in the Pacific, where he took part in 10 major invasions as captain of an LST. He now is stationed in Boston. His brother,

Parents Like to Meet Sons' Dream Girls

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

This is for fellows only. It's an inside tip to let them understand that their mothers and dads would like to know [and see] what these Joes have been doing with their Friday and Saturday nights. They'd like to get at least a quick look at that smooth gal who has kept their boy date-dreaming for so long. It's a letter which says:

On the SOLID side

"My son started going with a girl a while ago and he seems to like her very much. As I have not met the girl, I can't say anything about her, but I think she has really been good for my son and I am glad she met him. But how can I get to meet the girl if my son doesn't bring her home to meet me? In the near future he will be going into the service and I can just sense that he is planning to ask his girl to go steady and to wait for him. I should like to meet her before he leaves, and I should like to see her occasionally while he is away since I realize how much she means to him. I don't like to ask him to bring her home because he is shy about such things and I try to let him live his own life."

Any boy with so understanding a mother probably would be happy to introduce her to his dream gal. And probably he is not as shy about asking you to meet the girl as he is shaky in the knees about asking the girl to meet you. . . . Many a gal feels that an invitation to meet a boy's family is as definite a commitment as moving directly into the third finger, left hand department. Just tell your son that you would like to meet his honeychile before he goes into service and leave all arrangements to him. Or, to be more subtle, why not suggest that he have a farewell party at home before he leaves for service—then you won't have to ask any questions. You can tell which gal is his just by the stars in his eyes.

Describe OPA Meat Rations as Inadequate

Under present ration point values, a family of four persons with 200 red points a month to spend may find itself deprived of either adequate meat supplies or fats or both, even with careful budgeting, a survey disclosed yesterday.

Should the family purchase two pounds of butter at 24 points a pound, two pounds of margarine at 16 points a pound, one pound of lard at six points, and one pound of cheese at 12 points, it will have used up 98 points of its allotted ration and will have only 102 points for meat.

By careful planning, stretching, and saving, the housewife may be able—on paper—to feed her family on the remainder without resorting to fish or poultry. The National Association of Retail Grocers has prepared a food budget as follows:

2 pounds round steak, 22 points.
2 pounds boneless beef stew, 12 points.
4 pounds short ribs of beef, 8 points.
2 pounds hamburger, 12 points.
1 pound pork chops, 12 points.
2 pounds sliced bacon, 16 points.
1 pound veal roast, 4 points.
3 pounds pork liver, 3 points.
1 pound cold cuts, 4 points.
1 pound smoked liver sausage, 3 points.
1 pound fresh pork sausage, 6 points.

This is a 20 pound total a month for four persons, which adds up to 240 pounds a year, or 60 pounds per person. That is slightly more than half the estimated supply of 1944, when 115 pounds of meat per person supposedly were available, said Mrs. Rose Marie Kiefer, secretary-manager of the association.

A supply of 60 pounds a year, or five pounds a month per person, would be little more than a pound a week, or 2 2-3 ounces a day, far below accepted nutritional standards, she explained.

Should a family wish to splurge once and have porterhouse or T-bone steak, servings for four would take approximately 40 points, or one-fifth the entire ration for the month.

But no one can eat 'statistical' meat or butter, the association commented in questioning how a consumer is to purchase legitimately his share of supplies, bound as he is by ration restrictions. For instance, butter supplies are said to equal 12 pounds per person per year, or a pound a month.

Should a single consumer purchase a pound of butter at 24 points, a pound of round steak at 11 points, a pound of bacon at 8 points, one-half pound of cheese at 6 points, and a pound of pork liver at 1 point, he has used up his 50 points for the month.

Taking out the butter and cheese, he has purchased three pounds of meat a month, or 36 pounds a year.

Estimates are made without allowances for occasional dining out, or for substitutions of point-free fish or poultry—if the poultry can be obtained. Many families also are using margarine exclusively, which would save them 8 points a pound.

Father Barry Elected Bishop Coadjutor of Albany, N.Y., Diocese

The Rev. Frederick L. Barry, rector since 1940 of St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston, yesterday was elected bishop coadjutor of the diocese of Albany, N. Y., by the convention of that diocese. Father Barry, who was chosen on the second ballot, said he had not "made up his mind" whether he would accept the election, which must be confirmed by bishops and standing committees of dioceses of the entire church. He was called to St. Luke's from St. John's church, Bridgeport, Conn. St. Luke's church was built up by the late Bishop George Craig Stewart into one of the notable parishes of the American Episcopal church. During Father Barry's leadership the church's entire indebtedness has been liquidated. If Father Barry accepts the Albany election he automatically will succeed Bishop George Ashton Oldham at the latter's death or retirement.

Gay Cotton Dresses in Bar Checks and Stripes

Latest Prints Available in Many Colors

BY REA SEEGER

Printed cotton dresses for day time wear achieve simplicity by use of neutral or dark street colors. These are to be worn with contrasting or dazzling white accessories for warm weather.

New this season are cottons having colorful stripes and bar checks of a satin lustre thread which is woven in with the cotton. For the satin stripes or checks are of gay and sometimes brilliant color, such as canary yellow, scarlet, jade green, and deep pink. The neutral or dark background colors, steel gray, navy blue, black, and copper brown are most effective with the highlights of colored satin threads used in the weaving against the lustreless dark shades.

Cotton dresses newly displayed are made with the same scant amount of yardage as the most expensive and youthfully designed crepes and eyelet cottons. This means the sleeves are just widened shoulders, cape sleeves, or widened arm holes that resemble sharply cut off kimono sleeves. The neat, new defined waistline seems even smaller than ever before, because of the appreciably wider shoulders. Skirts are still simple, with side fullness managed flatly at each side with cluster tucks or folds pressed or kept flat with bands stitched down over the fullness.

Both one piece dresses and the simple two piecers of skirt and jacket top are available in the newest cottons, white or dark background colors with fresh summer colors in the satin stripes. The most unusual new color scheme is one of steel gray striped with jade and canary yellow and white narrow bands in vertical lines; even stripes alternating with the gray. The smartest bar checks are those of satin stripes of pihk, yellow, or vivid green crossed in simple two inch square against copper brown, navy, or black.

Beautifully Sung "Don Giovanni," with Walter at Helm, Puts Met's Best Foot Forward

"DON GIOVANNI"

Opera by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, with book by Lorenzo da Ponte. Presented in German by the Metropolitan Opera association in the Civic Opera house Wednesday evening, May 2, 1945.

THE CAST

Don Giovanni	Ezio Pinza
Donna Anna	Zinka Milanov
Il Commendatore	Nicola Moscona
Don Ottavio	Charles Kullman
Donna Elvira	Eleaner Steber
Zerlina	Nadine Conner
Leporello	Salvatore Baccaloni
Masetto	Mack Harrell
Conductor	Bruno Walter

If the Metropolitan had brought us nothing except last night's "Don Giovanni," we still would be deeply in its debt, for Mozart's enchanting opera, beautifully sung, and for Bruno Walter, that great man of music, whose conducting is so simple, so unaffectedly ineffable, and so unmistakably right. Even when half the world lies in ruins, music like that remains a reassuring link with the past and a promise for the future. The Metropolitan may have had to compromise to keep its doors open this last decade, but open they are, and out of them sometimes comes music that justifies its position as today's keeper of the operatic keys. Mozart like that means a great tradition held, if not inviolate, at least in high trust for posterity.

"Giovanni" is a curiously lovely opera. It is a comedy with tragic overtones and while its music bubbles out like fresh water from an inexhaustible spring, it has nobility as well as gayety, and it can sculpture a phrase as richly as it can caress one. Mr. Walter knows, loves, and projects all these qualities. They show in his face as he works, and, just in case you care, I think Mr. Walter has about the most beautiful face of our time. Just by looking at it, you knew long before their downfall that people like Hitler and Mussolini had written their own doom in their own smallness.

But we were talking about "Giovanni," or at least we should have been. With Mr. Walter in the pit, it ran like Mozartean silk from its supple spool. Theoretically, I know the purists are right when they contend the Don should be sung by a baritone for correct balance, but what baritone have we to rival Ezio Pinza of the handsome figure, the debonair charm, and the basso cantante that wraps Mozart in the velvet cloak of mezza voce? When he sings "La ci darem la mano" I want to write variations on it myself.

The cast on the whole was expert, but I particularly liked Miss Steber's Donna Elvira. Out of a usually maligned role she conjured success, and that soprano of hers is growing lovelier by the performance. Its richness was a lovely balance in the trios with Mr. Kullman's smooth tenor and Zinka Milanov's competent but somehow cold singing of the stratospheric Donna Anna. Miss Conner was a charming Zerlina, not as radiant of voice as Sayao or a remembered Mason, but beguiling to eye and ear. Mr. Baccaloni was a droll figure as Leporello, but to my taste he has more comic skill than Mozartean style. Mr. Harrell's bumpkin Masetto has a touch of both. Mr. Moscona was admirable while he lasted. Il Commendatore is a bass of few words.

Mr. Graf's staging was deft, but the stage looked pretty dismal. Our stylized settings haven't aged well with their scrolls and swirls, the beautiful traveler curtains that belong to the production evidently have been lost, and the Metropolitan's costumes clash with a vengeance.

A New Mother Needs Special Help at Home

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In the observance of Baby week, which is going on at present, it might seem that all attention should be focused directly on the baby, which might lead you to wonder why I have devoted several columns to the young mother.

My reason for doing so is that it is almost impossible to give a baby the exacting care he requires unless you yourself are in pretty good shape. It is for his sake, as well as being his mother's due of good health, that I mentioned recently the importance of after-care for the girl or woman who has just left the hospital, sometimes following a minimum stay due to limited facilities there. I have heard of cases being dismissed after as little as five days!

Every woman who leaves the hospital with her baby should have rest when she reaches home. She should not be required to take up the daily routine of her home, plus the full and unaccustomed care of her baby. So, if it is at all possible, she should make some plans for being helped after she returns from the hospital.

Nurses are so scarce that that plan is almost "out"—true also of "practical" nurses. Close relatives should be willing to "pitch in" and come daily, or stay for a period of time. Good domestic help provides great physical relief to the young mother if she can get it temporarily, or if she has a permanent maid. A neighbor with grown children might be willing to earn some extra money by assisting her for two or three weeks.

And this last suggestion brings me to a general thought which came to me in connection with the problem of service men's wives with babies, who are far from home, some living on $80 a month [including the baby allowance]. Any woman with grown children and time on her hands would be making a fine contribution to aiding the war if she gave to one or more of these young mothers a few hours a day of household help, nursing care, or both.

Attendance Boosted at Planetarium Thru Simplified Program

Lectures in the Adler planetarium are being simplified thru the elimination of technical terms which have served only to confuse people and summaries of lectures now are being printed and sold at nominal cost, F. Wagner Schlesinger, director, has announced.

Last month the planetarium used a device built by Mr. Schlesinger to simulate the aurora borealis and this was used in lectures on the northern lights. Additional equipment will be built to simplify and explain lectures as soon as materials are available it was said.

The lecture schedule also is being juggled this year so that the same subject is not used in the same month each year. This will enable out of town visitors to attend different lectures each year tho they may visit Chicago in the same months they previously have.

Attendance at the planetarium in March and April was 28,030 against 21,645 for the same months last year. Mr. Schlesinger, who became planetarium director Feb. 1, was charged by the park board with the responsibility of increasing attendance and effecting greater coöperation with astronomers and scientists.

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin

By George Rector

Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

Cold Cuts Make Good Meat Loaves

Although no meat is plentiful these days, cold cuts are often available when other meats are not. Cold cuts are delicious served as such, but we Americans like variety. By dicing, slivering or grinding these cold cuts, they can be used to make many different hot dishes and so add interest to your meals. Cold cuts contain the same high quality complete proteins, minerals and essential vitamins as fresh meats and so can replace fresh meats as often as you like without sacrificing food value.

Individual Meat Loaves . . . made from cold cuts

1 Clear Brook Egg
2 tbsp. minced onion
¾ lb. cold cuts, ground
1½ tsp. Wilson's B-V
3 tbsp. hot water
6 slices green pepper (optional)

Combine bread crumbs and tomato juice or milk and let stand while preparing remaining ingredients. Beat egg slightly, add onion, ground cold cuts and B-V dissolved in the hot water. Mix thoroughly and pack into six well-oiled muffin pans (in each of which a slice of green pepper has been placed), using ⅓ cupful in each pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., 20 to 25 minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

Clip Recipe Here

Use Your Favorite Cold Cuts

There is a wide selection of Wilson's Certified Cold Cuts which will give good results in this recipe including Certified Dutch Loaf, Plain Loaf, Macaroni and Cheese Loaf, Luncheon Roll, New England Brand Sausage and Bologna.

With this meat loaf, serve mashed potatoes with B-V gravy, spinach, grated carrots and cabbage salad and chilled custard.

Bologna Cups for Variety

Bologna is most accommodating when it's a hot dish you wish to serve. Leave the casing on and cut in ¾ inch slices. Pan-fry slowly, on one side only, and as it heats it will form a "cup"; fill the cup with scrambled eggs, potato salad, baked beans or what have you.

Bologna is equally good for making cornucopias. Roll each slice of bologna to form a cornucopia, fasten with a toothpick and fill with delicious B-V bread dressing (use your favorite bread dressing, adding 1 tsp. Wilson's B-V dissolved in 1 tbsp. hot water for each quart of bread crumbs). Place in a shallow pan, pour 1 cup tomato juice over the cornucopias and bake in a hot oven, 400° F., for about 15 min.

Make extra bread dressing and serve it with delicious B-V gravy. It will help extend the meat flavor and make the meal more satisfying. B-V adds nutritive value too, particularly iron and those important B vitamins, riboflavin and niacin.

Sincerely,

George Rector

Bowed Legs And Knock-Knees Often A Needless Defect

Doctors report that many a child with ugly bowed legs or knock-knees might have grown up straight and shapely on a diet adequate in the bone-building minerals and Vitamin D.

Lack of calcium, for instance, in the earliest years may do irreparable damage—but in any case, calcium is so vital a factor that no child brought up on a consistently deficient calcium intake, can have much chance for strong bones and sound teeth.

Milk is our best food source of calcium. Do your children get enough milk...at least a quart every day? Many children just don't like to take that much every day! That's why Cocomalt in milk is so helpful.

Cocomalt* is so rich in calcium, it makes 3 glasses of milk equal to a whole quart in calcium value! (Also this supplies the day's full minimum requirements for iron, phosphorus, Vitamin B, and D.) And Cocomalt's delicious chocolaty flavor makes children love their milk.

Meat goes farther when it's sold as sausage or ready to eat loaf, and that's why your meat dealer may seem to have "nothing else but." Most of these meats are seasoned rather highly, so that small servings of them satisfy the appetite.

The "sausages" we may buy are of innumerable varieties, shapes, and seasonings, but roughly may be divided into four classes.

1. The pure pork sausages, fresh, rather highly seasoned meat which must be cooked. Bulk pork sausage isn't much seen any more, but there are various sizes of links and unlinked sausage in casings.

2. Smoked sausages. These meats may be made of pork or beef, or both. The meat is chopped fine, spiced, and stuffed into casings, then cooked and smoked. Frankfurters, liver sausage, and bologna are outstanding examples. These meats need only to be heated thru, or may be served cold.

3. Dry or semi-dry sausages. These meats are more highly seasoned and are air dried after smoking. Salamis and cervelats belong in the group. These meats keep well.

4. Loaf and luncheon meats. There's wide variety here in ready to eat meats which may be served hot or cold. There are veal and ham loaves, pickle and pimiento loaves, headcheese, macaroni and meat loaves, and others.

These are some of the interesting ways in which meats of this kind may be used:

1. Cut thin slices of any loaf and wrap around several cooked asparagus stalks. Place in greased baking dish, cover with cheese sauce, and heat thru.

2. Broil liver sausage slices with sliced tomatoes and onions.

3. Heat thuringer or a piece of salami in water, and cook cabbage or sauerkraut in the same water.

4. Cube any of the smoked or dry sausages or luncheon meat and heat in mushroom or tomato sauce.

5. Chop or grind dry sausage and use for the meat in spaghetti sauce, or combine with crumbs to stuff green peppers, onions, or tomatoes.

6. Cut link sausage into pieces, brown, and bake with macaroni and tomato sauce or cheese. And save those drippings to season vegetables!

7. Brown sausage links and cook thoroly. Remove to platter and fry halves of floured bananas in the drippings. Serve together.

8. Cream diced dry sausage and serve it on toast for breakfast or scramble the pieces with eggs.

Good Tailoring

Designers long ago proved that cottons and other washable fabrics can be as smartly tailored as woolens and crepes. This pattern is an illustration of the success of tailored cottons. Two materials may be combined in this model, or only one plain or striped washable fabric may be employed. Style No. 2889 is designed for sizes 12 to 48. Size 36 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch plain fabric and 1⅜ yards of 39 inch contrasting.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle S. Nelson of Chicago and Lake Geneva, Wis., announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Dorothy, to Edward Ross Tarrant, son of Mrs. Robert Tarrant and the late Mr. Tarrant of Wilmette and Lake Geneva. The wedding will take place in June.

On the Calendar

The gayest of the extracurricular activities on the program during the New York Metropolitan's visit here is a cocktail party which Abner J. Stilwell, president of the Chicago Opera company, and Fred A. Poor will give at 5 p. m. today in the Racquet club for Edward Johnson, manager of the Met. A number of Met stars and Chicagoans who are active in opera circles have been invited. The New York company will end its Chicago engagement Saturday night.

To mark the start of the 7th war loan drive in Lake Forest, the Young Men's club of Lake Forest will present the Great Lakes Naval Training center in its famed "Happy Hour" from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. next Thursday in the Deerpath theater, Lake Forest. Elliott Donnelley is president of the club. A number of pretty young Lake Foresters will sell programs and serve as ushers, among them the Misses Joan Monroe, Helen Priebe, Polly Porter, Patty McLaughlin, Ginevra Mitchell, Florence Curtis, Carol Hawkins, and Joan Potter.

Rose Motifs

BY NANCY CABOT

Here is a choice of one dozen roses to be used as embroidery motifs. They are suitable for color spots, curtains, bedspreads, samplers, dresses, and the like. The patterns range in size from 1½ by 2½ to 5 by 5¾ inches.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of rose motifs, No. 715, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Thru the Looking Glass

Neglected as she often is by the attention focused on her more numerous dry skinned sisters, the woman whose skin is inclined to oiliness has a hard time finding products suitable for her needs, particularly in make-up foundations. Amid the wealth of preparations intended to soothe and soften sensitive skins, she's sometimes hard put to find a make-up base that will stand up well for at least a reasonable length of time.

However, there are some excellent foundations for this type of skin, and among them is a tinted liquid of almost watery consistency which has proved highly successful for normal or oily complexions. While it doesn't pretend to be a corrective, it does do a beautiful job for women who have difficulty in maintaining a suave looking make-up. It has little tendency to break down and the natural oils of the skin don't bubble thru with aggravating rapidity. Instead, the finish stays smooth and fresh and the shiny look that is the bane of the oily skinned is effectively forestalled.

Light in texture as this is, the foundation nicely camouflages surface blemishes and minor defects, imparting a clear, youthful look to the skin without making it seem heavily coated or weighed down with cosmetics. With a selection of five colors to choose from, ranging from a delicate, pinky shade to a deep, glowing tan, virtually any complexion tint can be matched nicely.

There's no particular skill needed to apply this—it can be spread on effortlessly with the fingertips or a bit of cotton. And as with any tinted foundation, it should be blended evenly over the entire surface with no faltering at the edges to leave a noticeable line of demarcation.

[Third of a series concerning war time athletic activities of Western conference schools and Notre Dame, the problems faced and conquered, and their post-war plans.]

BY EDWARD PRELL

Guy [Red] Mackey, Purdue's athletic director, has a colorful phrase for competitive athletics. "They are," he declares, "the show windows, or salesmen, of physical fitness." From there he develops this striking point:

"These war days," he continues, "have provided a proving ground for collegiate programs of competitive sports and physical education. For over three years we have been administering a compulsory course in physical preparedness for the male student body as a whole. We have provided facilities for thousands of service men trained on the campus. At times actual physical education classes have been in progress as much as 47 hours a week.

"American youth long has insisted that his physical training, in the main, come from sports and games. I believe that practically all of us are willing to concede that the great majority of them take part in competitive sports not because of a primary desire for physical training but for a natural outlet.

Incentive Must Remain

"Without the emphasis of competitive sports you are apt to remove the incentive for the type of training that leads to physical well-being. There can be no hard and fast line drawn between competitive sports and so-called physical education. The two go hand in hand.

"War days will be followed by peace days, and the lessons of the war years should not be forgotten in planning for the future. In war time the physically fit man aids his country as well as himself to survive. Those same values should not be overlooked when "V" day rolls around."

As for the future, the Purdue leader suggests:

"I am sure there will be more competitive sports. It is obvious that we will have a tremendous responsibility in the field of rehabilitation. We should not think too much of spectator interest but rather of competitor interest.

Favors More Varsity Teams

"In football, for example, why wouldn't it be possible to arrange schedules for lightweight and junior varsity teams as well as the regular varsity? During the war the public has become convinced that competitive sports are an asset to the nation. They have been a big factor in literally helping millions of youngsters to develop bodies and qualities for leadership, team spirit, and cooperation that this war has shown to be essential in a nation that is to survive."

Purdue does not rank among the giants in the conference in point of bulging crowds, but the school has more than held its own with rivals on the athletic field thru the years. Nineteen who proudly wore its sports uniforms have fallen in this war at last count. First to die was Lt. John VanDelester, water polo '28, killed on Bataan the day before Christmas, 1941.

Over 300 Commissioned Officers

Of the 474 Purdue letter men known to be in service, 15 have been decorated. One, Maj. Joseph Miles, football player in '38, has the dis-

Soldier and His Son

A soldier coming along the street
With a tot of a lad by the hand
Smiled at me in that friendly way
All Americans understand.

"Yours?" I asked of the soldier,
And he grinned in a boyish way,
"Yep," and I never saw him
Until day before yesterday."

Two years old and for the first time
In the spring's bright sunny weather
Go out for a walk together.

I thought, as I watched them down the street,
Such things hardly seem to be real,
And I tried to imagine the deep inner joy
And the pride that young father must feel.

May the tiny son of that soldier dad
And the children of all that brave band
Know the bright release of a lifetime of peace

JOE BAKSI WINS DECISIVELY IN BOUT WITH LANE

5,027 Pay $16,435 at Coliseum

Fight Decisions.

Joe Baksi beat Larry Lane [10]; Odell Riley knocked out John Flanagan [4]; Mack Parshey knocked out Robert Satterfield [1]; Tony Musto stopped Buddy Waterman [2]; McKinley English stopped Bill Petersen [4]; Columbus Mitchell knocked out Frank Wilson [1].

BY FRANK MASTRO

Joe Baksi, giant ex-coal miner from Kulpmont, Pa., retained his No. 6 heavyweight rating by pounding out a unanimous decision in 10 rounds over Larry Lane of Trenton, N. J., in the Coliseum last night.

Lane won only two rounds to Baksi's seven while the other was even, but despite the one sided bout it was exciting to the 5,027 spectators, who paid $16,435.90.

The spectators cheered when Lane drove five consecutive rights to the jaw in the first round and went into near hysterics when Larry caught his rugged, aggressive foe with three hard lefts and then a trio of terrific rights to the chin in the second.

Baksi Takes Command

Baksi, the methodical, plodding fellow, started to score in the third with a stiff left jab to the nose and followed with chopping lefts and rights in close quarters which sent Lane to his corner very weary.

The 24 year old Baksi continued to hold the upper hand in the fourth and dealt his Negro foe from New Jersey a sound beating in the fifth. Joe added to his margin in the seventh. Lane got the best of a furious exchange in close. This was his last best effort, however, as Baksi took each of the last three rounds, a right closing Lane's left eye in the ninth. Baksi weighed 211½ pounds to Lane's 195.

Riley Knocks Out Flanagan

Odell Riley, Detroit 181 pound fighter, floored Johnny Flanagan, 1944 Chicago Golden Gloves finalist, in the fourth round of a scheduled six round semi-windup. Flanagan, making his first start since losing to Pvt. Joe Maxim in the Wabash av. arena two months ago, was floored twice in the third before being sent to the canvas for the count in 1:40 of the fourth. A body punch ended hostilities.

Early Bouts End Quickly

The first three bouts ended in knockouts, McKinley English, Detroit heavyweight, stopping Bill Petersen, Indiana Harbor, in the fourth round; Columbus Mitchell, Chicago 180 pounder, knocking out Frank Wilson in the first, and Tony Musto, Blue Island 205 pounder, stopping Buddy Waterman, Cincinnati, in the second.

English twice hit on the break, the first time flooring Petersen for a five count in the opening round. Six seconds before the end of the third, Petersen dropped to the canvas from a blow to the stomach. He still was on his back when the fourth started so the referee ruled English the winner on a technical knockout.

ARMY ACCEPTS ZAK; INDUCTION NOT IMMINENT

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 2 (AP)—Frankie Zak, 22 year old second string shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was accepted for the army at a selective service examination today. Zak was told to "be ready for call in several weeks."

Lee Handley, 29 year old Pirate infielder who has been used as a pinch hitter lately, took a physical and was ordered to report to an army hospital for a three day check-up and further examination before a decision is made.

Cochran Wins Two Sets, Leads Hoppe by 4 Points

Los Angeles, Cal., May 2 (AP)—The three cushion billiard champion, Welker Cochran, spurted to a four point lead over Challenger Willie Hoppe in the 70th block of their title series tonight, which went 47 innings. Cochran collected 60 points to run his total to 3,161. Hoppe scored 41 points to bring his total to 3,157. This afternoon, Cochran scored 60 points against 28 for Hoppe.

Milwaukee Five Ties in Mexican Basket Meet

MEXICO CITY, May 2 (AP)—The San Antonio Aviation Cadets defeated Allen-Bradley of Milwaukee tonight, 48 to 37, and the round robin basketball tournament for the President Avila Camacho cup ended in a three-way tie between the two United States teams and Marinascop of Mexico.

Park District Courses Prove Ideal as Golf School Sites

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

For the 10th consecutive year, the four courses of the Chicago park district will provide the classrooms for THE TRIBUNE'S 13th free golf school, which will open Monday evening on that quartet of well established and easily accessible locations. The success of the school, which has been the source of 463,500 free lessons in the fundamentals of the sport over a 12 year span, can be traced in large measure to the use of these four park district courses.

When the Tribune school, most imposing plan of group teaching the old game ever has known, was founded in 1933, it relied for instructional centers on the 27 courses of the daily fee association. Even in those pioneer times, when the idea was being subjected to a deal of criticism by skeptics, the school made itself recognized as one of the most thorogoing systems of golf instruction in the country.

Park Locations Are Ideal

The aforesaid 27 courses of the daily fee group were widely spread in the geographical sense, and officials felt that thousands of potential students were unable to attend the classes because of the lack of transportation.

Realizing that holding the lessons within the metropolitan area would make it possible for many more golf-minded novices to attend, THE TRIBUNE suggested the use of the four park district courses, and the commissioners of the park district and the operators of the daily fee clubs agreed to the change.

Near All Transportation

All four courses are accessible by surface lines, motor coaches, and rapid transit. The change was a prophetic one, in view of the gas rationing and transportation problems which came with the war.

The Jackson park layout, oldest in the city and the playing cradle of many of Chicago's ablest golfers, is located just east of 63d st. and Stony Island av.; the Columbus course, links home of many west side players, is at Jackson blvd. and Central av.; Marquette park is located at Marquette rd. [6700 south] and Kedzie av., and the Diversey location in Lincoln park, wnere north side students have received their fairway l'arnin' since the school started, is situated at Lake Michigan and the foot of Diversey blvd.

Recently, the park district board granted official permission to use these same four courses for the 10th successive season. Headed by President Robert J. Dunham, with George T. Donoghue as general superintendent, the commission includes Philip S. Graver, Stephen I. Witmaski, Henry Schoenstadt, and William McFetridge.

Robert J. Dunham George T. Donoghue

Pros Form Loyal Faculty

This 13th annual school, like its predecessors, is open to every man, woman, and child interested in learning the fundamentals of golf from an expert faculty, composed of members of the Illinois P. G. A., men who have devoted their lives to the game.

Four regular classes, each beginning promply at 7:15 p. m., and continuing for approximately one hour, will be held at all four courses, the first Monday night; the second on Friday night, May 11; the third on Monday, May 14, and the fourth and last on Friday, May 18.

JESS WILLARD LOSES DECISION IN COURT BOUT

Los Angeles, Cal., May 2 (AP)—Jess Willard, former world heavyweight boxing champion, today lost his accounting suit against the Twentieth Century-Fox Film corporation over motion pictures of his Toledo fight in 1919 when he lost his title to Jack Dempsey.

Willard charged that the film company used parts of the fight film in a photoplay "The Great American Broadcast."

He claimed he owned a one-third interest in the fight pictures and asked an accounting and "reasonable proportion" of the earnings of "The Great American Broadcast."

MICHIGAN STATE TRIUMPHS OVER WAYNE NINE, 6-2

Detroit, Mich., May 2 (AP)—Michigan State won its second baseball victory in four starts today, defeating Wayne university, 6 to 2.

Jack Breslin, Michigan State first baseman, hit two home runs, each with nobody on base, and Ronald Teasley, Wayne first baseman, drove in both his club's runs with a homer. Score:

SCHEDULE SAYS 'YES' FOR CUBS; RAIN SAYS NO

BY EDWARD BURNS

The trend toward week-end major league baseball games and week-end games only, appears to be getting along just dandy, in Chicago, at least. Last week the White Sox, home most of the week, were kept idle by the weather men and those clever fellows, the schedule makers. And here it is Thursday and the Cubs haven't played since Sunday, because of the same circumstances that enforced the Sox' idleness.

Not that there have been any questionable postponements. In fact, the Cubs had to take a touch of the Arctic to get in their games with the Pirates last week-end, after being cut down to one game in Cincinnati last week.

The schedule calls for a game in Wrigley field this afternoon. But what's a schedule? If the weather should be nice enough to squeeze in a contest, it will be the last in Wrigley field until May 23.

Wyse Ready to Pitch

The game scheduled for today is to be with the Cincinnati Reds and if it is played it will be the second meeting of the teams in five scheduled meetings. Hank Wyse, who tossed a one-hitter his last time out, will pitch for the Cubs and it will be either Walter Beck or Ed Heusser for the Reds.

The Cubs are not scheduled to play tomorrow, the third scheduled day off of the week, but the Reds couldn't stay over to play the Cubs then. They are due in Pittsburgh. So Charley Grimm will take his chattels to the home town, St. Louis, tomorrow on a scenic daylight trip. They will play the Cardinals Saturday, in a single game, and in a double header Sunday.

Next Monday and Tuesday are scheduled off days for the Cubs in the National league calendar but, weather permitting, they will play the team representing the Bainbridge Naval Training center in Maryland Tuesday.

That Weather Again!

Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday the fellows will play the Phillies, weather permitting, and, weather permitting they will engage the Boston Braves, the New York Giants, and the Brooklyn Dodgers without a schedule day off any place along the eastern line, once they get started in Philadelphia. Then they will come home to two scheduled off days in Wriglev field. Weather permitting, they will play the Phillies in Wrigley field on May 23.

The Cubs announced yesterday that Johnny Ostrowski, Chicago lad whom they have had with them or in Los Angeles parts of the last three seasons, had been sent to Kansas City, subject to 24 hour recall. It is said that Casey Stengel, manager of the Yankee farm club in Kansas City, has indicated he will play Johnny every day. Manager Grimm is anxious for Johnny to have a lot of experience against the day when Stan Hack doesn't feel like playing third base. This season, however, Stan has shown no symptoms of being so tired of it all.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Detroit, Mich., May 2—A base hit famine overtook James Dykes' White Sox this afternoon and as a result they had to make room for a shareholder in the American league's first place apartment. The Yankees moved themselves into the tie by doing their own work against the Athletics and the Sox were moved into it much against their wishes by the Tigers who assessed them for a 2 to 1 decision in the second of the series.

The scarcity of hits for the Chicago fellows was due to Al Benton, ex-sailor, who captured his third success in a row by parceling out a skimpy batch of four singles so widely scattered that he'd have put together a shutout if an error hadn't intervened. And Orval Grove was almost as tough on the Tigers with an allowance of five hits, but he made the mistake of surrendering three of them in the first inning.

Webb Accepts 14 Chances

The Tigers did the best they could to confuse the ex-sailor by upsetting his routine with four errors, but at least one of the perpetrators of the mistake made satisfactory amends. That was Skeeter Webb, the former member of the Dykes' ensemble, now patroling shortstop on the local premises. The tiny Skeeter accepted no fewer than 14 chances, 10 of them assists, some of them none too easy. He also came up with the lone extra base drive of the argument, this an eighth inning double. It was the only safe hit yielded by Grove after the second inning.

The little first inning blast that the Sox didn't regard as serious at the time, but which proved sufficient for the Tigers' purposes, began with a single by Ed Mayo after Ed Borom had popped out. Roy Cullenbine also singled, and when the flurry quieted down momentarily the runners were on third and second. Rudy York drove them home by singling to center. Thereafter the Tigers didn't get a runner past first base until Webb broke the spell with his two bagger in the eighth.

Grove Scores in Third

The Sox picked up their run as the result of their first hit, the producer thereof being Grove. He singled to left with one out in the third and Cullenbine was courteous enough to allow the ball to roll to the fence. The miscue gave Grove time to hike for third. He scored from there on Wally Moses' tap to Benton, the latter's throw to the plate being a bit too late to serve its purpose.

Bill Nagel opened the fourth with the Sox second hit, but nothing followed. Webb erred on Cass Michaels to start the fifth and with two out Mayo dubbed Moses' grounder. Oris Hockett wasn't able to take advantage of the situation. After this the Sox threatened mildly only a couple times. Moses walked to start the eighth and the next three men dropped in order on infield taps. Then in the ninth Tony Cuccinello led off with a single, but three successive force plays put a quick stop to everything.

If the weather is summery enough tomorrow Thornton Lee will work the final against Hal Newhouser. In the event of unfavorable conditions Earl Caldwell will be substituted for Lee. Caldwell is a down payment case from the Brewers and Dykes wants to find out what should be done.

INDIANS DEFEAT BROWNS, 2-1, IN 1ST NIGHT GAME

Reynolds Wins 13 Inning Pitchers' Battle

St. Louis, Mo., May 2 (AP)—A run in the 13th inning brought victory to the Cleveland Indians over the American league champion St. Louis Browns, 2 to 1, tonight to sadden the hearts of 12,487 St. Louis fans who sat thru three and a half hours of baseball in 42 degree weather.

Allie Reynolds, big fast ball artist, went all the way for Cleveland and thoroly deserved his victory. Reynolds was faced with three men on and no out in the 12th, only to pull out without a run.

Cleveland's winning run was made off Bob Muncrief who went to the mound for the Browns in the 13th after Nelson Potter, the starter, had retired for a pinch hitter. Mike Rocco singled, moved to third on Myrl Hoag's single and scored on Ed Carnett's single, his third hit of the game.

The game, first night contest of the year in the Major leagues, saw the Browns raise their 1944 American league pennant, first junior circuit flag-raising ever held in the Mound city.

FRICK VETOES GIANTS' PROTEST OF BOSTON LOSS

New York, May 2 (AP)—President Ford Frick of the National league today refused to allow the protest of the New York Giants of the second game of the April 19 double header in Boston, won by the Braves, 13 to 5.

Manager Mel Ott of the Giants protested the game following the reversal of the original decision after one ball had been pitched to the next batter in the Braves' four run third inning. The argument revolved around a batted ball which hit Garden Gillenwater of the Braves after being deflected by Ewald Pyle, Giants' pitcher. Umpire Bill Stewart called Gillenwater out but was reversed by Umpire George Magerkurth after Manager Bob Coleman of Boston pointed out the ball first hit Pyle's glove.

Frick censured Stewart, Magerkurth, and the other two umpires, Walter Henline and Tom Dunn, for slowness in making the correct decision.

Nelson and McSpaden Win in Omaha Best Ball Match

Cards Defeat Pirates, 4-2; Lose 2d, 11-1

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 2 (AP)—After dropping the first game of a double header, 4 to 2, the Pittsburgh Pirates broke out in the other with a smashing seven run, sixth inning to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 11 to 1, before 6,159 fans.

In the first game Southpaw Harry Brecheen held the Pirates to seven hits while the Cardinals nicked Rip Sewell for 12 in eight innings. Augie Gergamo doubled in the sixth to drive in a run and break at 1 to 1 deadlock.

In the second game, Pittsburgh jumped on Blix Donnelly in the sixth to score seven runs on five hits. The Pirates garnered 13 hits off four Card hurlers while Max Butcher, winning his second game, yielded only seven.

GIANTS BEAT PHILS, 9-8

Philadelphia, May 2 (AP)—After seeing a seven run lead go up in the air in addition to Pitcher Bill Voiselle the New York Giants came back with a run in the eighth inning to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 9 to 8, in a loosely played game today.

For the second time in less than a week, the bulky 240 pound Ernie Lombardi beat out a bunt today. Ernie, who has stolen only eight bases in 15 years, accomplished this latest speed stunt when he outlegged a tap toward Third Baseman Don Hasenmayer of the Philadelphia Phillies. His first came last Friday at the expense of Third Baseman Bill Hart and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

tinguished flying cross, air medal with 11 oak leaf clusters, and the silver star. Seventy per cent of Purdue's 474 athletic letter men known to be in service are commissioned officers.

The Boilermakers have played to more football spectators on their home field in their last three seasons than in the three campaigns preceding the war. The count is 180,000 to 144,000. Last year's 79,000 was tops for the last six years. Additional evidence that 1943 was the low year for Western conference athletics is shown by Purdue's skimpy 41,000 gridiron spectators.

Three Coaches in Service

In the four basketball seasons beginning with 1941-'42 the Boilermakers attracted 256,800 to its home contests, as compared to 338,400 in the four pre-war years. This decrease, explains Bob Woodworth, athletic publicity director, is traceable to reduction in the student body and not to any marked lapse of interest by the public.

Purdue has sent three of its coaches into military service. These are Lt. [j. g.] W. P. [Dutch] Fehring, Lt. M. H. [Mel] Tabue, and Lt. [j. g.] Emmett Lowery, all in the navy. Purdue knows all about global warfare. Its sturdy young men have died in Tunisia, the Canal Zone, France, Italy, India, England, Java, China, Bataan, South Pacific, and in this country.

CROWN WINNERS IN FOUR ROLLER SKATING EVENTS

Titles in the girls, boys, junior dance and women's novice figure skating events were decided yesterday in Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway as part of a three-day program for Illinois amateur roller skating championships. Finals will be held tomorrow.

Winners of yesterday's events: Girls — Won by Susan Kershaw; Gloria West, second; Donna Summers, third. Boys—Won by Richard Smith. Junior dance—Won by West and Beutlich; Henderson and Smith, second; Oursler and Frank [Lyon, Ill.] third. Women's novice—Won by Betty Riebock; Gladys Gregorich [Joliet, Ill.] second; Gilda Mazzuca, third.

This morning the men's novice figure skating event will be held, followed by the novice pair and novice dancing.

SENATORS MAY LOSE HAEFNER, DUTCH LEONARD

Washington, D. C., May 2 (AP)—Two of the Washington Senators' veteran pitchers, Mickey Haefner, and Dutch Leonard, may be lost to services.

Haefner took a pre-induction physical examination in Baltimore and rejoined his teammates in Boston yesterday without learning his status. Leonard will be examined in Illinois and will join the club in St. Louis next week.

If Haefner and Leonard enter service, the team's chances of finishing in the first division will just about be wrecked, club officials said today.

The Hispanos-All-Stars game will be preceded by a contest between two Chicago junior teams

BLAME IN FOOD CRISIS PLACED ON U.S. ALONE

Investigators Urge Drastic Moves

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., May 2—Blame for the nation's dwindling food stocks and mushrooming growth of black markets was placed squarely on bungling of government food control agencies today by a special house committee investigating food shortages.

Rep. Anderson

The committee, headed by Rep. Anderson [D., N. M.], declared in an interim report that the administration's "half-way measures" will not solve food scarcities. It called for a "fresh approach," which the public can vigorously support, to meet the food crisis.

Fair Profit Margins Asked

The group's nine point remedial program included a demand for coordination of all food administration, assignment of "first priority" of food production, and guarantee of fair profit margins to producers to boost output.

In dealing with meat, the report called for "fair margins" to the industry to discourage black markets and for higher incentive subsidies for heavier animals, to encourage fattening of live stock.

"There must be action now," the report said. "The price line is weakening. It must be held. Time is working on the side of scarcity, and if time is wasted and coördination not achieved, black markets will have cracked price control irreparably."

The committee found that multifold regulations by various agencies have discouraged food output at a time when exports are at an all-time high level, and have upset the entire food production and distribution machinery.

Unless the office of price administration adjusts meat price relationships quickly, the committee warned, "there will be increased scarcity rather than less."

Get Sympathetic Hearing

The full committee submitted the report personally to President Truman at the White House, and members reported a sympathetic hearing.

Meanwhile, however, both senators and congressmen went to bat with Truman, in the first major rift between the new President and Capitol hill, over his public defense yesterday of OPA.

Sen. Taft [R., O.] told reporters Truman's "indiscriminate praise of OPA" removed all possibility of a unanimous report by the senate banking committee on a bill to extend the life of the agency beyond June 30. Taft said he will join others in condemning "many OPA practices contrary to law that have caused injustice and serious maladjustment."

The house group's report said blame for the food crisis is attributable to policies of numerous federal agencies, including OPA, the war food administration, and the army.

It declared the "greatest mistake" in meat price control was OPA's attempt to fix retail ceilings first and then "work backward."

"All phases of distribution became dislocated," the report said. Subsidies have been interjected at various points, but have been revised constantly and do not yet reflect a proper relationship between different essential steps in processing and distribution to provide for each a generally equitable margin."

Tells Other Mistakes

Another "fundamental mistake" was failure to expand cold storage space for foods so federal agencies could buy up and store food to support prices during temporary surplus periods. As a result of inadequate storage, it explained, the administration failed to keep its promises to farmers to support prices, and output dropped.

The army, the report continued, reduced its purchases of meat, especially pork, last year when supplies were abundant, and is now seeking to offset this error by buying more meat than ever.

Black markets can be curbed, the report said, only if prices are adjusted to permit legitimate operators a fair return. Rigid black market controls must be applied at the source, the group added.

It rejected the idea of boosting retail prices, but proposed an increase in federal subsidies on better grades of cattle to permit packers to pay $4 more a hundredweight for heavy than for thin cattle. An increase of $1 a hundredweight, to $13.50, in hog support prices was proposed to encourage output.

The committee proposed separate ration points for meat only. It recommended "special inducements" to poultry, fish, and sugar producers to encourage output.

Mine Dispute Is Headed for White House

Washington, D. C., May 2 (AP)—The anthracite mining shutdown headed toward the White House tonight and possible federal seizure of the mines. The war labor board sent the controversy to Economic Stabilization Director Davis, who is expected to refer it to President Truman.

The President may find it feasible to appeal to the 72,000 miners in the hard coal fields of eastern Pennsylvania to return to work, or he may direct that the government take control.

Operates Soft Coal Mines

Already Secretary of the Interior Ickes, as solid fuels administrator, is operating more than 200 bituminous mines as a result of an order of President Roosevelt April 10 accompanying the soft coal wage controversy.

The board took action in the hard coal case after its order that production be resumed failed to bring results. Yesterday it directed an indefinite extension of the contract between operators and the United Mine Workers which expired April 30. Negotiations have been carried on unsuccessfully in New York for more than two weeks. The deadlock is the result of differences over pay for travel inside the mines.

Operators agreed to the extension, altho they had asked that it be limited to 30 days. Spokesmen for John L. Lewis, union president, said, however, they would have to refer it to the union scale committee.

Order 6,000 to Work

Springfield, Ill., May 2 (AP)—Illinois mine union leaders today called on about 6,000 idle members to resume work immediately in 18 pits.

UMW President Hugh White ordered 4,000 workers at seven Peabody Coal company shafts in Franklin county and near Danville and Springfield to end a "strike in violation of contract." About 2,000 idle Progressive miners in Saline county received a personal plea from John Marchiando, president of the AFL union.

The union officials attributed the stoppages to confusion over newly signed working agreements.

SEEK TO ANNUL NU ENAMEL CORP. STOCK OPTIONS

A minority group of stockholders of Nu Enamel corporation has filed suit in Circuit court to enjoin three company officials from exercising an option to purchase 100,000 shares of the company's common stock at $8 a share. The suit names as defendants H. Frank Pitts, president and director; W. L. Lloyd, chairman, and O. M. Norby, secretary and treasurer.

The option was approved by stockholders at a special meeting last November when the common stock was increased from 325,000 to 500,000 shares. It expires Dec. 31, 1947.

Atty. Charles A. Boyle, representing the minority group, alleged the officers were perpetuating themselves in control of and profiting at the expense of the company. Lloyd said the charges were "absolutely false and unfounded," and termed the action a "nuisance suit."

Illinois Oil Production Tax Bill Is Pigeonholed

Springfield, Ill., May 2 (AP)—The house revenue committee today pigeonholed a bill for a new 3 per cent Illinois oil production tax. It would replace ar invalidated 1941 levy. The sponsor, Rep. James O. Monroe [D., Collinsville], said its assignment to a subcommittee was intended to kill it.

KEMMERER ASSAILS WORLD BANK PLANS, ASKS RETURN TO GOLD

Washington, D. C., May 2 (AP)—Edwin Walter Kemmerer, professor emeritus of international finance, Princeton university, today opposed the Bretton Woods plan for an international bank and currency stabilization fund.

He said it was too complicated and proposed to the house banking committee that the government immediately declare "its intention to rehabilitate its own gold standard after the war," then call a conference of other nations desiring to restore the international gold standard.

"Under any plan it is the rehabilitation needs of the next 10 years or so with which we are most concerned," he asserted. "During those years the United States as the world's only important creditor nation will have to provide most of the funds. Since we shall have to assume the principal risk, we should control the terms of the investments."

WARNS AGAINST SUBSIDIZING OF RAILS' RIVALS

Help Roads Remain Strong, Budd Asks

The railroads after the war probably will handle two-thirds of the nation's transportation burden and if they are to maintain the financial condition necessary to do this they should be protected against undue governmental financing of their competitors, Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad, said yesterday at the annual stockholders meeting.

Budd explained that there is danger of oversubsidizing the railroads' competitors. Excessive expansion of the transportation system as a whole would cause a wild struggle for business among all forms of transportation. Not having the benefit of the subsidies granted the others, the railroads would be at a disadvantage in meeting this competition and inevitably their credit would suffer, he said.

Urges Wider Control

Before the railroads can expand, Budd said, they first must show the interstate commerce commission that expansion would be justified—that it would not disturb competitors in their own fields. This policy has been followed since 1920, he said, and it would be wise to extend a similar control over competitive forms of transportation.

A strong credit position must be maintained if the railroads are to meet their obligations, handle their current business, and carry on development that will enable them to provide for future needs, he said.

The Burlington expects heavier west bound and lighter east bound traffic after V-E day as Pacific war needs increase. Budd said that the grain car situation is improving in Burlington territory. The road loaded 50 per cent more grain in 28 days in April than in the corresponding 1944 period.

Handles Record Traffic

Budd said the Burlington in 1944 provided more transportation than in any previous year in its history, with 60 per cent of its effort devoted to meeting war demands. Passenger miles in 1944 exceeded the previous high revenue year of 1920 by 69 per cent. However, because fares were so much lower in 1944 than in 1920, the revenue increase was only 20 per cent. Freight revenue outstripped the pre-war peak of 1920 by nearly 40 per cent, altho rates were lower than in 1920.

The road's net income in 1944 was $24,647,122, compared with $28,231,264 in 1943, the decline resulting from higher wages and higher costs of materials. The tax collector got $33.48 a share. The net income was $14.43 a share, of which $3 was paid in dividends and the remainder used to reduce debt.

BEST HEIFERS, STEERS RISE TO PEAKS FOR MAY

Brisk competition for good steers yesterday raised their average price to $16.50 a hundred pounds, the highest May level on record in Chicago. Best heifers sold 25 cents higher with the top $17.90, the same as for best steers.

A consignment of 1,112 pound Hereford heifers brought the top price, which was highest since August, 1919, and the highest May heifer sale in the history of the stock yards. The former May peak, established last year, was $17. In March, 1919, $18.50 was paid.

The cattle market was extremely uneven in all except the best grades. Some sellers reported price cuts of 25 cents in fair quality offerings. Slightly increased supplies of hogs were sold to eager buyers at ceiling prices. Arrivals totaled 10,000, directs to packers included. Sheep and lambs sold steady to 15 cents lower. The $16.35 top was lowest since mid-February.

DIAMOND T HAS YEAR'S BACKLOG OF WAR ORDERS

Diamond T Motor Car company, Chicago, has a backlog of military orders totaling approximately 100 million dollars, enough to assure capacity operation for the remainder of the year, C. A. Tilt, president, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday.

He said April production was highest for any month in the company's history, with 1,670 trucks shipped. The company's current military product, 4 ton trucks, is in heavy demand on the Asiatic front, he said.

Sales at Peak, Earnings Rise for Gen. Foods

General Foods corporation yesterday reported sales were $86,669,614 in the first quarter of 1945, an all time peak which compared with $78,312,122 a year earlier. Net profit in the quarter was $3,785,822, or 68 cents a share, against $3,458,800, or 62 cents a share.

Earnings of Paramount Pictures during the fiscal year ended Dec. 30 were $16,488,106, or $4.39 a share, after a 1½ million reserve for contingencies. The 1944 earnings included $1,745,000 which represented the company's interest in the combined undistributed earnings of partly owned nonconsolidated companies. Profits in 1943 on the same basis were $16,140,821, or $4.30 a share.

Pittston company had consolidated net income of $1,527,316 last year compared with $1,755,898 in 1943. The company also announced the purchase of 63.2 per cent of the common stock of the Clinchfield Coal corporation for $2,603,022 and 67.3 per cent of stock of Davis Coal and Coke company for $1,445,004.

Earnings of Parke Davis & Co. in the first quarter of 1945 were $1,901,469 or 39 cents a share, compared with adjusted earnings of $1,937,868, or 40 cents a share, last year.

PROPOSED EQUAL FIRE INSURANCE PAY IS OPPOSED

Approval by the Illinois legislature of a pending bill which would compel fire insurance companies to pay uniform commissions to agents thruout Illinois would work a hardship on Chicago agents because their relative pay level would be reduced, a Chicago representative of a large fire insurance company said yesterday. The measure has advanced thru three readings in the house.

Higher commissions have been paid in Chicago and other large cities for years as so-called "excepted cities" in which the cost of doing business is larger because of higher rents and other cost factors, the spokesman said. He explained that many agencies were established on the basis of the differential and contended the insurance business "could not stand" the cost of bringing downstate commissions up to the Chicago level.

GRAIN MARKETS END IRREGULAR; MAY RYE HIGHER

Uncertainty as to how peace in Europe would affect the grain markets caused erratic price changes yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. May rye advanced 2¼ cents a bushel early, but reacted on profit taking and finished 1¼ cents higher. Deferred delliveries of rye were unchanged to ⅜ lower. Wheat was ¼ to ⅝ lower, corn ⅛ higher to ¼ lower, oats ¼ higher to ¾ lower, and barley ⅛ to ½ lower.

Professional traders and cash grain dealers were on both buying and selling sides of wheat, corn, and rye. Brokers reported outside interest was light, which accounted for part of the market irregularity.

Large shipments of rye, partly via barge to New Orleans and presumably for export, led to predictions of another sizable reduction in stocks, following a decrease of more than 300,000 bushels last week.

Marquette National Bank Opening Set for May 12

The newly chartered Marquette National bank, 6314-20 S. Western av., will open May 12, John F. McCarthy, chairman of the board of directors, announced yesterday. James H. Corey, former trust officer of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, will be president and a director. Other directors are Adam J. Riffel, George E. Stracham, and Daniel J. McCarthy. The bank will have a capitalization of $265,000.

People and Events

The Ammunition Container corporation plant of the American Can company, Harvey, has been awarded the Army-Navy E. Formal presentation will be made by Col. T. C. Gerber at the plant May 25.

The National Safety council presented to the automotive division of the Studebaker corporation an "award of honor" in recognition of a 45 per cent reduction in accident frequency and 65 per cent in accident severity in 1944.

Boyd N. Everett, treasurer of Continental Casualty and Continental Assurance companies, was elected vice president and treasurer of both companies. He will continue to serve as chief investment officer.

Frank E. Martin was appointed controler of the Illinois Central railroad, and the position of general auditor previously held by Martin was abolished, announced R. E. Connolly, vice president.

Cargo flights will be discussed by Paul E. Burbank, development manager of United Air Lines' air cargo department, at the annual meeting of the Purchasing Agents Association of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman next Thursday.

Leroy J. Taylor has been promoted from assistant general manager to general manager of the California fruits division of Libby, McNeill & Libby. He succeeds W. A. Gellersen who has retired after 46 years with Libby.

R. R. Adams, vice president and western division manager of Corn Products Sales company, is moving to New York after 10 years in Chicago. Adams will continue to supervise western division branch offices and sales of both bulk and package products in this territory.

S. De Witt Clough, president of Abbott Laboratories, was awarded a gold medal by the Art Directors' Club of Chicago for raising the standard of advertising art, announced Harold C. Jensen, club president.

Richard Mueller, assistant secretary of Commonwealth Edison company completed his 45th year with the company. He started as a junior clerk in the president's office and now heads the stock transfer department.

C. A. Skogland, Studebaker corporation plastics engineer, will address the spring meeting of the midwest section of the Society of the Plastics Industries tomorrow evening in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

ARMY REDUCING ENGINE DEMANDS IN NEW CUTBACK

Washington, D. C., May 2 (AP)—In line with its projected cutbacks in plane production, the army has started trimming its demands for airplane engines, it was learned today.

The WPB production readjustment committee already has received an army air forces recommendation for cancellation of the contract of the Continental Engine and Aviation corporation for Rolls-Royce Merlin engines, effective at the end of May. Other reductions also were reported in prospect.

The Continental cancellation would make Packard Motor Car company the only United States producer of the British designed Merlin engine. American made Merlins are used in P-51 Mustang fighters and in some British planes.

STOCKS RECOUP PART OF LOSS, CLOSE LOWER

Steel, Rail, Motor Issues Rally

New York, May 2 (AP) — Stocks closed irregularly lower in quiet dealings today after losses of more than a point in steels, motors, and rails were pared to fractional declines in late trading.

Wall st. received calmly news that German troops in Italy had surrendered unconditionally, opinion being that the market already had discounted this development. President Truman's statement that "only folly and chaos" could delay a general Nazi defeat strongly revived expectation of an early peace in Europe and caused many investors to trim accounts. Some observers believed final German collapse may result in a "technical corrrection."

Transfers totaled 1,140,000 shares against 1,530,000 the preceding day. The Associated Press 60 stock composite eased 0.1 to 64.7. Of 922 issues traded, 444 declined, 278 advanced, and 200 were unchanged.

Standard Gas and Electric $4, $6, and $7 preferreds rose 1⅛ to 5 points. Lehigh Valley, up 1½, touched a new yearly peak.

BONDS QUIET AND STEADY

New York, May 2 (AP)—Moderate activity in railroad issues marked otherwise quiet trading in the bond market today. Carrier liens were unchanged on average. Gains were recorded for Lehigh Valley 4½s of 2003 stamped, up 2¼, and New Haven 4s of '56, off 1¼, but Katy 5s of '62, series A, were down 1, Philadelphia & Reading 6s of '64 off 2½, and Seaboard Air Line convertible 6s of '45 off 1 point.

Foreign government issues were generally higher. Poland 8s rose 2, Denmark issues advanced ½ to 1½, and Cuba 4½s of '49 were up 1½. United States government loans were steady.

CHICAGO LIST WEAK

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange declined again yesterday on a turnover of 30,000 shares. Automatic Washer corporation at 5¾ established a new 1945 high and gained ¼ point as did Lynch corporation at 35½ with a ½ point gain. Volume leaders included Libby-McNeill, Chicago corporation, and Admiral corporation at unchanged prices.

ASSERTS A. & P. DEMANDED LOW SAUSAGE PRICE

Danville, Ill., May 2 (AP)—W. C. Codling, vice president of the Albany [N. Y.] Packing company, testified today that beginning in 1941, his firm supplied the A. and P. food chain a price list which quoted sausage at 2 cents a pound less than the price list his firm gave other customers.

Codling traced the history of his company's dealing with A. and P. from 1925 thru 1941 and mentioned three times in which he said the chain, when refused lower prices, withdrew its business.

He testified before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley in the government's anti-trust suit against the New York Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company and 28 officers and subsidiaries. The suit alleged conspiracy to restrain trade and gain a monopoly. Among practices alleged was that the A. and P. received preferential prices from manufacturers.

BUSINESS GROUP OPPOSES SINGLE WORLD AIR LINE

Washington, D. C., May 2 (AP)—American business was described before a senate commerce subcommittee today as being "very nearly unanimous" in opposition to using only one United States air line for international air transport.

Alvin D. Barber of the chamber of commerce of the United States said a special committee of the chamber decided that a government monopoly to meet foreign competition in air travel after the war would not work as well as the traditional free competitive system.

"If the way is left open for American brains and ingenuity to exercise themselves, we believe they'll outdistance any foreign competition," he testified.

Big Tennessee Gas Financing Put on Market

Tennessee Gas and Transmission company today will offer thru Dillon Read & Co., Glore, Forgan & Co., and White, Weld & Co., 35 million dollars of 3 per cent 20 year first mortgage bonds and 7½ million of 5 per cent preferred stock. The prices are 102½ on the bonds and 104 on the stock.

Proceeds, along with a 15 million 2 per cent 7½ year bank loan, will be used to retire 44 million of first mortgage notes at 102½ and certain other obligations of the company. The notes were acquired recently from the Reconstruction Finance corporation by Chase National bank, Metropolitan Life Insurance company, Equitable Life Assurance society, First National Bank of Chicago, and Harris Trust and Savings bank. Tennessee Gas is controled by Chicago corporation, of which Richard Wagner is president.

Fairchild Preferred Offered

A banking group headed by Smith, Barney & Co. will offer 90,000 shares of $2.50 cumulative convertible preferred stock of Fairchild Engine and Airplane corporation at $50 a share. Proceeds will be used to reduce bank borrowing and finance development of the company's products.

F. Eberstadt & Co. is offering 85,500 shares of Aircraft Radio corporation common stock at $11 a share. They are offered for the account of certain stockholders and do not represent new financing.

The First National Bank of Chicago yesterday was awarded $6,180,000 of North Western railway 1¾ per cent equipment trust certificates on a bid of 100.331. The issue attracted bids from five underwriters, the lowest of which was 100.17, only 0.161 below the successful bid. The certificates cover approximately 75 per cent of the cost of 1,000 hopper cars, 750 gondola cars, 250 selective hopper cars and 20 streamlined passenger coaches.

Offer Texas Utility Loan

A group headed by First Boston corporation offered 18 million of Texas Electric Service company first mortgage 2¾ per cent bonds, due 1975, at 101. Proceeds with funds from the sale of $2,500,000 of 2½ per cent 10 year serial notes and other cash, will be used to redeem $33,730,000 of 5 per cent bonds, due 1960, at 103. Texas Electric is a subsidiary of American Power & Light company.

Eureka Vacuum Cleaner company registered with the securities and exchange commission 122,500 shares of $5 par common stock. Proceeds will be used to finance certain stock purchases to, which the company obligated itself under a merger agreement with Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating corporation on April 25.

TRUMAN WON'T CHANGE POLICY IN WARD CASE

Washington, D. C., May 2 [Special]—No change in administrative policies in the Montgomery Ward case is contemplated by the government, President Truman said today in responding to a question at his press conference.

The case, which involves the government's right to take over the mail order firm's properties to enforce compliance with a war labor board order, is now before the Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago.

Property of the firm in Chicago and elsewhere was seized by the army on orders of President Roosevelt. The Chicago federal District court ruled that the seizure was illegal, but the army has remained in charge of the firm's operation pending the government's appeal.

COMPETING U. S. PLANTS TERMED UTILITY WORRY

Middle West Profit Dips Half Million

Except for subsidized government competition, the outlook for the electric light and power industry is favorable, Purcell L. Smith, president of Middle West corporation, said yesterday in his annual report to stockholders. The industry will continue to forge ahead if permitted to operate under the competent regulation of state public service commissions without competition from unregulated, tax free public power projects, he asserted.

Purcell L. Smith

Altho few new electrical appliances have been sold for several years, the average use of electricity by residential customers continued its upward trend in 1944.

Middle West's consolidated net income was $3,544,879, or $1.07 a share, last year, compared with $4,006,546, or $1.21 a share, in 1943.

Plan New Rural Lines

All of Middle West's operating companies have an accumulation of requests for farm extensions, and new rural lines will be built as soon as the materials are available.

Vast and costly hydro-electric power projects built by the government during the last 10 years and additional proposed projects will have enormous quantities of electricity to sell after the war, said Smith. Both the government and public would benefit most if output of these plants were sold to tax-paying electric companies with the understanding that savings to private companies thru purchases of power below the cost of generating it in company plants be passed on to their customers.

Basis for Jobs Provided

Smith said that the power industry expected to help provide permanent post-war employment for millions of men and women who would be unable to set up small manufacturing plants and service establishments without dependable electric service.

Consolidated operating revenues in 1944, exclusive of Central Illinois Public Service company in which Middle West does not own a majority of the voting power, amounted to $87,128,041, up 7.4 per cent.

ILLINOIS GROUP BACKS WORLD MONEY SCHEME

Use Petitions, Meetings, and Printed Matter

The Bretton Woods proposals for the establishment of an international monetary fund and bank, to which the United States would contribute about 6 billion dollars, is being supported by the Illinois Bretton Woods committee thru petitions printed matter, and "living room" meetings, a survey disclosed yesterday.

Organized about March 15 under the sponsorship of the Independent Voters of Illinois, the committee is headed by Irving J. Rosenbloom, who operates an advertising agency under his name at 400 N. Michigan av.

Others Active on Committee

Other active members include Mary Jane Herrick, a member of the Chicago Teachers union and a civics teacher in the public schools; Miss Mollie Levitas, associated with the Chicago Federation of Labor; J. Frank Lindsey, realtor, and Mrs. Helena Clayton, advertising executive with Weise & Geller.

Among those who have lent their names to the committee are Marshall Field, James Luther Adams, theological professor at the University of Chicago; R. W. Ballard, Hull House director; the Rev. Preston Bradley, Judge Harry M. Fisher, Judge George L. Quilici, Charles E. Merriam, professor emeritus of political science at the University of Chicago; John H. Sengstacke, publisher of the Chicago Defender; C. M. Wynne, president of the Export Managers Club of Chicago, and Rabbi Jacob L. Weinstein.

Rosenbloom said the organizations active in supporting the committee include the Chicago Industrial Union council, Chicago Teachers union, National Council of Jewish Women, Illinois League of Women Voters, Union for Democratic Action, Abraham Lincoln center, United Transport Workers of America, and Chicago Action council.

Circulates Information

The committee was described by Rosenbloom as a nonpartisan organization which acquaints the public with facts about the Bretton Woods agreements, and obtains signatures to petitions urging congressional adoption of the proposals.

A booklet entitled "The A B Cs of Bretton Woods" is being circulated. The petitions hold out hopes for enduring peace and 60 million jobs thru adoption of the agreements. About 10,000 persons have signed the petitions, it was said.

About 75 living room meetings have been held. Rosenbloom said these and the other activities have been confined largely to the Chicago area, and are not connected with the treasury's propaganda drive to win popular support for the bank and monetary fund.

I. C.'s Panama Limited Finishes 3 Years' Service

The Chicago-New Orleans Panama Limited of the Illinois Central railroad today will complete its third year in service. The company said the diesel-electric streamlined train has traveled more than two million miles and carried approximately 400,000 passengers.

COST OF OCD TO CITY TOPS ONE MILLION

Truman Kills Agency; Mayor Wants It

President Truman's abolition of the office of civilian defense, to become effective June 30, will mean the termination of a federal agency that cost taxpayers in Chicago more than 1 million dollars for the years 1942, 1943, and 1944.

This figure was disclosed yesterday in an examination of records in the city controler's office. It does not include expenses borne by the park district, the board of education, and other city departments for salaries of employes who performed for the OCD. At one time there were more than 100 such employes, but their number was not revealed on the ground that it was a "military secret." Not more than 30 are believed so employed at present.

Amounts Spent Each Year

The OCD cost Chicagoans the following amounts by years:

1942—The sum of $358,000 was spent for promotional activities, such as neighborhood gatherings and the printing of the OCD newspaper, Alert; $76,000 for erection of sirens for air raid warnings, and $22,000 for maintenance of OCD headquarters at 23 N. Wacker dr.

1943 — Promotional activities cost $318,000; maintenance, use, and distribution of protective equipment lent by the federal government, such as white helmets for air raid wardens, fire pumps, hose, gas masks, sand buckets, and chemicals, $48,000; maintenance of the headquarters, $24,000.

1944 — Promotional activities, $166,000; maintenance of federally loaned equipment, $23,000; maintenance of the headquarters, $23,000.

$197,000 Allotted This Year

For 1945 the city council has appropriated $197,000, which includes $150,000 for promotional work, $20,000 for care of equipment, and $27,000 to keep up the OCD headquarters.

Mayor Kelly, Chicago OCD coordinator, said yesterday that he believed the local organization should be continued because of its value in aiding the various salvage campaigns and war bond drives. He added, however, that the 1945 appropriation might be reduced somewhat.

During the last Presidential campaign the OCD was the target of charges that its vast membership was being used by Democrats for political purposes.

POLES HOLD CONSTITUTION RITES TODAY

Chicagoans of Polish descent will mark the 154th anniversary of the adoption of the Polish constitution with a solemn high mass in St. Adalbert's church, 1650 W. 17th st., at 10 a. m. today. The celebrant will be the Rev. Felix Kachnowski, chaplain of the Polish Roman Catholic union, and the sermon will be preached by the Rev. John Domanski, S. J. Dr. Julius Szygowski, Polish consul general in Chicago, will attend the mass with the consular staff. Officers of Polish American organizations also are to be present.

The secular celebration of Constitution day will take place next Sunday at 1 p. m. at the Kosciusko monument in Humboldt park. Francis X. Swietlik, chairman of the Polish War relief and dean of the Marquette university [Milwaukee] school of law, will preside. Mayor Kelly will be among the speakers. The Polish Roman Catholic union is sponsoring the mass and the Polish National alliance the secular observance.

CHIEF'S WIFE FORGIVES AND CHARGE DIES

Charges of disorderly conduct, which had been preferred against William Marsh, Negro chief of police of the all-Negro village of Robbins, by his wife, Addie, were dismissed yesterday by Justice of the Peace William B. Kane in Homewood county highway Police court.

The charges were filed against Marsh on April 17 while he was watching the village hall during the election. His wife had slapped him when he refused to give her money, and he had put her in jail on a disorderly conduct charge. She was freed by her grandson, Lionell Williams, 13, and swore out a warrant for her husband's arrest.

Both the chief and his wife said yesterday they were sorry about the whole thing. Marsh told his wife, however, that the next time he locked her up he would post a special guard outside her cell.

Redeem Two Million County Tax Warrants

County Treasurer Schlaeger announced yesterday that he had redeemed, from 1944 tax receipts, 2 million dollars of tax anticipation warrants issued by the county early in 1944. The warrants constitute a first lien on tax collections. Last year the first warrant redemption was delayed by the tax payment deadline until after July 1.
